

WHAT ROME TEACHES

In the Year 1900 Rome Will Take His Country and Keep It—Hecker.

Boasts That Religious Liberty is Only Endured Until the Opposite Side can Be Put into Effect Without Injury to the Roman Church.

Education outside of the Catholic Church is a damnable heresy.—Pope Pius IX.

Education must be controlled by Catholic authorities, even to war and bloodshed.—Catholic World.

I frankly confess that the Catholics stand before the country as the enemies of the public schools.—Father Phelan.

I would as soon administer sacrament to a dog as to Catholics who send their children to public schools.—Father Walker.

The public schools have produced nothing but a godless generation of thieves and blackguards.—Father Schaner.

It will be a glorious day in this country when under the laws the school system will be shivered to pieces.—Catholic Telegraph.

The public schools are nurseries of vice; they are godless and unless suppressed will prove the damnation of this country.—Father Walker.

We must take part in the elections, move in a solid mass in every state against the party pledged to sustain the integrity of the public schools.—McCloskey.

The common schools of this country are sinks of moral pollution and nurseries of hell.—Chicago Tablet.

The time is not far away when the Roman Catholic Church of the Republic of the United States, at the order of the Pope, will refuse to pay their school tax, and will send bullets to the breasts of the government agents rather than pay it. It will come quickly at the click of a trigger, and will be obeyed, of course, as commands from Almighty God.—Mgr. Capel.

We hate Protestantism; we detest it with our whole heart and soul.—Catholic Visitor.

No man has a right to choose his religion.—Archbishop Hughes in Freeman's Journal, Jan. 29, 1852.

If Catholics ever gain sufficient numerical majority in this country, religious freedom is at an end.—Catholic Shepherd of the Valley, Nov. 23, 1851.

Protestantism, of every form, has not, and never can have any right where Catholicity is triumphant.—Dr. O. A. Brownson's Catholic Review, June, 1851.

We have taken this principle for a basis: That the Catholic religion with all its rights, ought to be exclusively dominant, in such sort, that every other worship shall be banished and interdicted.—Pius IX. in his allocution to a Consistory of Cardinals, September, 1851.

Protestantism—why, we should draw and quarter it, and hang up the crow's meat. We would tear it with pliers and fire it with hot irons! Fill it with molten lead and sink it in hell to one hundred fathoms deep.—Father Phelan, Editor Western Watchman.

Religious liberty is merely endured until the opposite side can be carried into effect, without peril to the Catholic Church.—Bishop O'Connor.

The Roman Catholic is to wield his vote for the purpose of securing Catholic ascendancy in this country.—Father Hecker, in the Catholic World, July, 1870.

Undoubtedly it is the intention of the Pope to possess this country. In this intention he is aided by the Jesuits and Catholic prelates and priests.—Brownson's Catholic Review, July, 1854.

When a Catholic candidate is on a ticket and his opponent is a non-Catholic, let the Catholic candidate have the vote, no matter what he represents.—Catholic Review, July, 1894.

In case of conflicting laws between the two powers, the laws of the church must prevail over the state.—Pius IX, Syllabus 1864.

We hold the state to be only an inferior court, receiving its authority from the church and liable to have its decrees reversed upon appeal.—Brownson's Essays, p. 232.

We do not accept this government hold it to be any government at all, as capable of performing any of the proper functions of government. If an American government is to be sustained and preserved at all, it must be by the rejection of the principles of the Reformation (that is, the acceptance of the Catholic principles, which is the government of the pope).—Catholic World, September, 1871.

I acknowledge no civil power.—Cardinal Manning, speaking in the name of the Pope, S. R. B., 1878.

The Pope, as the head and mouthpiece of the Catholic Church, administers its discipline and issues orders to which every Catholic under pain of sin must yield obedience.—Catholic World, August, 1868.

In 1900 Rome will take this country and keep it.—Priest Hecker.

The will of the Pope is the supreme law of all lands.—Archbishop Ireland.

We have plenty of the issue of January 28, containing the exposure of Rome's plot to take this country by force. Ten for 30 cents; fifty for $1.25; 100 for $2. 500 for $7.50; 1,000 for $10. Have you sent any of that number to your friends? You should! They would not sleep longer.

received your Atlas of the World and I am well pleased; far beyond my expectations.

No man's influence is so small but that he could make it tell against Rome.

THE DAIRY

Abortion and Milk Fever.

In herds the best regulated and cared for there will occasionally occur a physical accident at some sudden fright that causes a cow to prematurely drop her calf, writes Henry H. Alvord in Northwestern Agriculturist.

The heads should be constantly watched for symptoms of abortion, which will generally be recognized by the experienced herdsmen. Should such symptoms appear, the animal should be immediately removed to a hospital until the case is over or the signs disappear. In case abortion occurs in stable, yard or pasture, despite precautions, and wholly without warning, as is sometimes the case, take the animal to a hospital at once and use every exertion to thoroughly clean and disinfect the place where the accident occurred. The aborted cow should be carefully nursed and the genital organs freely dressed with antiseptic solutions. The animal should not return to the herd until fully cured, clean, and free from all vaginal discharges. Be on guard for a second case following the first in a few days or within three weeks; if a month elapses, recurrence is not to be expected. Veterinarians recognize two distinct kinds of abortion, viz, the sporadic, which is first mentioned above as resulting from accident, physical injury or fright, from disease of the uterus, or from "sympathetic" influences, and the epizootic contagious, which is undoubtedly a germ disease, communicated from animal to animal by the germ and caused only by contagion. There is still much uncertainty about this dread disease and its prevention. Milk fever, "dropping," or parturient spoxley is another scourge of the dairy, twin to abortion. It is an affection which comes without warning, attacks the deepest and richest milkers, is sudden in attack, rapid in progress, and generally fatal. The symptoms are a chill, twitching of the head muscles, failure to eat, chew the cud or pass manure, distended udder without milk, insensibility of the hind quarters when pinched or pricked; later the cow becomes unsteady on her hind legs, and presently drops. Good cows should be carefully watched for forty-eight hours after calving, and if such warnings appear, a veterinarian can not be called too soon. Preventive measures form the best assurance of the owner against losses from this cause. The cow should have abundant exercise up to the week before calving, and then quiet and good care, with daily grooming and active rubbing. Keep the bowels active with proper feed, or purgatives if necessary. Insure comfort, guard against cold, and endeavor to maintain active circulation on the surface of the body. A strong dose of physic and brisk grooming may be used immediately after calving, in case of cows believed to be predisposed to milk fever.

Streaky Butter.

Among the various causes of streaky butter that of temperature—too cold a temperature somewhere in the process of making—is not sufficiently considered, says a writer in Agricultural Gazette, Tasmania. Sometimes, and especially at this season of the year, the water with which the butter is washed is of a temperature very many degrees lower than that of the butter. Now, the use of very cold water chills and hardens the surface of the butter granules, while the interior remains comparatively soft; when salted the salt will not mix evenly, and the color of the different parts of the granules will vary. If worked in this condition the chilled granules will not combine readily, and the result will be streaky, mottled butter. Even if the butter is left in the water a length of time sufficient for the granules to be of the same temperature throughout the butter of the granules will, if the latter are very firm and hard, cohere more than it will adhere. That is, the granules do not stick to each other with the same force that the butter particles of the granules stick together. The working flattens out the granules, but does not make of them one homogeneous mass, and as the outside of these granules are saltier than the inside, and therefore deeper in color, the butter will, when cut through, look marbled, mottled, or streaky, according to the degree of working.

Some farmers are asking why it is that in the cheese factories that still buy milk by weight it takes 11 or 12 pounds of milk to make a pound of cheese, where twenty-five years ago it took only ten pounds. The answer is that the cows have been bred for quantity of milk only. Besides, in many cases the milk seller takes off just a little of the cream for household use, under the impression that his milk is so much richer than his neighbor's milk that it will be honest to do it. The Babcock test is the only cure for the evil.

Iowa Export Butter.—Dewitt Goodrich, the Iowa butter maker, so prominent at the World's Fair dairy contests, made the butter recently sent to England by the United States department of agriculture. The cream was very lightly ripened, and the butter a light straw color. It contains fully 86 per cent of butter fat, about 10 per cent of water, and 3 per cent of salt, which means one-half ounce to the pound. It was packed in cubical boxes, made of spruce, each holding one cubic foot of butter, and lined on all sides with two thicknesses of parchment paper.

FEN POINTERS.

Papal pills are sugar coated. Civility is the basis of Rome's religion.

Get a papist to thinking and the priest will curse you.

The priest's blindest eye is on the side where the most money comes from.

A Bible is the most horrid book a papist can read—if we judge from Rome's past acts.

No man can walk with civilization and stay in the woods of papal superstition.

Rome wears a religious cloak, yet has a cold heart.

A confessional box is the tomb of self-respect.

Wearing a cross does not cure crossness.

Hatred is nursed by papal prejudice. The brighter history shines the darker Rome's record.

It is hard to convince a papist who lets the priest do his thinking.

To know that popery is a curse makes a man want to rid the earth of it.

Keeping knowledge in the hands of the priest starves the minds of the people.

You can never tell what a papist will do out of a church by his looks of devotion within.

Rome has trouble with the man who does his own thinking.

Papery throws the most mud at the whitest garments.

Use Sawyer's Soap. The best in the World.

Every fact is an antidote for some foolish fancy.

Passengers arriving at Chicago by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Ry' can, by the new Union Elevator Loop, reach any part of the city, or for a five cent fare can be taken immediately to any of the large stores in the downtown district. A train will stop at the Rock Island Station every minute. These facilities can only be offered by the "Great Rock Island Route."

Address JOHN SEBASTIAN, G. P. A., Chicago.

Holding on to pagan superstition gives Rome a mortgage on your faith.

Do you know that Sawyer's Soap is the very best in the market? Ask your grocer for it. Insist on having it and no other.

When Rome gives money she always puts a chain of power on it.

Are You Well? GOD HEALTH is a rare boon to generally situated. Those fortunately thus endowed from birth are apt to be careless of their health. It is so easy to lose or dissipate it that many people have lost it before they have learned how to maintain it. This all can be done by reading "Plain Home Talk" on the cause of disease, excessive eating, tea and coffee drinking, too use and abuse of alcohol, the bad habits of children, the prevalence of errors of judgment, the influence of the "immense" and important facts to know.

Are You Engaged? THE results of a mad chase for wealth, of overwork, overstudy, failures in business, the fact that health is the basis of wealth—but not vice versa—and the causes and effects of horrible misadventures—these are all matters it would be well for you to think over.

Are You Married? THESE are the underlying principles of a chapter on "The Cause of Disease," the tobacco habit in men, light being in women, etc., and the all-pervading customs of society. Thoroughly many of the best of both sexes are doomed to "social starvation." This chapter shows why thoughtful people should go steady, how prostitution has become prevalent, why it will not, how its harmful effects are conveyed to the "innocent"—and starting and important facts to know.
