—The social at the court house on last Friday evening was quite well attended and a pleasant time enjoyed by all present. The flags worn by some kept people guessing as to the nation they represented.

—A new time card went into effect on the F. E. & M. V. a few days ago. The train going east in the evening now leaves here at seven o'clock. No change occurred in the time of the westbound train.

—The board of county commissioners is called to meet on Friday, December 27th. That will be the last meeting of the year and the board will close up the business of the year as far as possible. THE JOURNAL will give a review of the affairs of the county in the near future.

—Arrangements are being made for a Christmas tree and entertainment to be given at the church on Christmas eve (Tuesday evening). A good program is being prepared and a pleasant time is anticipated. Those who have presents for their friends which they desire placed upon the tree are requested to bring them to the church as early as possible on Tuesday afternoon that the committee may have time to arrange them. All are invited to attend.

—Last week Mrs. L. J. Simmons received a handsome Estey organ as a Christmas present. It was a little early in the season, but its presence in the home will not detract from the pleasures of the holidays. There are many good organs on the market but there are none which for style, finish, delicacy of touch or clearness and sweetness of tone excel the Estey. For durability they have no equal, and it always pays to get the best.

—No sensible person should get angry because a newspaper man duns him for money. A dun is not an impeachment of a subscriber's integrity, but is simply an outcropping of a publisher's necessities. For instance, 50 men owe a man from one to four dollars each. He has to dun them all in order to pay expenses. Instead of getting angry and stopping his paper for being asked to pay what is honestly due, the subscriber should thank the editor for having waited on him so patiently and pay up like a man.

The True American Position.
Secretary Olney has undoubtedly made strong, explicit and proper representations of American views upon the whole subject to the British government; and congress may feel that it will make no mistake if it sustains the position of the secretary with promptness, without ambiguity, and without a word of bluster or harshness. The Monroe doctrine seems to us to be involved in the fullest sense; but even if it were not involved, it would be quite as reasonable for Mr. Olney and the present administration to lay down a Cleveland doctrine as it was for Secretary J. Q. Adams and President Monroe to announce a Monroe doctrine. We have formed a habit here in this western hemisphere, of settling boundary disputes by arbitration. If England desires to be considered as an "American power," it is right that she should accept the good and true principle that there is a peaceful and lawful way to settle these disputes, and that way is arbitration. As for the blustering talk which makes light of the hideous word "War," let us have none of it. War between the United States and England is as impossible as a war between Russia and the planet Mars. It is not conceivable that our firm request that a scandalous little dispute in our hemisphere should be settled decently and righteously, should make for war rather than for peace.—From "The Progress of the World," in the December Review of Reviews.

To Each of You.
If you owe Geo. H. Turner or Hough & Son either by note or account it will be to your interest to call at once and settle.

Taken in by Uncle Sam.
After the last issue of THE JOURNAL was out the editor learned that T. J. Garrison, the defeated pop candidate for surveyor of Dawes county who was trying to get himself appointed surveyor of Sioux county, was exceedingly indignant because this paper had exposed his little scheme and expressed disapproval of it. That was the best of evidence that what was said was true for THE JOURNAL has found that whenever any one gets mad at what it says about him it is the truth and the truth hurts. But he had other strings to his bow and was working to get people to contribute funds to enable him to start a new paper here. It was to be a paper to suit every body in every respect and a few office-seeking pops and a some members of other parties who want to run other people's business as well as their own, and some who have had the truth told about them in THE JOURNAL or have been unable to have it help them carry out their schemes were urging him on, some even advancing money to him. It might have become an established fact but on Wednesday Deputy United States Marshall Liddiard came up and took Mr. Garrison into custody, an indictment having been returned against him by the United States grand jury at Omaha a few days before on the charge of bootlegging whisky, and he left with the office on the evening train and left Landlord Rohwer with an unpaid board bill.
The scheme must have been to run a paper with a bootlegging attachment as there is scarcely business for one paper and one saloon here, but by running the two and not paying license he might have made dividends on the capital stock. The backers of the scheme naturally feel sheepish over the matter and it may be that they will learn better than to bite next time.

Closing Out Sale.
As I wish to go out of business I will sell all goods at cost. Harness, whips, etc., at unheard-of prices.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'Review of Reviews,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."
