

The Stamp of Style.
Bonnet and toque strings are dispensed with in nearly all fine millinery. Tartan ribbons mingled with dark green and other velvets on English walking hats.
Golden brown, pale fawn color, tan and green are the favorite shades in cloth for capes.
The newest chiffons are in shot effects, one pattern, for instance, being of pink shot with palest yellow. Another piece has golden green, shot with violet.

ON THE ROAD
To recover, the young woman who is taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in maidenhood, womanhood and motherhood. The "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nerve restorer that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating and strengthening the system and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription."
It reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it.

KNOWLEDGE
Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.
Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.
Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples, loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.
One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 355 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10c and 25c a box.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR
IMPERIAL GRANUM
IT IS
THE BEST FOOD
FOR
Dyspeptic, Delicate, Infirm and AGED PERSONS
* JOHN CARLIS & SONS, New York.

Burlington Route
NEW SHORT LINE TO TACOMA
J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, OMAHA, N.
PISSURE FOR
URINARY TRACT AFFECTIONS
In a single dose. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Throat Paralysis.
(From the Courier-Record, Saginaw, Mich.)
It was publicly talked all over Clark County, Michigan, for some time before the Courier-Record sent a reporter to Dover to fully investigate the Goulter matter. He finally sent, and we publish to-day his full report. The Goulters are prominent people, though Mrs. C., in response to the question whether she objected to being interviewed, said: "Certainly not." Her story follows:
"About fourteen years ago we decided to take up our abode in Dover, and everything went along smoothly for several years, business progressed, and being of a sunny temperament we accumulated quite an amount. Our family increased as the years rolled by, and we now have five children living, the oldest 15, youngest 3, but sickness made its way into our household, and doctors bill flooded upon us, until we have nothing left but our home, and these sweet children. Everything went to satisfy the claims of physicians.
"About three years ago I had a miserable feeling at the back of my ears, my right hand became paralyzed and the paralysis extended to my arm and throat, and would affect my head and eyes, sometimes for days I would lose my sight, my face was distorted, lifeless, as if were, my nose was drawn to one side and I presented a pitiable appearance and never expecting to regain my natural facial expression. I employed the best physicians that could be procured, spending thousands of dollars for their services, but could not obtain relief. At last, they stated my case was beyond the reach of medical skill, and it would be but a short time until the end would come. This certainly was not very encouraging to me, but I never gave up hope. In connection with receiving the attendance of physicians I have tried every medicine known to the apothecary, but never receiving any benefit, until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People came to my assistance. Before I had taken half of the first box the deformity in my face had left me, and before four boxes had been consumed the paralysis had disappeared entirely and I was much to my surprise I felt like a new woman. I have not taken any medicine since last spring, just about a year ago, and my trouble has not appeared since. I owe my health, my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.
"A short time since my little boy John was afflicted with St. Vitus' dance. He could not walk across the room without assistance; in fact, he would fall all over himself, but after taking a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, St. Vitus' dance entirely left him, and no trace of the affliction is left. These pills are worth their weight in gold. You may say in this connection that I am willing at any time to make affidavit to the truth of these statements, and furthermore, I will answer any communication concerning my case, as I consider it nothing more than right and just that I should assist suffering humanity.
"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

THE OLD FARM HOUSE.
You fellows in the city, although great you may have grown.
Though wealth you have in plenty, and fame you call your own;
You fellows in the city, who in early childhood days,
Romped among the meadows in the country's green by-ways
I know you sometimes sicken of the city's dust and heat,
And your eyes grow blurred while looking at the long and crowded street,
Till it fades into the country's lanes and fields you used to roam,
And on memory's canvas then is spread the old farm home.
The old farm home—
With the blooming apple orchard,
With the little garden plot,
With the milk house cool and dripping,
With the leaved pasture lot,
With the roosters loudly crowing,
With the cackling of hens,
With the singing of the meadow larks,
And chattering wrens;
There's no pictures done by painters
From Paris or from Rome,
That can thrill you like the memories
Of the old farm home.
You fellows in the city, don't you sometimes wish that you
Could sit on the kitchen porch just like you used to do,
And look across the meadows at the distant spires of town?
While behind the black west-woodland the red sun filtered down;
While the evening winds were snapping the blossoms from the trees,
And the old dog looked up at you with his paws upon your knees,
There's no spot that you love better beneath the azure dome
Than the kingdom of your boyhood—the old farm home.
The old farm home—
In the hills or on the prairie,
Be it big or be it small,
You know every crook and cranny,
Every motto on the wall;
"What is Home Without a Mother?"
"God is Love." Ah, to that man
They preach a grander sermon
Than the greatest preacher can.
The pictures of the day are gone,
Wherever he may be,
Look down upon him from the walls
Of the old farm home.
—Maurice Clayton.

A Thrilling Tale.
A Question of Heroism.
I almost seemed as if, by some strange irony of nature, the sexes had been reversed.
The girl who was sculling the skiff up stream with long, powerful strokes was a glorious specimen of modern womanhood, tall, broad shouldered, overhauling with health and strength. A fresh color was in her cheeks and a brightness in her eye, as if she revelled in the mere bodily exercise. Facing her, with his brown hands grasping the yoke lines, was a thin, prematurely aged man, his hair slightly tinged with gray, his face lean almost to the point of emaciation. He was not of large build, but he looked smaller than he really was by force of contrast with the fresh and somewhat exuberant beauty of his companion. It required more than common observation to discover the gleam hidden in the depths of his sleepy brown eyes and the evidences of a sinewy strength in the lines of his well-knit though spare form.
She looked at him with a sort of pity as she spoke; apparently in reply to a question.
"I am so sorry," she said. "I—I never expected this. I thought we were to be just friends and nothing more. I had no idea that you were thinking of me in that way."
He did not speak, but the wistful look in his brown eyes caused her to continue.
"You know I like you, that I trust you as I trust no one else. But that is not love. It would be unfair to both of us for me to pretend that I do, or could, love you—as you would expect to be loved. There is no one else, do not think that. But all the same I can give you no hope."
"But if there is no one else, surely I may hope."
"No, please no. You hurt me, and you delude yourself when you suggest it. And I do so want you to remain my friend. I wish, oh I wish I could love you. But I cannot, I can only wait."
He looked at her questioningly.
"Don't you know?" she asked. "It's really not my fault. I can't help it. Why should I have made an ideal for myself? Why should I always worship and wait for a hero?"—she looked almost fierce as she asked the question—"And he never comes! Why weren't you born a hero, Mr. Dare?"
The man did not seem to perceive the humor of the situation.
"Heroes," he replied gravely, "are somewhat rare in these days. Isn't your idea rather impossible?"
"No, ten thousand times no," was her vehement cry. "You, a soldier, say that. Haven't you seen any acts of heroism? Why, quite recently, it must have been while you were out at the Cape, a man performed a feat that was equal to any that history tells of. You must have heard of it."

Hall's Catarrh Cure
Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.
The flower-de-luce enameled in natural colors adorns the highly burnished surface of a handsome buckle, and distinctive types of decoration of all the Louis are popular ornamentations.
Tobacco Stinking Breath.
Not pleasant to always carry around, but it isn't compare with the nerve-destroying power that tobacco keeps at work night and day to make you weak and wretched. And you lose interest in sweet words and smoke tell the story. Brace up—quit. No-Tobacco is a sure, quick cure. Guaranteed by Druggists everywhere. Book titled "Don't Let Tobacco Spit or Smoke Your Life Away." Free. All Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today.
Hood's Pills
The after-dinner pill and family cathartic. 25c.

THE OLD FARM HOUSE.
You fellows in the city, although great you may have grown.
Though wealth you have in plenty, and fame you call your own;
You fellows in the city, who in early childhood days,
Romped among the meadows in the country's green by-ways
I know you sometimes sicken of the city's dust and heat,
And your eyes grow blurred while looking at the long and crowded street,
Till it fades into the country's lanes and fields you used to roam,
And on memory's canvas then is spread the old farm home.
The old farm home—
With the blooming apple orchard,
With the little garden plot,
With the milk house cool and dripping,
With the leaved pasture lot,
With the roosters loudly crowing,
With the cackling of hens,
With the singing of the meadow larks,
And chattering wrens;
There's no pictures done by painters
From Paris or from Rome,
That can thrill you like the memories
Of the old farm home.
You fellows in the city, don't you sometimes wish that you
Could sit on the kitchen porch just like you used to do,
And look across the meadows at the distant spires of town?
While behind the black west-woodland the red sun filtered down;
While the evening winds were snapping the blossoms from the trees,
And the old dog looked up at you with his paws upon your knees,
There's no spot that you love better beneath the azure dome
Than the kingdom of your boyhood—the old farm home.
The old farm home—
In the hills or on the prairie,
Be it big or be it small,
You know every crook and cranny,
Every motto on the wall;
"What is Home Without a Mother?"
"God is Love." Ah, to that man
They preach a grander sermon
Than the greatest preacher can.
The pictures of the day are gone,
Wherever he may be,
Look down upon him from the walls
Of the old farm home.
—Maurice Clayton.

A Thrilling Tale.
A Question of Heroism.
I almost seemed as if, by some strange irony of nature, the sexes had been reversed.
The girl who was sculling the skiff up stream with long, powerful strokes was a glorious specimen of modern womanhood, tall, broad shouldered, overhauling with health and strength. A fresh color was in her cheeks and a brightness in her eye, as if she revelled in the mere bodily exercise. Facing her, with his brown hands grasping the yoke lines, was a thin, prematurely aged man, his hair slightly tinged with gray, his face lean almost to the point of emaciation. He was not of large build, but he looked smaller than he really was by force of contrast with the fresh and somewhat exuberant beauty of his companion. It required more than common observation to discover the gleam hidden in the depths of his sleepy brown eyes and the evidences of a sinewy strength in the lines of his well-knit though spare form.
She looked at him with a sort of pity as she spoke; apparently in reply to a question.
"I am so sorry," she said. "I—I never expected this. I thought we were to be just friends and nothing more. I had no idea that you were thinking of me in that way."
He did not speak, but the wistful look in his brown eyes caused her to continue.
"You know I like you, that I trust you as I trust no one else. But that is not love. It would be unfair to both of us for me to pretend that I do, or could, love you—as you would expect to be loved. There is no one else, do not think that. But all the same I can give you no hope."
"But if there is no one else, surely I may hope."
"No, please no. You hurt me, and you delude yourself when you suggest it. And I do so want you to remain my friend. I wish, oh I wish I could love you. But I cannot, I can only wait."
He looked at her questioningly.
"Don't you know?" she asked. "It's really not my fault. I can't help it. Why should I have made an ideal for myself? Why should I always worship and wait for a hero?"—she looked almost fierce as she asked the question—"And he never comes! Why weren't you born a hero, Mr. Dare?"
The man did not seem to perceive the humor of the situation.
"Heroes," he replied gravely, "are somewhat rare in these days. Isn't your idea rather impossible?"
"No, ten thousand times no," was her vehement cry. "You, a soldier, say that. Haven't you seen any acts of heroism? Why, quite recently, it must have been while you were out at the Cape, a man performed a feat that was equal to any that history tells of. You must have heard of it."

Hall's Catarrh Cure
Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.
The flower-de-luce enameled in natural colors adorns the highly burnished surface of a handsome buckle, and distinctive types of decoration of all the Louis are popular ornamentations.
Tobacco Stinking Breath.
Not pleasant to always carry around, but it isn't compare with the nerve-destroying power that tobacco keeps at work night and day to make you weak and wretched. And you lose interest in sweet words and smoke tell the story. Brace up—quit. No-Tobacco is a sure, quick cure. Guaranteed by Druggists everywhere. Book titled "Don't Let Tobacco Spit or Smoke Your Life Away." Free. All Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today.
Hood's Pills
The after-dinner pill and family cathartic. 25c.

THE OLD FARM HOUSE.
You fellows in the city, although great you may have grown.
Though wealth you have in plenty, and fame you call your own;
You fellows in the city, who in early childhood days,
Romped among the meadows in the country's green by-ways
I know you sometimes sicken of the city's dust and heat,
And your eyes grow blurred while looking at the long and crowded street,
Till it fades into the country's lanes and fields you used to roam,
And on memory's canvas then is spread the old farm home.
The old farm home—
With the blooming apple orchard,
With the little garden plot,
With the milk house cool and dripping,
With the leaved pasture lot,
With the roosters loudly crowing,
With the cackling of hens,
With the singing of the meadow larks,
And chattering wrens;
There's no pictures done by painters
From Paris or from Rome,
That can thrill you like the memories
Of the old farm home.
You fellows in the city, don't you sometimes wish that you
Could sit on the kitchen porch just like you used to do,
And look across the meadows at the distant spires of town?
While behind the black west-woodland the red sun filtered down;
While the evening winds were snapping the blossoms from the trees,
And the old dog looked up at you with his paws upon your knees,
There's no spot that you love better beneath the azure dome
Than the kingdom of your boyhood—the old farm home.
The old farm home—
In the hills or on the prairie,
Be it big or be it small,
You know every crook and cranny,
Every motto on the wall;
"What is Home Without a Mother?"
"God is Love." Ah, to that man
They preach a grander sermon
Than the greatest preacher can.
The pictures of the day are gone,
Wherever he may be,
Look down upon him from the walls
Of the old farm home.
—Maurice Clayton.

A Thrilling Tale.
A Question of Heroism.
I almost seemed as if, by some strange irony of nature, the sexes had been reversed.
The girl who was sculling the skiff up stream with long, powerful strokes was a glorious specimen of modern womanhood, tall, broad shouldered, overhauling with health and strength. A fresh color was in her cheeks and a brightness in her eye, as if she revelled in the mere bodily exercise. Facing her, with his brown hands grasping the yoke lines, was a thin, prematurely aged man, his hair slightly tinged with gray, his face lean almost to the point of emaciation. He was not of large build, but he looked smaller than he really was by force of contrast with the fresh and somewhat exuberant beauty of his companion. It required more than common observation to discover the gleam hidden in the depths of his sleepy brown eyes and the evidences of a sinewy strength in the lines of his well-knit though spare form.
She looked at him with a sort of pity as she spoke; apparently in reply to a question.
"I am so sorry," she said. "I—I never expected this. I thought we were to be just friends and nothing more. I had no idea that you were thinking of me in that way."
He did not speak, but the wistful look in his brown eyes caused her to continue.
"You know I like you, that I trust you as I trust no one else. But that is not love. It would be unfair to both of us for me to pretend that I do, or could, love you—as you would expect to be loved. There is no one else, do not think that. But all the same I can give you no hope."
"But if there is no one else, surely I may hope."
"No, please no. You hurt me, and you delude yourself when you suggest it. And I do so want you to remain my friend. I wish, oh I wish I could love you. But I cannot, I can only wait."
He looked at her questioningly.
"Don't you know?" she asked. "It's really not my fault. I can't help it. Why should I have made an ideal for myself? Why should I always worship and wait for a hero?"—she looked almost fierce as she asked the question—"And he never comes! Why weren't you born a hero, Mr. Dare?"
The man did not seem to perceive the humor of the situation.
"Heroes," he replied gravely, "are somewhat rare in these days. Isn't your idea rather impossible?"
"No, ten thousand times no," was her vehement cry. "You, a soldier, say that. Haven't you seen any acts of heroism? Why, quite recently, it must have been while you were out at the Cape, a man performed a feat that was equal to any that history tells of. You must have heard of it."

Hall's Catarrh Cure
Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.
The flower-de-luce enameled in natural colors adorns the highly burnished surface of a handsome buckle, and distinctive types of decoration of all the Louis are popular ornamentations.
Tobacco Stinking Breath.
Not pleasant to always carry around, but it isn't compare with the nerve-destroying power that tobacco keeps at work night and day to make you weak and wretched. And you lose interest in sweet words and smoke tell the story. Brace up—quit. No-Tobacco is a sure, quick cure. Guaranteed by Druggists everywhere. Book titled "Don't Let Tobacco Spit or Smoke Your Life Away." Free. All Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today.
Hood's Pills
The after-dinner pill and family cathartic. 25c.

Royal Baking Powder
Highest of all in leavening strength.
Latest U. S. Government Food Report.
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Hints for Beekeepers.
By using an extractor old combs may be saved and utilized.
Every bit of wax and old combs should be carefully saved.
The queen must be prolific in order to keep the hive full of bees.
Bees bred in new comb are generally much larger than those reared in old.
In order to obtain the best results it is essential to have the best grade of bees.
The Month.
If people would wash out their mouths twice or three times a day with an antiseptic solution, there would not be near so much sickness. A physician says: I have never had a cold, sore throat or fever and I ascribe this immunity solely to the fact that I follow this plan rigidly. There are any number of proprietary antiseptics that are excellent for this purpose.
One of the best is carbolic acid. A very weak solution of this gargled and held in the mouth two or three times a day will work wonders. Immediately after using, one will find that the mouth feels cleaner. I believe that a great majority of the throat and lung troubles come from the lodgment of disease microbes within the mucous membranes of the mouth. The free use of antiseptics will kill these germs.
Her Mistake.
It was in the theater lobby, right after the curtain had dropped for the last time. The ladies were putting on their wraps. The gentlemen were busy assisting them. Everyone was trying to get out of the main door. In the center of the crowd was a young man and his best girl. He was a nice young man and the girl was pretty. Walking in front of them, or rather in front of the girl, was an elderly looking man. He stopped suddenly, his face got red and purple by turns. He finally blurted out: "Sir! What do you mean by squeezing my hand?" The young man pushed and so did the girl. The men near by nudged one another, and the women elevated their heads a little and heard nothing.
Yawning is Good Exercise.
Yawning, when reasonably and methodically practiced, is said by Herr Nogeli to be an excellent thing for those who wish to strengthen their constitutions. He has made a study of it, and positively asserts that a series of heavy yawns is of more benefit than a bottle of the best tonic. The practice of deep breathing is generally acknowledged to be an excellent thing for the lungs, and Nogeli says the stretching of the arms and breast bones which accompanies a yawn together with the expansion of the lungs, forms splendid morning and evening exercise, and the most perfect chamber gymnastics to people generally, and especially to all those whose breathing is embarrassed. In future, therefore, says Invention, if our friends yawn when discoursing to them we may console ourselves with the thought that it is not because we are boring them, but that they are enthusiasts, and are practicing their chamber gymnastics in the wrong place.
The present method of bunching the hair out at the sides requires side combs. These have appeared in summer guise with silver mountings, and very pretty they are.

THE ST. JOSEPH AND GRAND ISLAND R. R.
—IS THE—
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST LINE
TO ALL PORTS
NORTH
WEST AND EAST
SOUTH
And in connection with the Union Pacific System
—IS THE FAVORITE ROUTE.
To California, Oregon and all Western Ports.
For information regarding rates, etc., call on or address any agent or
M. P. Robinson, Jr., Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Gen'l Manager, St. Joseph, Mo.

DAVIS CREAM SEPARATORS
A Durable Leader
Successful, Meritorious
Promptly Mailed Free
OF AGENTS WANTED.
DAVIS & RANKIN
BLDG. & MFG. CO.
Sole Manufacturers,
240-254 W. Lake St.
Chicago, Ill.

LEWIS' 98% LYE
Powdered and Perfumed.
The standard and purest Lye made in the U.S. for use in the home. It is a white solid mass, and is sold in a tin with a lid which is easily opened. Will make the best of cleaning water pipe, disinfecting, etc. Washes, whitens, bleaches, and is the best of cleaning water pipe, disinfecting, etc. Washes, whitens, bleaches, and is the best of cleaning water pipe, disinfecting, etc. Washes, whitens, bleaches, and is the best of cleaning water pipe, disinfecting, etc.
PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C., No. 417, for this Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.
S. N. S. No. 343-18. York Neb.
When writing to advertise, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

"The More You Say the Less People Remember." One Word With You,
SAPOLIO
Above All Others
There is no soap in the world that stands so high in the opinion of thoughtful women as
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
For washing clothes or doing housework, it can't be equalled. Try it. Sold everywhere. Made only by The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago.

