Mrs. S. Tebbet has moved into rooms in the Andrews building so that the children may attend school.

Last Saturday was the banner stock shipping day for Harrison. Twenty-nine carloads of cattle and one carload of horses were billed out from here.

The first quarterly meeting of the conference year was held here Saturday and Sunday by Presiding Elder Julian, and on Sunday evening he preached at Bodare.

Father Munch will have charge of the Catholic church at Montrose in future. He is located at Crawford. Father Brophy will continue to make occasional visits to Harrison.

Your pastor believes in free and unlimited coinage, at the ratio of 19 to 1. Come to the church in Harrison Sunday evening, October 18th, and hear him discourse upon the subject.

John P. Curran, a ranchman in Sioux county, was in the city yesterday and made this office a very pleasant visit. Mr. C. says they are all republicans in his neighborhood.—Alliance Guide.

The county court was engaged on Saturday with a case between J. W. Hunter and Mrs. F. Tschabold over the possession of some fanner. It was listened to by Judge Wilson and a jury and resulted in a verdict for Hunter.

The time of year is here when we want wood on subscription. We should like to have several loads before bad weather sets in, and those who intend paying in that way will confer a favor by attending to it promptly.

The time for filing nominations made by conventions, primaries, etc., expired on Monday and the time for getting names on the official ballot by petition will expire on next Wednesday. The ballots will be the largest ever used in this county, and the proposed amendments to the constitution will be on a separate sheet and a separate ballot box will be provided in which to deposit them.

Henry Kreman, road overseer of White River road district, has instituted proceedings in court to compel the F. E. & M. V. railroad to put in a crossing in the east part of the county where a wagon road crosses its track. The law provides that such suits shall be brought by the road overseer in the name of the county. Attorney Guthrie appears for the plaintiff.

In some of the precincts full precinct tickets have been nominated, including two justices of the peace and two constables. Such officers only are to be elected this year to fill vacancies, and can only be put on the ballot under such conditions. In cases where there is one vacancy and two were nominated by the same primary or caucus neither can be put on the ballot, as the law strictly forbids it. The regular election of justices and constables occurs in the same years that the county officers are elected.

Smith P. Tuttle, republican candidate for representative in this district, accompanied by L. H. Corbin, has been in Sioux county a part of the past week getting acquainted with the people and letting the people get acquainted with him. He is the kind of a man who makes friends among the people and in the event of his election the northwest district will have a good representative. The reports from over the district are quite favorable to his success, although the district has been one of the populist strongholds in the past.

Petitions have been filed with a sufficient number of names attached so that Frank Tinkham's name will be on the official ballot as a candidate for county commissioner in the first district. He is popular in the entire district as a man, and his work as a member of the county board has given such general satisfaction that there is a general sentiment in the district in favor of his being given another term. No one will dispute the assertion that the affairs of the county never were better managed than they have been since the board has been as at present constituted and it is quite evident that Mr. Tinkham will receive a big majority.

DR. W. B. ELY, of Ainsworth, Republican Candidate for State Senator for the 14th senatorial district, will speak in the Court House SAT. OCT. 17, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. It matters not what your politics may be come and hear him and then decide if he is the kind of a man you want to represent this district in the state senate.

PERSONAL.

S. L. Willis went to Crawford the first of the week. State Bank Examiner Cowdery was in Harrison yesterday.

Mrs. M. J. Blewett is visiting her parents in Warbonnet precinct.

B. E. Brewster arrived on Tuesday to look after his interests in this locality.

Mrs. Bowdish and Miss Lewis, of Crawford, were Harrison visitors on Tuesday.

A. R. Kennedy was up from Crawford on Tuesday looking after his Sioux county interests.

John R. Shepherd arrived last Thursday from Ottumwa, Iowa, on his annual visit to his son, W. F. Shepherd.

Hon. F. M. Dorrington, of Alliance, was in Harrison Monday on his way to Bodare where he held a meeting in the evening.

By reason of a misunderstanding Hon. F. M. Dorrington was announced to speak both at the Bodare and Serres school house on Monday night and as a result those who went the latter place were disappointed. The party who had charge of it got things mixed.

Judge Greene spoke at the court house on Tuesday to an audience of less than sixty people. Those of his faith seemed fairly well pleased with his talk, but some republicans who heard it say that his main argument was ridicule and that he designated those who differed with him as being fools and charged them with not being patriotic citizens, and said that they ought to move out of the country. He claimed that he would be elected by 5,000 majority. He denied having been drunk at Sidney and said the reports that he was drunk were republican lies. The fact that he is now accompanied by his wife, which was not the case prior to the reported spree at Sidney, gives his assertion a peculiar aspect to say the least. It will be but a short time now until he will realize just how foolish he was when he claimed he would have a majority of 5,000.

The fact that the work of counting the ballots this year will be a much greater task than has ever devolved upon the boards of election in Nebraska leads to the suggestion that in making up the boards care should be exercised in selecting men who can do the work as rapidly as possible. Even then it will likely be an all night job in most of the precincts, so that it will be necessary to have plenty of lamps with oil sufficient to burn all night. It might not be out of place at this time to suggest to those who make it a point to fill out all the places on the ballot for precinct officers with names of those who are not candidates and who would not qualify if elected, that this would be a good year to refrain from so doing. Such things cause a little fun while the counting goes on, but it takes a lot of time to make up the record and this year would prove a hardship to the members of the election boards. A little thought in such matters will make the work go off smoother.

Dr. J. S. Anderson, state veterinarian, came to Harrison last Thursday on official business. The cattle brought up from the south a short time ago by Jim Earnest were reported to the governor as being infected with ticks, and thus endangering the spread of Texas fever. Dr. Anderson found such to be the case and quarantined the stock until the cold weather shall have destroyed the ticks. As frost destroys the fever germs all danger of the disease being communicated to other cattle is past. The fever has no serious effect on southern cattle, but when transmitted to northern stock it becomes very destructive, and great is necessary to prevent its spread. Dr. Anderson has been known to the writer for many years and is recognized as one of the foremost in his profession in the state. He was appointed to his position a short time ago by Gov. Holcomb as some diseased cattle had been unloaded in Seward county and prompt and efficient measures were necessary to protect the stock owners, and in appointing him the governor made no mistake. The stock interests of Nebraska are sufficient important so that a state veterinarian ought to be provided for but as a rule the legislature fails to make such provision.

It is a noticeable fact that Mr. Cady in his speeches never refers to his opponent in the congressional race, but occupies the time in discussing the issues of the campaign. The people themselves are keeping pretty close tab on the actions of Mr. Cady's opponent and when the 3d of November comes they will say by their votes that they don't want a representative in congress who hasn't the manhood to keep sober even after making the most solemn promises in order to be elected to a high office. They want a man representing them in congress who can be depended on to be in condition at all times to look after the interests of his constituency.—Shelton Clipper.
