THEY GOT THERE

The A. P. A.'s Arrived From Nashville on Time Election Day.

"Don't it beat the devil," said Col. Ben Crutchfield, the day after the election.

"What?" he was asked.

"Why, the manner in which those d—d A. P. A.'s travel over the country. Here a couple of weeks ago they sailed into Nashville and swept the town as clean as a new pin. It was tipped off to me that they were on their way to Louisville, and sure enough they got there according to the program yesterday. They must be a peculiar set, sure, to travel around so promiscuously and turn things upside down as they do."

"Didn't I tell you what they would do when they got there?" put in John Brown, the ex-three-card monte man.

"Yes, you did, but I was afraid to play them," replied old Ben.

"I wasn't," said Brown. "I went right down the line with $5,000, played the A. P. A.'s straight at even money, and I have just added five thousand to my bank roll."

"Lucky dog, lucky dog," muttered old Ben, as he strolled over to the court-house yard, dug up a geranium root and chewed it as an antidote for corn whisky.—Justice.

will in other states. In Democratic states the Democratic party will naturally be the sufferer, while Republicans will probably feel it most in Republican states. It is one of those ephemeral organizations that sometimes springs up in politics and play the mischief with men and parties while they last. It will burn itself out in a year or two. There are a few reforms suggested by the organization worthy of consideration on their merits and which have been thought of long ago, before the society was organized. But A. P. A. people have handicapped their few reasonable and meritorious propositions with others so wildly fanatical and ridiculous that they can accomplish nothing. There is so much might said, for instance, and much that has been said by men of sounder judgment than the A. P. A. leaders, in favor of placing more rigid restrictions upon foreign immigration so as to prevent the effluxing of Europe from being dumped upon our shores. So, too, there is something preposterous in the idea of extending the right of suffrage to men who have no knowledge of our institutions, who are not imbued with American ideas and who have not even learned to speak the language of the country. But the central idea of the A. P. A. is simply ludicrous. The white-faced terror of papal plots and conspiracies is laughable to any man who knows the spirit of this enlightened age. Whether the pope dreams of temporal power and dominion is something of which we have no knowledge. We are not of his faith or his church, and do not presume to know his thoughts or his purposes. But if he has any such dream he is not the great intellect he is thought to be, but a very simple and foolish old man. We know that no such dream can be realized, and we think the pope knows it, and that every Catholic feels and understands it. The truth is, that even in medieval times the pope was never as omnipotent as he is generally supposed to have been. We know that he thundered his anathema at Magna Charta and supported King John with all the terrors of Rome, but we know, also, that Catholic bishops defied the papal curse and supported the barons in their contest with the king. It is nonsense to suppose that in this enlightened day there is any possibility of a papal despotism being established in any enlightened country. It is a "bogey man," a "goblin" to frighten children. Because it is so, it will disappear like all the other air-drawn ghosts and monsters that occasionally rise up to stir the hair of the benighted traveler. It is one of the movements that can't be reasoned with, for it is not based on reason. When it gets tired it will quit.—Commercial Appeal, Nov. 8

We are glad that the morning paper of this city realizes at last the fact that the A. P. A., as in Kentucky so in other states, will "cut a very considerable figure" in the elections. It is always well, when the condition stares you in the face, to admit it. "In Democratic states the Democratic party will naturally be the sufferer, while Republicans will probably feel it most in Republican states." Do you know the reason? Because the A. P. A. is neither Democratic nor Republican, but proposes to cast its ballot for true Americans, whether in the one or the other or neither. See? "It is one of those ephemeral organizations that sometimes spring up in politics and play the mischief with men and parties while they last." We can say right here, of a truth, that the American Protective Association will play the mischief with both the old parties as long as they refuse to give us a good, clean, patriotic administration. Just as long as these parties countenance fraud, corruption and bribery, just so long will the "mischief" be played. "It will burn itself out in a year or two." Well, if it does, we propose to have some fun while it lasts. We will help to put a few good Americans in office before the cremation takes place. But time will tell who is the prophet. "There are a few reforms suggested by the organization worthy of consideration on their merits." Thank you, brother. You have won the everlasting gratitude of many thousand American citizens of Memphis for this gracious acknowledgment. As Brother Long said last Sunday, "If it were not that we had just dined and are too full for utterance," we would show our appreciation in fit and appropriate language. As it is, we are your debtor. "But the A. P. A. people have handicapped their few reasonable and meritorious propositions with others so wildly fanatical and ridiculous that they can accomplish nothing." There, now, what do you think of that? The A. P. A.'s, according to the writer above, has already "cut a very considerable figure in the Kentucky elections, as it will in other states." They play "the mischief with men and parties while they last," and yet they can do nothing. That sounds like "You can and you can't. You will and you won't. You shall and you shan't."

You'll be damned if you do, And be damned if you don't.

But, like all others, the objector fails to point out his objection. He says there is something about the American Protective Association that is "so wildly fanatical and ridiculous." What is it? Why, he says "the central idea of the A. P. A. is simply ludicrous." Well, what is the "central idea" of the A. P. A.? Modesty would suggest that before you pronounce a thing simply ridiculous you first ascertain what that thing is. You have not even hinted at it in the above. And, let us say right here that the one who does not know whether "the pope dreams of temporal power and dominion" is, without much further instruction and knowledge, utterly unable to represent fairly and truthfully the "central idea of the A. P. A." The principles of the A. P. A. are published weekly in hundreds of papers, and we challenge any one who is true to the principles of the Government of the United States to pronounce the grand "central idea of the A. P. A.," which is to keep the church separate and distinct from the state, "simply ridiculous." "It [the A. P. A.] is one of the movements that can't be reasoned with, for it is not based on reason. When it gets tired it will quit." Allow us to correct the above. The A. P. A. "is one of those movements" that must be reasoned with, for it is based on reason, truth and principle, and when its principles are established it will quit—and not before.—Memphis American.

For Bible Reading in Schools.

A petition bearing 60,000 signatures and asking that the reading of the Bible be restored to the public schools will be presented soon to the board of education. The petition has been prepared and circulated by the Woman's Educational Union of Chicago.

The Union held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Case, the president, 201 Ashland boulevard, to consider the outlook for the movement. Reports from the committee having charge of the petition were encouraging and it was decided that matters were in such shape the document could be presented to the board of education in a short time. Mrs. C. F. Kimball read a paper on the subject of reading the Bible in the public schools, giving a history of the work done by the Union since its organization in 1890.

The plan as outlined includes the selection of passages suited to all faiths by a committee, to consist of W. J.

Onahan, for the Catholics; Dr. E. G. Hirsch, for the Hebrews; Rev. J. H. Barrows, for the Presbyterians; C. C. Bonney, for the "New Church," and Mrs. E. B. Cook, for the Congregationalists.

THEY THREATEN RIOT.

Roman Catholics at Bangor try to Silence Mr. Leyden.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 14.—Both Catholics and Protestants are highly excited over the recent renting of the city hall to Evangelist Leyden, and the subsequent announcement by Mayor Snow of his determination not to allow Leyden to appear.

Mr. Leyden advertised extensively in the city and vicinity, and proposes to deliver an attack on the Roman church and rites Sunday and Monday nights.

Yesterday morning Vicar General O'Brien called on the mayor and is understood to have said: "You know I have only to call upon my people to stop this thing."

The mayor thereupon ordered the custodian of the hall to close the same Sunday. The fact that Leyden possesses the city's contract allowing him to occupy the hall, and has paid rent in advance, doubles the difficulty.

The Roman Catholics are much stirred, and make earnest threats of riot. Protestants of all parties are angry with the mayor for his easy acquiescence to the demands.

Father O'Brien stated to the mayor that Leyden couldn't appear in any city in New England, except Portland, and not there but for Mayor Baxter.—Boston Daily Standard.

May Be a Lynching.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 1.—The farmers surrounding Lawn Ridge, a small hamlet in the extreme northern part of the county, are up in arms against an outrage perpetrated there Friday night last, word of which has just reached this city. The school-directors of the district, in compliance with the state law, recently suspended a large American flag from the top of the school. Everything worked all right until Friday night, when somebody fired a load of buckshot through it. There are guards now on duty day and night, and the discovery of the guilty party may be followed by lynching.
