

A remarkable admission appeared in the last issue of the Herald. That was that the people of Sioux county ruled. Prior to the 9th of January, 1890, the gang ruled and the people had to submit. Truly the world do move.

The application of nick-names to parties who have opposed the actions of the gang and its organ forms very strong arguments against the bonds, but for some reason such arguments do not alter the records of the county in regard to the illegal and excessive charges made by former county officials.

Last week President Harrison used his power of veto for the first time. The bill was to permit the city of Ogden, Utah, to assume increased indebtedness. The president takes the position that the law regulating the debt creating power of cities in the territories is liberal enough for the best interests of the municipalities.

The Republican the new Chadron paper appears on our table, with G. A. W. Lavison's name on the head of the editorial column. It is neat and newsy which indicates editorial and mechanical ability, and it also has a good advertising patronage. If the town of Chadron can support four papers, it will certainly be a showing creditable to the business enterprises of the town.

Van Wyck has been talking to the farmer's alliances considerable of late and has taken such an aggressive stand that the Be, which for years has stood firmly by the old man in spite of his eccentricities, states in an editorial that the Be cannot endorse the acts nor the methods of the gentleman from Otse county, who is so anxious to serve the farmers in the capacity of governor.

Anticipating the advantages to be gained by the Northwestern as soon as the Cheyenne & Northern is completed, the B. & M. has shortened its running time between Chicago and Denver four hours. There is no doubt that as soon as through train service is put on this line to Denver the Elkhorn will endeavor to give its patrons as good accommodations and as rapid transit as is offered by its competitors, and the result will be that excellent advantages will be enjoyed by our people in the way of railroad facilities.

For some time, conference has been going on between President Harrison and Attorney-General Miller relative to the obstructions offered to the execution of civil process in the United States courts in portions of Florida. The last was a letter from the president to the attorney-general directing that United States Marshal Weeks proceed at once to serve any writs placed in his hand and employ a civil force sufficient to discourage resistance or overcome it. There is no mistaking the position of the administration. No foolishness will be tolerated in matters where the national courts are interested.

Farmers, if you have to borrow money on your real estate at 10 per cent. per annum, and on your chattels at 3 per cent. a month, will it not be a good plan to make a loan for the county at 6 per cent? If money is worth 10 per cent., or more, to you and you can get it for 6 is it not good business policy to take it at the latter figure? In addition to that it will place the county on a cash basis so that the taxpayers will not have to pay a premium on the price of everything furnished to the county, which in the past has amounted to as much or more than the real value received by the county.

One of the reports from the political slate-makers in regard to Attorney General Leese was, that he was working for the nomination for congress from the second district, to succeed G. L. Laws. Mr. Leese emphatically denies this. If he is chosen for any office, it will, in all probability, be to succeed himself as attorney general. He has many friends who desire to see him prosecute cases now in court until finally settled, and for this reason do not want to see him in the field for any other office, and it is evident that should he feel inclined to seek the nomination for congressman, governor or anything else, his friends would not favor it.

Speaking of working for the interests of the country the Herald dwells on the fact that a year ago it issued a boom edition for the board of trade. That is all right. It got out a boom edition and the board of trade paid for it, and the Herald is entitled to no more credit in the matter than for doing any other job of work for which it received cold cash. And the editor do it to help build up the country? After getting out the boom edition for which he got paid the editor of the Herald wrote to parties who contemplated buying in Sioux county advising them not to do so. That is a fair sample of the consistency of the gang.

The Herald in its fight against the bonds reproduces the old chestnut of the $87,000 estimate made by the county board last January and attempts to cram it down the throats of the taxpayers. There is no danger of anyone being deceived by that. The people of Sioux county know that an estimate costs nothing. Some figures appear in the columns of the gang organ in regard to the levy of former years showing what amount was levied each year. This amount may have been small as the county was new, but every year since the county was organized, the levy has been fifteen mills on each dollar of assessed valuation and that is the highest levy which can be made, except by vote of the people or an order of the court. In addition to issuing all the warrants possible under the law, the allowed claims amounting to about $7,000 are hanging over the county and no provision made to meet them. The whole fight of the old gang and its organ against the bonds is simply to keep the new officers from reducing the rate of taxation. The voters of Sioux county elected the present officers believing that the affairs of the county would be administered by them in an honest and economical manner and the taxes kept as low as possible. Were the new officers able to reduce the rate of taxation the contrast with the old administration would be rather unpleasant to the gang and as a consequence they fight every thing advocated which would tend to bring about a decrease in the taxes. In another column, the Herald asserts that the county is under a shadow, dark enough without assuming bonded indebtedness of $15,000. Admitted that the shadow is dark enough, but what caused that shadow? It was the actions of the old gang who incurred this indebtedness and if they would step up and assume that debt, the cloud would, to a great extent, be dispelled, or if the members of the old gang who have profited by the creation of the debt would refund to the county what they have illegally allowed, quite a reduction would be made in the debt which now faces the taxpayers. It is safe to predict that the taxpayers of the county, knowing that the gang, upheld by the Herald, led them into their present financial condition, will be very careful not to be misled in the matter of getting the county on a good business footing.

The World-Herald of the 26th inst. in an editorial proposes to solve the political problem to its own satisfaction, at least, with a chance of having Nebraska represented by democrats in the next congress. The plan is a combination between the democrats and the farmers alliance, whereby the alliance would name and the democrats endorse a state ticket, and the democrats name and the alliance endorse the three candidates for congress. That is a great catch trap, indeed. Nebraska has had one congressman named by the democratic party and that experiment was sufficient to put the farmers on their guard. That was in the first district, and the democratic congressman, John A. M. Shane, was retired at the close of his first term. In the second district the plan of fusing any or all farmer organization with the democrats in the contests for congress has been attempted for years, but has never been successful. This scheme had been worked so often that prior to the last campaign in which he took part the late Congressman Laird expressed the hope that he would have a straight democrat for an opponent in one campaign. Such plans did not work out as the leaders expected, and it is safe to predict that no such combination can be arranged. The farmers do not have to go into the democratic camp. They can secure the redress they seek at the hands of the republican party in Nebraska. The alliance of the state, as an organization is not political, but simply seeks redress in certain lines, and the history of the republican party is that when the people ask for anything that is just, the party is always ready to give the desired relief, as far as it is in its power to do so, and what has been done in the past will be done in the future.

It is the proper thing for the farmers to organize as farmers to discuss what is to their interests and then let them go to the primaries of their respective parties and see that their rights are respected and that men who will work for the interests of the farmers are selected to represent them at the various gatherings of the parties. In that manner the farmers can get the recognition to which they are entitled without relinquishing their party allegiance.

We heard it asked, "what immediate benefit will we farmers derive from the issuing of bonds sufficient to pay off the outstanding indebtedness of the county?" It will set afoot between five and eight thousand dollars in Sioux county by the paying off at one hundred cents on the dollar that amount of claims and warrants either held by you or your neighbors or other parties living in the county. It will admit of some work being done in needy places on the roads you now find almost impassable and the building of a few much needed bridges, for which the county will be obliged to pay but the actual value. It will immediately reduce the taxes at least one-third and leave the debt we now owe to be paid when the amount of assessable property in the county has become so great that the payment of the debt will hardly be noticed.

"It makes one sick," remarked a prominent farmer from the valley recently, "to read in the Herald that they oppose the bonds because of the expense to the 'dear people'. Their past record plainly shows that it is simply a 'log in the manger' policy. Where was the Herald's love for the 'dear people' when that $400 worth of lumber which belonged to the county and had been illegally purchased at an exorbitant price, was given outright to Murphy & Whitney? Why did not the Herald howl in double head lines when the old officials let to Murphy & Whitney, illegally, the contract to build several bridges at double the amount others would gladly have done the work for? Why don't they howl now because several of the aforsaid bridges are, on account of the poor manner in which they were built and the negligence of the commissioners in accepting them; only passable at the risk of life and property? Did the Herald love the 'dear people' when that $300 was sunk in the celebrated hill road from which no one has ever derived a cent's worth of benefit,—did they love them then as now? If so why did they not howl about it when they knew the tax payers were being robbed thereby? Then those little matters, such as the $250 McGinley road, the $50 county dock-stand, the $100 a year steal on county attorney salary, the several hundred dollars of fees to the sheriff and county judge, in civil cases, which were allowed by the old commissioners but upon appeal to the district court were knocked higher than a kite. And then those 'personal spite' cases of a little over a year ago which cost the county nearly $500, and which were subsequently dismissed on motion of the very party who began the prosecution. They cost the tax payers double what the recent discharged jury cost. Why did not the lover of the dear, innocent people go on record with a great big kick against those things? But no, far from it. They defended every steal made and every illegal act committed—yes, every one, and even after the district court had ruled that the bills were illegal and ordered their disallowance the Herald said 'No, no they ain't', but when the people went to the polls in November they voted emphatically against the Herald's party and rebuked them for their many lies and false and slanderous assertions.
