RANCH SUPPLY HOUSE.

The Toledo Weekly Blade and Campaign of 1896.

With a great presidential campaign coming next year, every thoughtful citizen will need, besides his local paper, a great national weekly. The greatest and most widely known of these is the Toledo Weekly Blade. For thirty years it has been a regular visitor in every part of the Union, and is well known at almost every one of the 70,000 post-offices in the country. It is edited with reference to a national circulation. It is a republican paper, but men of all politics take it because of its honesty and fairness in the discussion of all public questions. It is the favorite family paper, with something for every member of the household. Serial stories, poetry, wit and humor; the household department (best in the world), Young Folks, Sunday School Lessons, Talmage's Sermons, the Farmstead, the Question Bureau (which answers questions for subscribers), the News of the Week, in complete form, and other special features. Specimen copies gladly sent on application, and if you will send us a list of addresses, we will mail a copy to each. Only $1 a year. If you wish to raise a club, write for terms.

Address, The Blade,
Toledo, Ohio.

School will begin again on next Monday.

For the highest cash price for wheat see Grant Guthrie.

Fine line of jewelry and clocks at Pioneer Pharmacy.

Judging from the way the new year started in it is a pretty handy youth.

N. D. Hamlin has moved to the rooms in the second story of the Andrews building.

Christmas books for old and young. Also stationery at about one-half usual price at Smith's harness shop.

Geo. H. Turner received a large voice of clothing and invites all to call when in need of such goods.

Horsehair compound cough syrup the great remedy for coughs and colds at the Pioneer Pharmacy.

A new Estey organ arrived a few days ago for B. F. Johnson. He knows that masonic charms to soothe the savage breast.

A man was sent to the pen from Sheridan county a few days ago for robbing cattle wearing the "spade" brand.

All those knowing themselves indebted to me will please call and settle by January 1, 1896.

Respectfully,
J. W. SMITH.

The supper given by the Lodge of Woodmen of the World on Saturday evening is reported to have been a very enjoyable affair. Most of the members were present.

The nonsmoking ball was quite well attended. But few appeared in costume but that did not prevent a general good good time. The prizes were won by Roy Maine and Miss Baumgard.

W. T. Jones and family returned the first of the week from the eastern part of the state. They went there expecting that Mr. Jones could get work, but work was not to be had, so they decided that Sioux county was a pretty good place and came back.

We are in receipt of the Columbia Calendar for 1896 and it is an improvement over that of last year. Any one can obtain one by sending five twenty-cent stamps to the Calendar Department of the Pipe Manufacturing Co., Hartford, Conn.

The new county officers who were elected at the last election will be inducted into their respective offices on next Thursday. The only changes will occur in the positions of treasurer and sheriff, all of the others having been reelected.

The receipt of the State Journal Almanac is acknowledged. It is a volume full of information of value to all and compares favorably with the publications sent out by the metropolitan papers of the east. It has a large amount of information of special interest to Nebrascans and will be appreciated by all.

At the last meeting of the board a bill was presented for supplies furnished to a family or order of a justice of the peace and among the items were table cloth, toweling, lemons, oranges, prunes, peaches, cups and saucers, and other things. The board declined to pay it for the reason that the county can pay only for necessities of life. If such bills were allowed against the county a good many families would seek to be fitted out. Justices of the peace should use care in such cases and draw the line between necessities and other things.

By the record of the meeting of the board of county commissioners which appears in this issue it will be seen that A. T. Clark resigned the office of county attorney, he having moved to Chadron, and Grant Guthrie was appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Guthrie has long been a resident of Sioux county and is known to most of the people and since he has entered the legal profession has shown good ability, and he will give the county the best service in his power. The writer believes that while he will ever be ready to prosecute any cases which may come up, regardless of whom the defendant may be, he will be ever mindful of the interests of the taxpayers and will carefully consider the evidence and satisfy himself that there is reasonable grounds for bringing the action before making costs to the county.

A communication was received a few days ago from Adelia to which the writer failed to attach his or her name. There is a rule in force in all newspaper offices that the publisher must know the author of all communications which are published. We hope the subscriber who sent the communication referred to will try again and sign his or her name to the epistle. We do not want the name for publication but simply that we may know from whom our information is received. We should like to have a correspondent in each locality who would send us short notes of whatever of interest happens in their neighborhood and will furnish such persons the necessary stationery and postage. It is not expected that in a sparsely settled county like this correspondents can send in a "batch" of news each week, but there are happenings in every settlement occasionally that would be read with interest by many, and such news is what the publisher wants.

PERSONAL.

Henry Covey was in from Highland on Saturday.

Bill Nye's New Year Meditation.

The thoughts inspired in the famous humorist's mind by the advent of the new year.

Of course the serious business on New Year's day is to make good resolutions, and no person who respects himself or has due regard for the proprieties will begin to smash them until the bright-eyed young cherub whom we picture as the New Year has been long enough in the world not to mind hearing the crash of the fine chimes. Some authorities on the etiquette of the day say that while the breaking should not begin before sundown of New Year's day, it may be inaugurated after that time, as the cherub, being very young, and tired out with moving in, may be presumed to have rested for the night. This, however, is a doubtful point, upon which it is not safe to act.

Personally, I don't begin to toy with the good resolutions until late in the day. I wake up to them by degrees. The first thing I do in the morning is to think over the good I have done. I find that I can finish this very nicely before breakfast by getting up at my usual time, which is six minutes before James, my hatty, brings in the first course of sun-kissed strawberries. I think I may say without much pride, that these strawberries are kissed through the hot-house windows at fifty cents a kiss.

After breakfast I attend to my regrets for things done which ought not to have been done, and things left undone which ought to have been done. This is the long undertaking of the day, and I should have to pull down the curtains upon the still night and the white mantle of virgin snow, and light the lamp before completing it, were it not for the fact that I do not find myself an enthusiastic regretter, and soon tire of my work. I knock off with the comforting thought that we should only regret enough to chastise ourselves, anyhow, and then with a firm, rigid upper lip should proceed to do better. We should let our sorrows heal, if they will, instead of keeping them open, torn and bleeding, as cowardly soldiers sometimes do to avoid coming to battle. I always like to shake hands with the New Year and bid it welcome, for it seems to me to be a sort of "cleaning-day," when we can put our past on the line, look it over, and pound it with the broom and knock out the dust of selfishness and unkindness.—From "New Thoughts for the New Year," in Demorest's Magazine for January.

To all parties who come from Harrison to Crawford to have dental work done by me I will make a reduction of ten per cent from regular prices.

T. J. Ginson, Dentist.
