The Election.

The election in Sioux county was the most quiet ever known. The day was pleasant but the voters did not turn out and a result not more than a three-fourths vote was polled. The only county officers to be elected were the attorney and a judge to fill vacancy and but little attention was paid to them for they are both minor offices and the salary small. Alvin T. Clark was elected county attorney by 73 majority, his opponent being W. O. Patterson a blacksmith who does not pretend to know any law. For the judgeship Robert Wilson, the present incumbent was elected over B. L. Smuck by a majority of 81.

The most noticeable fact in the election was the falling off in the populist vote and the lack of interest taken by those who have been leaders in the movement in the past. It will be observed that H. G. Stewart was let down in great shape for the people of Sioux county had tumbled to his racket and were not misled by his loud pretensions to being a reformer.

No election was held in Running Water or Sheep Creek precincts, the latter not having held an election for some years past.

In the second district M. J. Weber was elected over D. A. Pudlow by a majority of 5 votes. The figures in the table which appears on another column are nearly correct but not quite complete but will be corrected in the next issue.
