EXPORTING AMERICAN PAPER.

British Printers and Publishers Are Now Buying Our Home Made Goods,

We have from time to time sought to impress upon the paper-makers of the country the prime importance of building up a good export trade, says a paper trade journal. Few industries are advancing with such rapid strides as that of paper-making. American genius has equipped our mills with machines of marvelous power and efficiency, and improvements in this direction are yet in progress. We have, to be sure, a splendid home market, growing and expanding right along, and there is cause for genuine satisfaction in the fact that Americans are the most liberal consumers of paper in the world, and that, too, of good stock, it being notorious that there is a smaller demand for the "cheap and nasty" in this country than in any other country on the globe. Yet, with all our wonderful powers of consumption, it will become more and more difficult for the home market to absorb the entire paper product of the country. A market for the surplus must be found as a condition necessary for a steady business. There are a great many nonpaper-making countries which are comparatively new, and where the manufacturing spirit is only just beginning to develop. These afford a proper outlet for our surplus, their powers of absorption expanding with our own increasing productiveness, so that there need be no fear of a diminishing demand. It seems to us that it will be much more forehanded, so to speak, to expend our energies in developing fresh markets than to devote them all to the far more difficult task of getting a foothold in older countries. It is something to be proud of, certainly, to be supplying paper to several London daily papers, because it so completely refutes the idea that high wages mean dear products. Great Britain's paper-making industry is well develeped, however, and any footing that we may obtain in her home market has a double satisfaction not far to seek nor difficult to understand, but getting it is slow, and in the end may not produce the results sought-a steady, growing and lasting market for our surplus. We are much more likely to realize such conditions in newer markets located in growing countries, such as those which lie south of us. The significance of an English demand for American paper lies in the fact that our high-priced, intelligent labor produces cheaply, and can, quality for quality, hold its own in any market where we may choose to

Danger Signals

More than half the victims of consumption do not know they have it. Here is a list of symptoms by which consumption can certainly be detected :-

Cough, one or two slight efforts on rising, occurring during the day and frequently during the night.

Short breathing after exertion. Tightness of the chest. Quick pulse, especially noticeable in the evening and after a full meal. Chilliness in the evening, followed by Slight fever. Perspiration toward morning and Pale face and languid in the morning.

Loss of vitality. If you have these symptoms, or any of them, do not delay. There are many preparations which claim to be cures, but Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption has the highest endorsements, and has stood the test of years. It will arrest consumption in its earlier stages, and drive away the symptoms named. It is manufactured by the Acker Medicine Co., 16 and 18 Chambers St., New York, and sold by all reputable druggists.

ORANGE PRINCIPLES.

On behalf of the Loyal Orange Lodge the United States of America. and with a view of correcting the false impression that enemies are endeavoring to convey to the minds of men who are unacquainted with Orange principles, are these few statements

The Loval Orange Institution is a brotherhood and sisterhood, bound by three ties Justice, Truth and Righteousness.

It has no hidden aims It is Fraternal and Benevolent-assisting and protecting members while living and their widows and orphans when they are renoved by death.

It upholds the right of private judgmentthe untrammelled freedom of opinion; believes the public schools are an essential safeguard of the state, and should be kept free from ecclesiastical or sectarian control and that persons disloyal to the government who hold a mental allegiance to the pope of Rome-should be rigorously excluded from teaching therein.

It believes primary allegiance is due to the government which protects the lives, liberties and properties of its citizens, and that ecclesiastical authority should not under any circumstances, be permitted to meddle in the affairs of state, and that coer cion of a citizen in the exercise of his or her right of franchise, under the guise of religlous or spiritual authority should be punshed as a crime against the state. That it is the duty of every citizen to defend the lawfully constituted authority and institutions of our country against corrup and inimical influences, as well as against armed assailants, to the end that our giorious freedom be protected and transmitted unimpaired to posterity. It encourages habits of frugality and in lustry among its members, and is proud to boast that Orangemen seldom become a public charge or accept pauper bread. It believes in the restriction of immigration and the extension of time for the naturalization of citizens, and that the public ands shall be held for actual American citisens who become settlers. The Loyal Orange Iustitution of the United States of America has certain requirements for membership:

That a man shall be an actual American citizen, having complied with the laws of the United States with regard to naturalization. and without a mental reservation.

That the applicant shall be a Protestant, and also that his parents and wife shall be Protestants.

That he shall be thrifty and successful in his business; honorable and truthful in his dealings with his fellowman, and shall be known as a law-abiding citizen.

known as a law-abiding citizen.

That he will endeavor to give his children or any children under his charge at least a good common school education, being careful to avoid all popish doctrines, and

That he shall be in sound health at the time of making application.

It makes no difference where a man was born, so long as he meets the foregoin requirements.

These are the qualifications required o every applicant to the order, and we do not think that any patriotic American order can offer a better array of urinciples and teachings.
