Wind Wheels.

A few fragmentary reports of occasional work done by wind wheels were received, some of which I will mention merely to show what they accomplish.

In Texas a wheel 12 feet in diameter raised from 50,000 to 100,000 gallons per month to a height of 50 feet. In Wisconsin a wheel 10 feet in diameter raised 50 barrels of water per day to a height of 50 feet.

A case deserving of more notice is one reported by P. H. James, of Cortland, Neb. He used a wheel 10 feet in diameter for pumping water a distance of 130 feet through a 2-inch pipe.

The interesting feature is the record kept of water pumped for over a year, which is as follows: January, 1,500 barrels; February, 1,500; March, 2,000; April, 2,500; May, 2,500; June, 2,500; July, 2,500; August, 2,500; September, 2,500; October, 2,000; November, 2,000; December, 1,500.

How much could have been pumped had all the wind been utilized it is impossible to say, but the pumping of 25,000 barrels in a year's time is certainly a practical demonstration of the usefulness of these wheels.

It is to be hoped that that wished for experimental work will soon be done, so that the amount of available wind power, or rather, the work that can be accomplished by using wind as a motor, can be determined for any region of the United States for which we have wind observations.

Blood Poison THE BANE OF HUMAN LIFE, Driven Out of the System by the Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I was a great sufferer from a most persistent blood disease, none of the various medicines I took being of any help whatever. Hoping that change of climate would benefit me, I went to Cuba, to Florida, and then to Saratoga Springs, where I remained some time drinking the waters. But all was no use. At last, being advised by several friends to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I began taking it, and very soon favorable results were manifested. To-day I consider myself a perfectly healthy man, with a good appetite and not the least trace of my former complaint. To all my friends, and especially young men like myself, I recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if in need of a perfect and reliable blood-purifier. —J. A.
