Following is the new law relating to estrays: "It shall be the duty of any person taking up an estray to send a description of the same to a justice of the peace in the precinct where the said estray was taken up, within forty-eight hours thereafter, and the said justice of the peace shall record the same in a book kept by him for that purpose, for which he shall receive the sum of twenty-five cents. If said estray shall not be claimed by owner thereof within ten days thereof, a description of same shall be sent to the county clerk by the party taking up the said estray, who shall record the same in a book kept by him for that purpose, for which he shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. The person taking up the estray shall within twenty days thereafter, procure the publication of the description of such animal or animals in any newspaper published within the county.

The sheriff of Dawes county, Neb., John Dahlman by name, came up in the Hills to secure Jesse Bingham on the charge of cattle stealing. He enlisted the services of Wm. Alexander, deputy sheriff of Custer county, and together they went after their man. On last Saturday morning they found Mr. Bingham at his ranch in Custer county. The warrant was read to him whereupon Mr. Bingham said he would go and picket out his horse and then go with them wherever they said. Alexander was instructed to go with him. They went some distance to the horse. Bingham mounted the horse and dashed away, Alexander firing two shots at him, or somewhere else. Suffice it to say that Mr. Bingham has not been seen or heard of since. The sheriff from Nebraska is a sadder and madder man.—Hot Springs Star.

A compulsory education bill has been passed by the New York assembly. The measure is significant in that it provides severe penalties for the neglect of parents and guardians to provide for the proper education of children in their charge. A feature of the law which commends itself is that it provides for officers whose duty it is to look out for truants. It remains to be seen, however, whether the enforcement of school attendance is practical in this country, especially in rural districts where the population resides chiefly on farms.—Liberty Journal.

The Cheyenne & Northern will handle about 200,000 head of cattle between May 6th and August 1st. These cattle are the purchases of Montana ranchmen, and will be unloaded at Wendover and driven north from there through Lusk. Five hundred trains will be employed in moving these cattle, and they will be run through on passenger time. The C. & N. will run three trains daily. The road has been repaired, and is said to be in good shape for the large traffic of the next two or three months.—Lusk Herald.

Sufficient two inch pipe has been ordered by the city council to cover the distance between the new well and the cistern and will be placed temporarily until a more complete system can be arranged. The pipe will be tapped at several places along the line so that all the cisterns adjacent may be filled. This will give, when all the cisterns are full, a supply on hand of several thousand barrels.

Finer weather for the progress of small grain could not be conceived, than the beautiful, pleasant weather we are being blessed with at present. The ground is warming up finely for corn planting, which is already begun, and is sufficiently moist to bring it up rapidly.

Prior to the turning over of the U. S. Treasury to the new administration's officers, the counting of about $200,000,000 will have to be gone through with. The work is to be commenced this month. Sixty expert counters will be engaged for four months at this work.

According to the Temperance Advocate the Editor of the Hemingford Guide J. S. Paradis, has retracted his accusations against the Receiver and Register of the Chadron land office, for which a libel suit had been commenced. That settled the difficulty.

Immigration continues to pour in at a lively rate and will, until this, the favored spot of the northwest, becomes full and running over. People who are desirous of locating in the west portion of northwest Nebraska have found out where to go and are getting there.

The fine rain of last week was right on time as usual. The wind up was a wet snow of about four inches, the value of which can hardly be estimated. On Sunday night a frost was felt.

COMPLETE LAWS OF THE TERRITORY AND STATE IN THREE LARGE VOLUMES.

For thirty-five years has Nebraska's Territorial and State legislatures been enacting, amending and repealing laws effecting the personal and property rights of the citizens of the State, and it is safe to say that until recently not more than a half dozen lawyers of the State possessed copies of one-tenth of these numerous enactments, and not one possessed full and complete copies, for the reason that in the earlier period but few copies were printed, and many inaccuracies occurred, and from the further fact that the session laws of 1873 were never published at all.

THE STATE JOURNAL Co., of Lincoln, realizing the necessity of an accurate and full compilation of the laws of the Territory and State of Nebraska, began several years ago the work of preparing such a publication. Experts were employed, and four years were given to copying and comparing every enactment, including general, local and private laws, joint and concurrent resolutions, and memorials to Congress, which were then arranged by sections and published in three large volumes, comprising a grand total of pages. The proofs were compared, not with the printed copies, but with the original rolls, corrected, and again revised, thus assuring nearly absolute correctness. Hundreds of errors occurred in the original biennial publications, and these are all noted in this publication.

The work is brought down to and including the session of 1887.

A most complete index accompanies each volume, citing the pages in this work where the subject can be found, and the page and volumes of the original printed laws, and at the end of the third volume is a general index of the entire work, giving page and volume, also the page and volumes of the session laws, the volumes of the general and compiled statutes. Another most valuable feature will be found at the end of this volume, it consists of an index of the laws cited and construed by the Judges of the Supreme Court, which are embodied in the Supreme Court Reports down to and including volume 21. The citations are indexed and cross indexed by subject, alphabetically arranged, and is the only index to the laws passed upon by the Supreme Court.

When this work was first published, the price was put at $30 for the three volumes, a low price when the cost of production and importance of the work are considered. The edition was soon exhausted, but the work found its way only into the law offices of the more prosperous attorneys, the price debarring hundreds of struggling young practitioners from purchasing, though they fully realized the importance and value of the work in their practice. To meet these demands the STATE JOURNAL Co. has just published another edition of the work, and to give all a chance to obtain it, the cash price from now until the first day of July has been reduced to FIFTEEN DOLLARS, and after that date the full price of $30 will be demanded.

This work has been endorsed by the Judges of the Supreme and district courts of the State, and by all the attorneys, all of whom were among the first purchasers. Orders can now be promptly filled. All orders at the reduced price must be accompanied by the cash, and the work will be sent by express, the charges to be paid by the purchaser.

"O, mamma!" she said, with a burst of girlish confidence, "what do you think! Mr. iddyot proposed last night!"
 "Ah, did he, my dear? And what did my little girl say?"
 "Oh, I told him that an engagement was too solemn and sacred a thing to me to be entered into without serious and prayerful consideration, and that I would give him my answer in a week. And now, mamma mine, we must go right to work and find out if he really and truly has $15,000 a year and a cottage at Bar Harbor."

"You dear, wise little girl," cried the fond mother, folding her child to her bosom and weeping softly over her.—Puck.
