That strange water-weed, the bladder-wort is carnivorous, like some of those sinister tropical plants which seek what meat they may devour. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf-stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the eel-trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant, and straightway is swallowed and as-

Whether on pleasure bent, or business take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs. as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of cickness. For sale in Sec. and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

An Ancient if Convivial Tune.

Which is the oldest tune in the world? Most people would guess the Delphic hymn to Apollo, which was dug up the other day. But they harriedly, "come away!" he cried harriedly, "come away! What will become of us? This is horrible, hor is now wedded to the words, "We won't rible. We have broken taboo. go home till morning," Napoleon's soldiers played it in the shadow of the pyramids in 1799, and the Bedouins who heard it wept for joy. It was found among the children of the desert fast through the forest before any man by the crusaders

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold on a guarantee. It cures Incipient Co samption. It is the test Cough Cure. Escents, Scients and $1.00.

For nausea scorch some rice, pour as possible.

Serman Harvest Beer, Sparkling wholesome Sharvest drink, costs I ct. per gal. Splendid or hot weather. Full instructions for making ant for 25 cts. Ws. Quiss, Bor 21, Toulan, III.

For a cold in the head it will be found that a few drops of camphor on one's handkerchief held to the nose will soon give relief.

A capital drink in fevers is made of sitric acid, 1 dram; glycerine, 1 ounce, and water, 6 ounces. The dose is one or two tablespoonfuls every hour for of people who visit the Invalide Hotel and Burgical Institute, at Burfalo, N. Y., are many who are sont there, by those who have already, from personal experience, learned of the great Triumph in Conservative Surgery

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula PILE TUMORS, and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

RUPTURE, or Breach (Hernia) is radically without pain. Trusses can be thrown away!

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverised, washed out and safely removed without cutting.

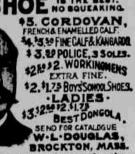

st out and safely removed without cutting.

STRICTURES of Urinary Passage are siting in hundreds of cases.

For Pamphleta, numerous references and all particulars, send ten cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663

Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

DOUCLAS $3 SHOE NO SQUEAKING

You can save money by wearing the W. L. Douglas $3.00 Shoe.

WIFE SAMMOT SEE NOW YOU BO
SHE STATE PAY FREIGHT.

SHE Boys are I down walnut or one has seed Blook and Shape you be not him party Dutched, Strikel plants, adapted to light D MFG. SO. ME Waber Am. SHISASO,ILL.

Are You a Steam User?

IRVIN PRIBBLE, York, Neb.

PATENTS, TRADE-MARKS:

H. M. U. No. 905--99. WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISER.

trait. If you sow the wind, you will reap the whirlwind. They have eaten the storm fruit. Oh, great king, save

CHAPTER X.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND.

her alone to-night into her own quar-

berry paper under her mistress' head, be sure, the Tempest will be born of one clap of thunder rent the sky. After it came a deadly silence. The moon was veiled. All was dark as pitch The natives themselves fell on Such a hurricane Felix had never

Its energy was awful. Round the palmtrees the wind played a frantic and capricious devil's dance. It pirouetted about the atoll in the mad giee of unconsciousness. Here and there it cleared lanes, hundreds of yards in length, among the forest trees stately paim that bent like grass be-fore the wind, break it off with a roar with trunks and branches in their ti-tanic sport, and yet left unburt all had never even imagined before. No wonder the savages all round beheld in it the personal wrath of some

For in spite of the black clouds they could see it all—both the Europeans and the islanders. The intense darkness of the night was lighted up for them every minute by an almost incessant blaze of sheet and forked lightness.

ning. The roar of the thunder min-gled with the roar of the tempest, each in turn overtopping and drowning the other. The hut where Felix and Muriel sheltered themselves shook before the storm: the very ground of the island trembled and quivered-like the timbers of a great ship before a mighty sea—at each onset of the break-ers upon the surrounding fringe-reef. And side by side with it all, to crown their misery, wild torrents of rain, descending in water-spouts, as it seemed,

the very hiss of the lightning could be time to time, in a reproach al voice:

"I tell Missy Queenie what going to happen. I warn her not. I te'l her she must not eat that very bad stormapple. But Missy Queenie no listen.
Her take her own way, then storm

come down upon us."

And Felix's Shadow, in his own mighty spirit.

their meeting to destroy us."

brious litany.

before experienced.

ily ever since that Jurid sunset.

Scarcely were the words well out of the but a rollicking French, voice was heard, thrilling out merrily:

- Quant on considere,

Without waiting for more, the Shadow selzed lelix's arm in an agony have heard the god's voice. The sky will fall on us. If his Shadow were to find it out and tell my people, my peo-ple would tear us limb from limb, cutck, quick! Hide away. Let us run

The Shadow's voice rang deep with alarm. Felix felt he dare not trifle with this superstition Proposed as was his curio-ity about the mysterious Frenchman, he was compelled to bet-tle up his eagerness and anx ety for boiling water over it and drink as hot the moment, and patiently wait till the Month of Birds had run its course, and taken its convenient taboo along with These limitations were terrible. he counted much upon the information the Frenchman could give him. The man had been some time on the island, it was clear, and doubtless he understood its ways thoroughly; he might cast some light at last upon the Korong mystery.

So he went back through the woods with a heart somewhat lighter. Not far from their own huts he met

As they walked home together, Felix told his companion in a very few words the strange discovery about the Frenchman, and the impenetrable ta-boo by which he was at present surrounded. Muriel drew a deep sigh. "Oh, Felix," she said-for they were naturally by this time very much at home with one another, "did you ever know anything so dreadful as the mystheir faces and prayed with mute lips.

If Three minutes later the cyclone had burst upon them in all its frenzy. tery of these taboos? It seems as we should never get really to the bot tom of them. Mali's always springing some new one upon me. I don't be-lieve we shall ever be able to leave the island-we're so hedged round with taboos. Even if we were to see a ship to-day, I don't believe they'd allow us to signal it.

There was a red sunset: a lurid, tropical, red-and-green sunset. It bode 1 mischief.

They were passing by some huts at the moment, and over the stockade of them a tree was hanging with small yellow fruits, which Felix knew well in Fe i as wholesome and agreeable. He broke a small bunch as he passed, and offered a couple thoughtlessly to Muriel. She took them in her fingers, and tasted them gingerly. "They're not so bad," she said. taking another from the bough. "They're very much like gooseberries."

At the same moment, Felix popped one into his own mouth, and swallowed it without thinking. Almost before they knew what had happened, with the same extraordi-nary rapidity as in the case of the wedding, the people in the cottages "an out, with every sign of fear and apprehension, and, seizing the branch from Felix's hands, began upbraiding the two Shadows for their want of at-'We couldn't nelo it," Toko ex-

we couldn't help it, loke ex-claimed, with every appearance of guit and horror on his face. "They were much too enarp for us. Their hearts are black. How could we two interfere? These gods are so quick! They had picked and eaten them before we ever saw them."
One of the men raised his hand with a threatening wir -but against the Shadow, not against the sacred person of Felix. "He will be ill," he said angrily, pointing toward the white man; "and she will too. Their hearts are indeed black. They have sown the seed of the wind. They have both of them eaten of it. They will both be ill. You deserve to die! And what will come new to our trees and plantations?

The crowd gathered gound them, cursing low and horribly. The two terrified Europeans slunk off to their buts, unaware of their exact crime, and closely followed by a scowling but despondent mob of natives. As they crossed their sa red boundary. Muriel cried, with a sudden outburst of tears, "Oh, Felix, what on earth shall we ever do to get rid of this terrible, un-ever do to get rid of this terrible, unendurable godship!"

The natives without set up a great shout of horror. "See, see she cries."
they exclaimed, in indescribable panic.
"She has eaten the storm-fruit, and already she cries! Oh, clouds, restrain yourselves! Oh, great Queen, mercy! Whatever will become of us and our poor huts and gardens."

And for hours they crouched around, beating their breasts and shrieking.

That evening, Muriel sat up late in Felix's hut, with Mail by her side, too frightened to go back into her own alone before those angry people. And all the time, just beyond the barrier line, they could hear, above the whistle of the wind, around the hut, the droning voices of dozens of natives, cowering low on the ground, they seemed ing low on the ground, they seemed to be going through some litany or chant, as if to deprecate the result of this imprudent action.

"What are they doing outside?"
Felix asked of the Shadow at last,
after a peculiarly long wail of misery.
And the Shadow made answer, in very solemn tones. "They are trying to propitiate your mightiness, and to evert the omen, lest the rain should fall, and the wind should blow, and the fall, and the wind should blow, and the storm-cloud should burst over the island to destroy them.

Then Felix remembered suddenly of himself that the season when this storm-fruit, or storm-apple, as they called it was ripe in Fill, was also the season when the great Pacific cyclones most often swept over the land in full the correspondence of the season when the great Pacific cyclones most often swept over the land in full these correspondence of the swept over the land in full these correspondences. And Felix's Shadow, in his own tongue, exclaimed n ore than once in the self-same tone, half terror, half expostulation: "See now what comes from breaking taboo? You eat the storm-fruit. The storm-fruit suits ill with the King of the Rain and the Queen of the Clouds. The heavens have broken loose. The sea has boiled. See what wind and what flood you are bringing upon us." fury storms unexampled on any other sea, like that famous one which wrecked so many European men-of-war bringing upon us."

roar of the mingled thunder and cycone, a wild orgy of noise burst upon them all from without the hut. It was a sound as of numberless drums and tom-toms, all beaten in unison with the mad energy of lear; a hideous sound, suggestive 'some hateful heathen devil-worship. Murlel clapped her hands to her ears in horror. 'Oh, what's that?" she cried to Felix, at this new addition to their endless a arms. "Are the savages out there rising in a body? Have they come to

"l'erhaps." Felix said, smoothing her hair with his hand, as a mother might soothe her terrified child, "perhaps they're angry with us for having caused this storm, as they think, by our foolish action. they all set it down to our having un-lockily eaten that unfortunate fruit. I'll go out to the door myself and speak to them.

Muriel clung to his arm with a passionate clinging.

"Oh, Felix," she cried. "no! Don't leave me here alone. My darling, 1 Toward midnight Muriel began to You're all the world there doze lightly from pure fatigue.
"Put a pillow under her head, and is left to me now, Felix. I on't go out to these wretches and leave me here let her sleep," Felix said in a whisper, "Poor child, it would be cruel to send alone. They'll murder you they'll murder you. Don't go out, I im plore you. If they mean to kill us, let them kill us both together in each others arms. Oh, Felix, J am And Mali slipped a pillow of mulyours, and you are mine, my darling. and laid it on her own lap, and bent down to watch her. It was the first time either of them had acknowledged the fact; but there, But outside, beyond the line, the natives murmured oud their discon-tent. 'The Queen of the Clouds stays sion of nature, all the little deceptions and veils of life seemed rent asunder in the King of the Ram's hut to-night," they muttered angrily. "She will not listen to us. Before morning, forever as by a flash of lightning. They stood face to face with each other's souls, and forgot all else in the agony of the moment. Felix clasped the trembling girl in his arms like a About 2 o'clock there came a full in The two Shadows looked on the wind, which had been rising steadand shock with silent terror. If the King of the Rain thus embraced the looked out of the hut door. The moon Queen of the Clouds before their very eyes, amid so awful a storm, what un-speakable effects might not follow at was full. It was almost as clear as day with the bright tropical moonlight, silvery in the open, pale green in the once from it But they had too much shadow. The people were still squat-ting in great rings round the hut, just respect for those supernatural crea-tures to attempt to interfere in their outside the taboo line, and beating gongs and sticks and human bones, to action at such a moment. They accepted their masters almost as paseep time to the lilt of their lugusively as they accepted the wind and the thunder, which they believed to The air felt unusually heavy and op-pressive. Felix raised his eyes to the sky, and saw wisps of light cloud driftarise from them.

Felix laid his poor Muriel tenderly down on the mud floor again. "I must go out, my child," he said. "For the ing in rapid flight over the scudding moon. Below, an ominous fog bank gathered steadily westward. Then very love of you, I must play the man, and find out what these savages mean by their drumming."

He crept to the door of the hut (for no man could walk upright before that awful storm), and peered out into the had not long to wait. In a moment the sky was all ablaze again from end to end, and continued so for many seconds consecutively. By the light the continuous zigzags of fire, Felix could see for himself that hundreds and hundreds of natives - men, women, and children, naked, or nearly so, with and the co-coanut plantations. The courses and the co-coanut plantations. The moise of snapping and falling trunks line. The wind swept over them with rang thick on the air. At times the extraordinary force, and the tropical rain descended in great hoots are courses. courses deep, just outside the taboo line. The wind swept over them with upon their bare backs and shoulders. But the savages, as if entranced, seemed to take at the bottom, and lay it low at once upon the ground, with a crash like thunder. In other places, little playing and whirlwinds seemed to descend from the sky in the very midst of the dense brushwood, where they cleared circular patches, strewn thick under foot to bushes of the way it looks, 100 bushels will be reached. Send to John A. Salzer they cried aloud once more as Felix appeared, in a weird litany that overgular patches, strewn thick under foot to bushes will be reached. Send to John A. Salzer they cried aloud once more as Felix appeared, in a weird litany that overgular patches, strewn thick under foot to bushels wheat and over the series of the send of the send of the series of the cular patches, strewn thick under foot topped the tumultuous noise of the tempest. "Oh, Storm God, hear us! Oh, great spirit, deliver us! about the surrounding forest. Then the Rain and Queen of the Clouds, befriend us! Be angry no more! Hide your wrath from your people! Take away your hurricane, and we will bring again a special cyclone of gigantic proportions would advance, as it were, in a single column against one stem of a clump, whirl round it spirally like a lightning flash, and, deserting it for another, leave it still standing, but turned and twisted like a screw by the turned and twisted like a screw by the control of the storm-apple – the seed of the wind—and we will feed you with yam and turturned and twisted like a screw by the control of the storm-apple – the seed of the wind—and we will feed you with yam and turturned and twisted like a screw by the irresistible force of its invisible fingers.

Great King, we are yours: you shall choose which you will of our children. The storm-god, said Toko, was dancing choose which you will of our children with the palm trees. The sight was for your meat and drink; you shall sup awful. Such destructive energy Felix on our blood. But take your storm > merge our island! As they spoke they crawled nearer and nearer, with gliding serpentine motion, till their heads almost touched the white line of coral. But no man o them all went one inch beyond it. They stooped there and gazed at him. Felix signed to them with his hand, and pointed vaguely to the sky, as much as to say he was not responsible. At the gesture the whole assembly burst into one loud shout of gratitude. "He has heard us, he has heard us!" they exclaimed, with a perfect wail of joy. "He will not utterly destroy us. He will take away his storm. He will bring the sun and the moon back to > away; do not utterly drown and sub-

Felix returned into the hut, somewhat reassured so far as the attiude of the savages went. "Don't be afraid of them, Muriel," he cried, taking her passionately once more in a tender embrace. "They daren't cross the the taboo. They won't come near; they're too frightened themselves to dream of hurting us."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

or dashed in great sheets against the roof of their frail tenement, poured fittully on with fierce tropical energy.

In the midst of the hut Muriel crouched and prayed with bloodless lips to Heaven. This was too, too terrible. It seemed incredible to her that on top of all they had been called upon to suffer of fear and suspense. at that on top of all they had been called upon to suffer of fear and suspense at the hands of the savages, the very dumb forces of nature themselves should thus be stirred up to open war against them. Her faith in Providence was sorely tried. Dumb forces, indeed! Why, they roared with more terrible voices than any wild beast on earth could possibly compass. The thunder and the wind were howing each other down in emulous din, and the very hiss of the lightning could be Elimination of the Cubic Roct. A council of pedagogues has decided that the cubic root must be eliminated from rudimentary instruction in arithmetic. In the early days the schoolmaster explained the problem very lucidly by the use of wooden blocks and birch switches. But there has been a great decrease in the timber supply, and hen e the study may have increased in cost. Anyway, it distinctly heard, like some huge snake, at times above the creaking and snap-ping of the trees before the gale in is of very little use in ordinary business, and the modern student can find something more engaging in the the surrounding forest.

Muriel crouched there long, in the mute misery of utter despair. At her feet Mali crouched, too, as frightened as herself, but muttering aloud from study of "puts" and "calls."-Troy Times.

The Bat.

fear takes possession of the farmer who finds bats in his chimney, not only because he believes the creaturec will feed upon his pork that hangs in the smoke, but because bats are regarded as unlucky, and bring poverty and mistortune.

Laby at the menagerie-That seal always looks as if he were shedding tears. Keeper—Yes. A lady came in here a minute ago wearing his long-

Take no Substitute for Royal Baking Powder. It is Absolutely Pure.

All others contain alum or ammonia.

Fersons who are troubled with acidity of the stomach, that disagreeable state of affairs when "one's teeth are all on edge," will find it an excellent thing to rinse the mouth and wash the teeth in water containing a few drops of ammonia. This is an alkali and therefore neutralizing the acid remov- painting it with giveerine gives great ing by this means one of the most prolific sources of disease and putting the month in an agreeable and wholesome night mixed with warm water when condition. - New York Ledger.

How to Clean Windows

Simple as the operation may seem there is a way to clean windows and a way not to clean them. The following joining the edges with a puff of camauggestions may be of use to some, as they save both time and labor: Choose a time when the sun does not shine on the window, else it will dry streaked. and no amount of rubbing can prevent it. Brush off all the dust inside and and sew here ribbon loops and ends by out: clean the woodwork around the glass first. Use for this warm water and ammonia; do not use soap. Wipe dry with cotton cloth. Do not use linen, as it leaves lint on the glass when dry.

Polish with tissue or old newspaper.

The Lesson of Independence Day. Our nation's national day should ever be held sacred in the memories and the patriotic lessons it teaches treasured in the hearts of all our people, its observance should be kept alive, and to that end the blessings of liberty and the advantages of a free government should be continually instilled into the minds of all citizens, both by birth and by adoption, and ospecially impressed updarkness once more, awaiting one of the frequent flashes of lightning. He on the youth of the land, who are soon

Bath slippers are appreciated more and more. They are made of cotton or linen terry, with leather soles and no heels. Bath mitts made of cotton or linen terry on one side, are useful in cheeks - lay flat on their faces, many their way. They are quite inexpensive Wonderful reports come in on Salzer's new winter wheat and monster winter rye. Over 2,000 farmers planted these grains last fall, and now rye and fall catalogue.

Coort plaster should never be applied to a bruised wound. No one is perfectly well, but those who are habitually clean come nearer being so than the unwashed element. In fevers and in other states when there is great parching of the tongue Licorice powder is a safe and mild aperient. Take a desert spoonful at occasion requires.

Eastly Made and Useful.

To make a convenient bag for paper and twine, double a yard of creponne. brick of solid and harmonizing color. At the top turn in each of the four edges for several inches, so that the two sides end in a point. Fasten these together with button and buttonhole which to hang up the bag. To one side sew a triangular outside pocket, with a box-plait in the middle of it. Make deep rather than broad; this is for the twine. It forms a very handy receptacle for wrappings and one to which the family will be apt to often repair if hung in one accustomed place

Hall's Catarrh Cure Is taken internally. Price 75 cents

"You don't have monarchs in this country?" said a visitor to the United States, musingly. "Not by that name," replied the native. "We have servant girls, however."-Tid-Bits.

Women cannot get excuses enough te wear buckles. Paste, jet, enamel, silves gilt and old silver are desired. An antique buckle which looked as if made with opals, but wasn't, was seen.

A Good Appetite Is essential to good health, and when the natural desire for food is gone strength will soon ail. For loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache, and other lood's Sarsa-Toom troubles of a dyspeptic nature Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy which most certainly cures. It quickly tones the stomach and makes one "real hungry."

Invalids-

no matter what their ailment are benefitted by the pure air and healing waters of Hot Springs, S. D.

Rheumatism, neuralgia, dropsy, dyspepsia, eczema, liver, blood and kidney complaints > are only a few of the diseases that are there successfully treated.

Beautifully illustrated folder free on request. Ask the Local Ticket Agent for a copy, or write to > J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent, Burlington Route, Omaha, Neb.

bat among the peasants of South Germany. A feeling of disgust and

WE have a limited number of these books in our possession, and offer them at the extremely Low Price of $1.45 postpaid.

THIS work contains information peculiarly valuable to anyone wishing to become acquainted with matters concerning the state and state concernments. It also contains the Declaration of Independence, Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of the Beatler Nebraska, Statutory Provisions, Manual of Parliamentary Provisions,

SENT prepaid to any address in the United States on receipt of the