USUAL PRICES. Coming Sept. 19th to 22nd, "THE HUSTLER." CITY AND STATE

The Second Ward Republican Club has suspended meeting until after the fair. Hon. B. F. Thomas has returned from Boston, where he attended the triennial convocation of the Knights Templar. Hon. C. O. Lobeck was called to Blair, Neb., Friday, by the death of his father-in-law, one of the old settlers of the state, having come here early in the sixties.

Our friend W. W. Slabaugh will in all probability have a solid delegation to the Republican convention from the Ninth Ward who would like to see him nominated for District Judge. Mr. Slabaugh is a good lawyer and would make a good judge.

Hon. C. E. Bates, of the Bates-Smith Investment Co., has just returned from a business and pleasure trip in the west and northwest. Among other places he visited, Butte, Mont., where he met the mayor and many of the business men. Some years ago this city had reputation of being one of the "toughest" cities in the west, but now through the wholesome influence of the A. P. A., and the level-headed Protestants, Butte is now among the best governed cities.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Boyd was filled with happy laughing people this week. They were there to see Pauline Hall in "Dorcas," and they saw her as only Pauline Hall can be seen, at her best, petite, sweet and winsome. Yet, while everybody admired her, while they accorded her a prominent place as an actress they did not forget the magnificent cast assisting her. Without this display of talent much of the charms about Pauline would have vanished, but with them surrounding and supporting her, her talent flashed with exceeding brilliance.

The John Stapleton company played a return engagement at the Creighton this week. The first three nights they appeared in "American's Abroad," and the last three in "The Charity Ball." Mr. Gidney as Richard Fairbanks, Herbert E. Sears as Landolphe, Paul Gilmore as Gilbert Raymond, Miss Bernice Wheeler as Florence Winthrop and the Misses Strickland as Jessie Fairbanks and Baroness DeBeaumont were exceptionally strong, although we hardly think Mr. Sears makes as good a Frenchman of leisure as he did a rascally politician in "The Wife." The acting of Miss Strickland as a society broker, in "Americans Abroad," and as a jealous, disappointed woman, in "The Wife," appeared to be of equal strength.

Roland Reed is at the Boyd next week. And who does not know Roland, a jovial, light-hearted man a half-fellow-well-met; the pride of his associates and a peer in his profession. For years the theatre goers have watched the coming of Roland Reed expectantly, fondly hoping that circumstances would permit them to see him again. They will appreciate this new opportunity. He is to appear every night next week. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in "The Politician." Wednesday and Thursday in "Lend me your wife" and Friday and Saturday in "As Innocent as a Lamb." No one can afford to miss seeing him in at least one of those plays. He is supported by an able company.

"The Derby Winners" are at the Creighton next week. See Roland Reed next week at the Boyd

A PROPHECY. What an English Reform Paper Thinks of the Situation in America. The signs of the times indicate that before the sun rises on January 1, 1900, the great American nation will groan and writhe in an agony of revolution, and the streets of all her great cities will be slippery with blood, a hundred drops of blood for each gem that flashes on the necks of rich and pampered women, and ten drops of blood for each tear that has washed the faces of the poor. Politics is so rotten that it stinks. America is no longer a republic. It is a plutocracy. The president is merely the creation of bank directors, railroad kings and coal barons; and it is the same with the governors of the states. The poor whine about poverty and gnaw their crusts of bread, but can always be relied on to vote for the rich, and nine-tenths of them would shoulder their muskets in defense of the right of rich to rob them. A nation such as this, in which 1,000,000 plutocrats tyrannize over 60,000,000 slaves will either be overthrown by a foreign foe or die of gangrene. The various labor organizations neither think together, vote together nor work together, and they have no money to buy votes; lawyers and judges, soldiers and police shoot down laboring people and are cheered on in their bloody work by monopolists and the clergy. But the day will soon come when there will be a horrible dance to death, lighted up by burning houses, and the music and cries and groans of dynamite bombs. Rich idlers amuse themselves at Newport and Tuxedo; poor workers toil ceaselessly in the darkness of the mine and the den of the mill. Young men and women dawdle over lead champagne and opera parties; old men and women pick rotten food out of the garbage cans; lap-dogs are driven through Central Park to take the air; children die of overwork in filthy garrets. Piety in the White House is enjoying the fruits of bribery—infidelity in the tenement houses enduring the punishment of uprightness.

These are the signs of the times in America to-day—signs that point to calamity too dreadful to imagine, but which nothing can avert.—London Echo. The Same Old Story. The State of Michigan is convulsed. A strike prevails among the miners of Marquette county, attended with lawlessness in which the rights of person and of property are unblushingly violated. The governor has called out the state guards, and if blood is not shed it will be a wonder. It is sincerely hoped that better counsel will prevail and that a bloody tragedy may be averted. Looking for causes we find the old, old story. The last census shows that Marquette is not an American county. Its population, according to the last census, was within a few hundred of forty thousand. Of these, only 3,371 were natives, born of native parents. All the remainder are either foreigners or born of foreign parents. They have come to our shores with erroneous ideas as to liberty. Obedience to law they regard as a species of slavery. They carry these ideas into their business relations, their relations to their employers. They interpret liberty as meaning that they may do as they please regardless of law. They imagine that they have a right to forcibly resist whatever falls short of their conceptions of selfish rights, and they fail to take the right of others into consideration. It may be that nothing but Gatling guns and bayonets will convince them that others than themselves have rights. It is a terrible argument to use; but sometimes nothing else will do. It would be much better to prevent such things by beginning earlier. Begin on the other side of the water. Begin at Castle Garden. Let the beginning be with the national Congress. Let us have a great big filter, through which the stream of immigration from the old world shall pass before it can become a part of the population of the United States. The interests of both labor and capital demand it. Our labor market is already overcrowded and has been for years. Close the gates, and admit only such hereafter as we have reason to believe will become good citizens and not disturbers of the peace. This is America, and we want no population that does not love the flag and the free institutions over which it triumphantly floats.—Knoxville (Tennessee) Daily Journal.

Held to the Grand Jury. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 7.—Readers of THE AMERICAN will remember an account of the arrest in this city, a short time ago, of Rev. Father Becker, a Roman Catholic priest of this diocese, on a warrant charging him with criminal assault on the person of one of his lady parishioners, in Harrison county, where he was in the habit of conducting services at a mission. At the time of his arrest the priest raised the cry of "blackmail." But the affair seems to have turned out to be a very serious matter. A special to-day from Bethany, the county seat of Harrison, says: "The examination of Rev. Father Becker, charged with assaulting one of his parishioners, Mrs. Victoria Higdon, of Clay township, Harrison county, resulted to-day in holding the reverend father in a bond of $1,000 for a grand jury investigation. The case will come up in the Harrison county circuit court, to be held in October. Prosecuting Attorney Frisby will endeavor to enforce the law against the priest, and there is a universal feeling of indignation in the Catholic church caused by his treatment of Mrs. Higdon." By the way, isn't it rather peculiar that the "universal feeling of indignation in the Catholic church" mentioned in the above dispatch never shows itself until all the world is talking about a priest's frailties? If no warrant had been issued for the reverend culprit, it is safe to say that the "indignation" would never have been heard of.

ARE NOT PLEASED.

Methodist Ministers Complain of the Pope's Treatment of Their Petition. At the Methodist ministers' meeting to-day the committee appointed some time ago to investigate the charges that Protestants in South America were persecuted by the Catholics made its report. The report was quite lengthy, and recited the fact that while the Methodist Church of America had united in a protest to Pope Leo against the treatment of Protestants in a Catholic country and had pleaded for a broader Christian feeling, their communication, carried to Rome by Cardinal Gibbons, had been practically ignored. The committee concluded the report by saying that in the near future it was expected to present expressions of opinion from some distinguished members of the holy Catholic church in Europe concerning the religious disabilities imposed upon Protestants in Roman Catholic countries.—Chicago Daily Dispatch.

Trample on the American Flag.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Sept. 8.—The Salvation Army, eleven all told, appeared to-night with the American flag on High street, and marched to the public square, followed by a large crowd of boys, who rent the air with their yells. No sooner did the army halt and kneel in prayer than it was jostled on all sides by the boys and young men who were there for fun and excitement. They felt at liberty to raise a racket, as Mayor Sunkel virtually had withdrawn his protection, and no policeman appeared until the army beat a retreat for its headquarters. It did not retire, however, until the American flag had been torn and trampled on. In the meantime citizens informed police headquarters that was occurring and Policemen Burke and Kaufman succeeded in capturing one of the leaders, John Addeisdorf, a bar-keeper, who threw a missile which struck the base drum.

The scene was witnessed by hundreds of people, who had gathered there expecting to see a riot, for on two previous occasions firecrackers were thrown into the ranks of the army and no arrests had followed. Some say that the participants in the attack should be arrested, while others think the army should be prosecuted, and others were so disgusted that they thought that both the army and its tormentors should be locked up.

After arriving at headquarters a collection was taken up for another flag and in a few minutes Captain Heerd reported that he had $3.50. Major J. Caddy, the division commander, and Captain Irwin, the secretary, arrived here this morning and were with the army while it was being so rudely handled.

Rome's Claws Clipped.

ATCHISON, Kansas, Sept. 10, 1895.—The pope's own—The Clan-na-Gael, A. O. H., et al.—met their "Sedan," last Tuesday, when they attempted to nominate a Catholic candidate for sheriff of Atchison county on the Republican ticket. Sheriff Larkin threw down the gantlet, last spring, when he declared that every man on the Republican ticket was an A. P. A. ticket. Without any flourish of trumpets or fan-faradone, he was struck across the face with the same gage of battle, which resulted in an almost entire Republican victory. His cold-blooded, peculiar style of stabbing in the back the man to whom he owed his two terms, so aroused and united the Republicans that the yellow rag of Rome, that alien banner, was trailed low in the dust of utter defeat last week. Then Czar Larkin bolts the whole ticket and the Republican party forever. Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed, That he hath grown so great? Great in his own estimation and that of a few fool Protestants with vertebrae likened unto that of an angle-worm—who babble softly of the duty of this alleged A. P. A. convention to conciliate Mr. Larkin and his gang. It is amusing to "a man up a tree," to see how certain politicians are striving to clamber into the "Band-wagon" since the claws of the Romish tiger were clipped the other day. Yours faithfully, A. F.

From an Eye Witness. The following letter, dated in April, 1891, was from a correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce: Inquisition: In Turin I met the American consul to Rome, who had passed through the revolution, in the Eternal City; and who was present when the inquisition was opened by the decree of the Triumvir; its prisoners released, and the building converted into an asylum for the poor. It was interesting to hear from the lips of an eye-witness the most ample confirmation of the published statements relative to the condition and appearance of this iniquitous establishment. The Holy Inquisition of Rome is situated near the Pota Cavalligieri, and under the very shadow of the sublime dome of St. Peter's Cathedral, and capable, in case of emergency, of accommodating 3,000 persons. The consul was particularly struck with the imposing dimensions of the Chamber of Archives, filled with voluminous documents, records and papers. Here were piled all the proceedings and decisions of the Holy Office, from the very birth of the Inquisition, including its correspondence with its collateral branches in both hemispheres. Upon the third floor, over a certain door, was an inscription: "Speak to the first inquisitor," over another, "Nobody enters this chamber, except on pain of excommunication." That chamber was the Solemn Hall of Judgment, or Doom room, where the fate of thousands has been sealed in death. Over a door directly opposite was the inscription: "Speak to the second inquisitor." Upon opening the door of that apartment a trap door was exposed, from which the condemned, after leaving the Hall of Judgment, stepped into eternity. The well or pit beneath the trap door was built in cylindrical form, ninety feet deep, and so ingeniously provided with projecting knives and cutlasses that the bodies of the victims must have been dreadfully mangled in the descent. At the bottom of the abyss were quantities of hair and bones; also in several of the lower chambers were found human bones. In some places they appeared to have been mortared in the walls. The usual instruments of torture in such establishments were likewise manifest.

Two Ways To Advertise-- A wrong way and a right way. The wrong way costs money and brings nothing but sorrow, chagrin and disbelief in the efficacy of the greatest money-making power of modern times. The right way is--well, it's different. Some people claim there's only one way to learn to advertise aright--through bitter experience. They're wrong. Let others do the experimenting. YOU learn by their experience. Avoid the pitfalls into which they have fallen. Note the pathways that have led them to success. Where can you find this information? In "Printer's Ink," A journal for advertisers, published weekly at 10 Spruce St., New York. It is as full of bright ideas, helpful suggestions and valuable advice as an egg is of meat. As necessary to the advertiser who spends $100 a year as to him whose annual appropriation exceeds a hundred thousand. If you subscribe for "Printer's Ink," you will look forward to its coming for a whole week. When it reaches you, you will put your work aside to give its contents a hasty glance. When you start for home, you will take it with you--read it on the car--pore over it at meal-time, and never lay it down until you have devoured its every word--"ads" and all. That's the kind of a publication "Printer's Ink" is. The present price is $2 a year. After January 1, 1896, it will be $5 a year. Better subscribe NOW. Sample copies free. Remember the address-- PRINTER'S INK, 10 Spruce St., N. Y.
