Tonic for Pessimists

New York Financial Chronicle.

While the business man who is seized with fright every time he hears the tariff discussed, while the banker is complaining that we haven't a currency sufficiently elastic, and while the average citizen feels a mood of economy stealing over him, nature seems unperturbed and is working overtime to shower blessings on all sides. Old Sol is blessing Mother Earth with his rich and warm rays in a sacrificial effort to give us a bountiful harvest this fall, and thereby arouse frail human nature from its pronounced case of dejection and the pip.

They may cut the tariff if they wish to, they may give the nation a better currency system, but no congress can stop old Sol from making the earth give forth an unusual bounty of riches in the form of bumper crops.

The first crop report published last week is a real tonic for whatever depression envelops us now. It is out of the wealth that must be moved and consumed. If nature's moods do not go awry before the harvest we may confidently look for new yields which will exceed Hill's great dream of $9,000,000,000.

Imagine what this wealth means to commerce of this country. Think what t represents to the prosperity of the na-

It will be crops, nothing else, which will prove the saving situation for this country next fall. We may then have so much money as to become even indiscreet enough to buy automobiles. And the soup houses about which we hear the croakers talk so much will again fade away as a mere memory of 1893.

Protection for the Birds NEW YORK, May 10 .- To the Editor of The Bee: Members of the Audubon soclety are deeply interested in legislation relating to the protection of birds. The aigrette is torn from the live mother bird in the nesting season and the little ones are left to starve. Intelligent, kindhearted women wear these aigretter, hirds of paradise and other hat adornments because they are ignorant as to the manner in which these things are obtained. No self-respecting woman (and, above all, no mother) with anything resembling a heart, will consent to wear aigrettes or certain furs, once she has learned of the unspeakable horrors that Dodge's speech at the meeting of the Eagles in Council Bluffs, that the good general refers to Council Bluffs. In., as the place where Lewis and Clark held their council with the Indians and that it had even then been known as the "council bluffs," I dislike to differ from so good a historian as General Grenville M. Dodge, but must If one will refer to the published edition of Lewis and Clark's journal which is in the Omaha public library, he will find that Lewis and Clark did not hold their counsel with the Indians in or near where Council Bluffs now stands nor even on the east side of the Missouri river. Their journal distinctly locates their council on a bluff on the west side -the bluff on which Fort Calhoun was afterwards built.

This is also referred to in George Catlin's book with that story of his wonderful travels among the Indians and and obstinate cases, his remarkable drawings of them and their life scenes. You will also note moving the cause. About Dandellons. SOUTH OMAHA, May 12.-To the EMitor of The Bee: It has come to my notice lately and I have heard others speak of that where white clover is pretty thick, dandelions do not grow as well as they do in other places. White clover seems to retard the growth of dandelions. For my own part I do not think they are such ugly flowers, for in some place they really improve the looks of things. It is impossible to exterminate them, so people might as well take them as they come for they will grow as long as vegetation grows. There are worse things to worry about than dandelions anyhow F. A. AGNEW.

Sure Death to Dandelions. WATERLOO, Neb., May 18 .- To the Editor of The Bee: As Omaha seems cent or dandellon warfare. I wish to suggest, although somewhat late, a much simpler and more efficient means of destruction than digging, and one that does not disfigure the lawn.

Gasoline is death to dandelions, In applying it, it is best to use an ordinary "spring bottom" machine oil can, holding one-half to one pint. Pour from one-half to two teaspoonfuls on the center of the plant. By the next day the plant turns brown at the center, and in a few days the entire plant is dead. It is equally useful in destroying "plantain," the next worst lawn pest. Care shold be taken to not spill the gasoline on the grass, as it will kill it as well as the L S. GOULD.
