

ENTERED IN THE POST OFFICE AT HARRISON, NEBR., AS SECOND CLASS MATTER

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SIOUX COUNTY.

One Dollar Per Year.

A Chadron school teacher boxed the ears of a pupil a few days ago. The boy went home and told his mother, and the next day the teacher received the following note: Nature has provided a proper place for the punishment of a boy and it is not his ear. I will thank you to use it in the future.—Chadron Times.

THE EDITOR'S CAREER (Lockwood, Mo., Times.)

The stork disappears and we look into the cradle and behold a male child. After running the gauntlet of measles, mumps, and chickenpox he enters school. At the age of ten he is a red-headed, freckle-faced boy and the terror of the neighborhood. At 12 he is an apprentice in a printing office. At 18 he has acquired two cases of long primer and an army press, and is the editor of a country newspaper. At 20 he is married. At 30 he is bald-headed stoop shouldered, and the father of a large family. At 35 he is a corpse in a cheap pine coffin, and as 500 delinquent subscribers file past his bier for the last look they are heard to say, "He was a good fellow, but he couldn't save his money."

RUNNING A NEWSPAPER.

People think it easy to "run" a newspaper. One week's experience would change the opinion of most people on the subject. Did you ever count the words in a column of ordinary newspaper print? There are about a thousand words in a column. Suppose you sit down and write a thousand words on some subject and then another until you have written eight or ten thousand. Try it and see if it is right easy. Keep that gait up for a month, a year, and see if it is easy. Then chase a local item all over town, and after you have gotten the facts all right, condense them into a few lines—an hour's work that can be read in a few seconds. Do this for a dozen items that seem insignificant after they are printed, but which you know are important; then have the items criticised and inaccuracies pointed out to you when it is late to correct them. Oh, yes, it's easy to "run" a newspaper.—Whitewood Plaindealer. In Chadron Times.

The Unpossessed. My heart's desire hath led me through bitter lands and seas, And bitter bread she fed me, And bade me drink of pain. Ah, me! I climbed a weary way To help of her disdain, Yet would I give the years I live To walk the path again. The Heart's Possessed beside me Leads me a level way; There may no ill betide me, No thirst or famine stay, She hath no wish but wish of mine, No joy save to obey. And at my side her form must bide Until my dying day. My Heart's Possessed hath stilled me From all unrest mallen; She eased the hope that thrilled me With too keen pain and fire. Yet, O my heart, my heart's desire, My unguined dream divine, What never turned the while I yearned For closed her hands in mine. —Wells Scott, in the Smart Set

Many have aimed at accumulation of wealth as their ideal of life and have succeeded in this, only to find at the last that they have done nothing worthy. Many others have sacrificed the luxuries and many of the comforts of life that they might train a family of children to noble and useful living, and to incite them to earnest effort in developing heart, hand, and mind to accomplish the great work of serving their generation well. These have always closed their career with a sense of having done a good work, of having achieved true success. This is as true of those who train foster children as of those who care for their own. One is as noble as the other and as much needed. Many such homes are wanted by the Child Saving Institute for those who have been committed to its charge. Apply for information to them at 1806 Ohio St., Omaha, enclosing stamp for reply.

HOMES: Good homes are wanted for orphan and destitute children, not simply shelters with food and clothing, and school privileges, but homes in which father and mother unite to train their children wisely for the positions of usefulness that will be open tomorrow. Homes where discipline is not hasty and spasmodic, but where a steady, noble high aim controls the daily life, even though in the battle for bread and for the comforts of life there has not been the desired success. A good home trains for time and eternity. Such are wanted for many children by the Child Saving Institute, 1806 Ohio St., Omaha. Write for information, enclosing stamp.

VALUE OF THE BIRCH.

What Old-Time Writers Regarded as Its Specialty. Old writers in mentioning birch trees seldom failed to say solemnly that they were useful to grow branches with which to give boys whiplashes. Turner regards the supply of "flexible, pliant branches" for purposes of punishment as the chief merit of the tree. Coleridge based his estimate of the birch chiefly on its use in the supply of rods as instruments of punishment, for he writes: "The civil uses whereunto the birch serveth are many; as, for the punishment of children, both at home and at school; for it hath an admirable influence upon them to quiet them when they are out of order, and, therefore, some call it make-peace." In ancient Rome the fagots of the lictors, with which they cleared the way for the magistrates, were formed with rods of birch and their influence was usually sufficient to insure a rapid dispersion of the assembled where they would insure the passage of the administrators of the law. From that time to within a comparatively recent period the birchen rod was regarded as one of the most important deterrents of juvenile depravity.
