Clothing of British Clergymen.

Can anything more absurd and less impressive be imagined than the hat, clothes and boots worn by the British clergymen who throng to London in May? A nondescript seedy hat, generally of the sideawake description, a long coat cut like a sack a pair of baggy trousers, very much "knee'd," a huge pair of square toed bulgy boots and a gingham umbrella make up a costume which is at once grotesque and disreputable. old fashioned clergyman used at lenst to dress like a gentleman, and his own. Eccentric Funeral Directions,

From the Louisville Courier. The funeral of Dr. H. H. Tucker, an eminent Baptist divine, which took place at Atlanta a few days ago, was unique in many respects. Dr. Tucker left a letter giving instruc-tions concerning his funeral. He directed that he be buried in a coffin of wood that imight rot. He instructed that prayers be offered for anybody connected by affinity or con-sanguinity with his family: for any-body who hacever done a favor or good turn for him or his family; for everybody whe had injured him in any way. There was to be no address of any kird at the funeral and no music, only prayer and reading of Scripture. His orders were carried out to the letter.

Josh Billings' Philosophy.

"Let him go, my son," said an an-cient father to his boy, who had cought a rabbit, "and when he gets bigger ketch him again." The boy did az he waz told, and haz been looking for that rabbit ever since.

The world owes all its energy and refinement tew laxury. Digging roots for brekfast, and going naked for clothes, iz the virtewous innocence of a lazy savage.

time a good deal as follows: The fust 30 years they spend throwing stans at a mark, the seckond 30 they spend in examining the mark tew see where the stans hit, and the remainder is divided in cassing the stun-throwing bizziness, and nussing the rumatizz.

Sunflowers and Malaria.

In a recent issue of the Russian medical journal, the Meditzina, a contributor emphatically draws attention to the common sunflower as an excellent and forms. The remedy has been from time immemorial used for the purpose in the Russian, as well as Persian and Turkish popular medicine, and that mostly after the following plan: A flask is fitted loosely with finely cut dry or recent flowers and stem, and then with vodka aqua vite. The hermeti-cally corked vessel is left to stand under sun rays, or at some warm place, for two or three days. The timeture is then ready for use and should be given as a small wineglassful three times a day. In recent cases, complete and permanent cure ensues in from one to three days; in most obstinate and inveterate, not later than a week. The remedy proved successful even in such cases where quinine and other anti-malarial

I dragged myself along until I had walked three miles and then again tried to attend to business; but it was no use, and at noon I went home doubting whether I should be also be come.

A Young Benedict's Luck.

Galveston (Tex.) News, Oct. 2. Certainly there is no more propitious time as the Irishman asserts it does once in the life of every man, than just as he has taken unto himself a partner to share his weal and wee in this life. A windfall of a few thousand of deliars at this period of life is very often the keystone upon which he may erect a fortune and achieve success. Among the rare instances of this kind of recent occurrences we may mention the case of Mr. P. E. Peareson, a rising young merchant, of Harland, Fort Bend county, who purchased one twentieth of ticket No. 39,526, which won the second capital prize of $100,000 in the drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery on Tuesday, September 10, 1889, and as a consequence is to-day $5,000 better off in this world's goods. Mr. Peareson is the second of the most prominent attorneys of this section, and is a young man highly esteemed by all his acquaintances. As previously hinted Mr. Peareson has only recently been married, and his good fortune is therefore doubly welcome.

The ticket was cashed through Messrs. Dyer & Moore, bankers of Richmond. himself a partner to share his weal and woe

How He Worked It. Oakland, Md., rejoices in the pos-session of a dusky citizen who cannot read, but that lack does not prevent him from poring over the newspapers and imagining that he is absorbing information through his fingers ends. Not long ago some official had occasion to record his name, when the following colloquy ensued:

"What is your name?"
"George Newton Sandomire, sah."

"How do you spell it?"
"Spell it! Don't spell it at all, sah.
I jist writes it right down, sah."—Pitts-burg Chroniele-Telegraph.
