

WHO IS QUEEN OF ENGLAND?

Whole issue of Charles A. ... In France and in Spain the legitimist is taken seriously. In England, according to the man in the street, and according to others in other places, the legitimist is simply an idiot who is not worth further consideration.

A few days thereafter she handed in the following: "The Confederate veteran is one that fought, and bled and died for his country. He is sometimes on one leg and sometimes on two. The state gives him enough pension to keep him in tobacco. Then the state builds him a home; and sells the home before he can get in it. My pa says he is a veteran. He was wounded by having one leg sawed off in a Confederate sawmill while making coffins to bury soldiers in. The state don't help my pa much, and my pa says damn the state!"

A young woman claims that her silk dress is a perfect barometer. In dry weather it rustles loudly because it is devoid of moisture and the friction between the folds is considerable. When rain is impending the silk absorbs a portion of the moisture and becomes silent.

Grace—"Did you speak to papa?" Gayboy—"Ye-es, but it was rather unexpected. I wasn't prepared, and he-well, he rather surprised me." Grace—"But didn't you have it all planned out before?" Gayboy—"Yes, dear, but it operated in the other direction."

Smith—"Funny that a woman has so much trouble finding her pocket, isn't it?" Robinson—"Yes, especially when she finds it so easy to find her husband's."

There is a wealthy young woman in London whose whole life is devoted to the care of vagrant cats and to see that those which have homes are not abused. She always signs all her letters, "Yours for cats."

AN IDEAL SPELLING COURSE.

To Make the Small Boy Learn His Letters.
