

He Will Not Drown Himself.

(From the Tr. N. Y., Times.)

R. W. Edwards, of Lansingburgh, was prostrated by sunstroke during the war and it has entailed on him peculiar and serious consequences. At present writing Mr. E. is a prominent officer of Post No. 10, G. A. R., Cohoes, and a first aid-decamp on the staff of the commander-in-chief of Albany Co. In an interview with a reporter, he said:

"I was wounded and sent to the hospital at Winchester. They sent me together with others to Washington—a ride of about 100 miles. Having no room in the box cars we were placed face up on the bottom of flat cars. The sun beat down upon our unprotected heads. When I reached Washington I was insensible and was unconscious for ten days while in the hospital. An abscess gathered in my ear and broke; it has been gathering and breaking ever since. The result of this 100 mile ride and sunstroke, was, heart disease, nervous prostration, insomnia and rheumatism; a completely shattered system which gave me no rest night or day. As a last resort I took some Pink Pills and they helped me to a wonderful degree. My rheumatism is gone, my heart failure, dyspepsia, and constipation are about gone and the abscess in my ear has stopped discharging and my head feels as clear as a bell when before it felt as though it would burst and my once shattered nervous system is now nearly sound. Look at those fingers," Mr. Edwards said, "do they look as if there was any rheumatism there?" He moved his fingers rapidly and freely and strode about the room like a young boy. "A year ago those fingers were gnarled at the joints and stiff that I could not hold a pen. My knees would swell up and I could not straighten my leg out. My joints would squeak when I moved. I cannot begin to tell you," said Mr. Edwards, as he drew a long breath, "what my feeling is at present. I think if you lived ten years right off my life and left me prime and vigorous at forty-seven I could feel no better. I was an old man and could only drag myself painfully about the house. Now I can walk off without any trouble. That in itself," continued Mr. Edwards, "would be sufficient to give me cause for rejoicing, but when you come to consider that I am no longer what you might call nervous and that my heart is apparently nearly healthy and that I can sleep nights you may realize why I may prefer to speak in extravagant praise of Pink Pills. These pills quiet my nerves, take that awful pressure from my head and at the same time enrich my blood. My veins seemed to be in circulation in my lower limbs a year ago, my legs being cold and clammy at times. Now the circulation there is as full and as brisk as at any other part of my body. I used to be a light-headed and dizzy from my nervous disorder that I frequently fell while crossing the floor of my house. Spring is coming and I never felt better in my life, and I am looking forward to a busy season of work."

Rheumatism Item.
"This is about the time of the year," said Mrs. Wats to her neighbor, "that the fishing fever strikes my husband. If he ever gets out on the banks of some creek and catches two or three little mud cats in the course of an afternoon he is perfectly happy."
"Is he fond of fishing, then?"
"Fond of fishing? Why, that man is a perfect angliomaniac."—Texas Sifting.

Educate Your Daughters.
At this season of the year parents have to decide upon and select the educational institution which their daughters are to attend for the coming years. In this connection we desire to call attention to the educational announcement in our advertising columns of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, St. Joseph, Mo. Their buildings and grounds are attractive, locality healthful, teaching in all branches thorough, and terms reasonable. Parents fortunate to select this school for the education and training of their daughters will, we are sure, be fully satisfied. Next session opens Sept. 3, 1895. For further information address Mother Superior, Academy of the Sacred Heart, St. Joseph, Mo.

Unanswered.
"Why," asked the philosopher, "why is it that a man, the noblest created object—why is it that a man should have such doubts of his ability to win a woman's affection when he considers the success in that line of a pop-eyed, pudding-shaped, pretzel-tailed pug dog?"
"But the assembled listeners answered him not."—Toledo Blade.

Yellowstone Park.
Words cannot convey even the faintest conception of the grandeur and magnificence of the Yellowstone National Park. Nowhere else are there such superb views; such an abundance of many game; such myriads of wild fowl; such delightful camping-places; such perfect weather.
Here are everlasting springs; terraced and tumbling cascades; scalding water, uncounted pools of steaming clay; tremendous geysers; mighty cataracts; profound canyons, primeval forests; and—surpassing all else in quiet loveliness—a dimpled mountain lake of broad expanse and picturesque beauty, of which the water, perhaps, does not contain the counterparty.
A substantial reduction has recently been made in the cost of reaching the Park as well as in the tour through it. Full information in our pamphlet. Send for a copy. J. Francis, G. P. & T. A., Burlington Route, Omaha, Neb.

Harper's Round Table for July 16th contains an article on "Hawthorne and His Books," in the series entitled "Stories of American Literature" by Henrietta Christian Wright. "How Jack Lockett won his spurs," in the same issue, is a story of adventure in Revolutionary days, by G. T. Ferris. Other noteworthy features of this number of the Round Table are the serials by Kirk Munroe and Douglas Bland and the article by John Denrick Bangs.

GLASS OF FASHION.

REFLECTIONS OF THE LATEST STYLES FOR WOMEN.

The Little Skull Cap a New Idea in Millinery—The Sailor Hat—Don't Scribble on Sleeves—Costume for the Tennis Girl.

Something quite new in millinery is a little skull cap of Marie Stuart shape and of lace net stiffened at the edge with jeweled wire. This covers but does not hide the hair, and serves as a foundation for flowers, knot of ribbon, and jeweled buckle that compose the correct coiffure confection. Really the hat of the moment is to the head what frosting is to the cake. An equally fanciful bit of headwear and one that also reminds of the pastry cook's art is shown here. It consists of a quantity of ruffles of spangled lace set on a wire frame and garnished with loops of straw braid. The tie strings are of pink velvet and two pink roses show at either side of the front.

Shrouding Materials.
The craze for draping and shrouding materials with chiffon increases. A wardrobe is hardly complete without at least one gown of black skirt and bodice in some fanciful shade of silk or satin, thickly covered with black chiffon. A folded belt and collar of undraped satin completes the harmony. The draping is often carried to such an extent as to make the new gowns seem layer-

For the Tennis Girl.
As the sun grows warmer and the green leaves get larger and darker, the chief object in life is to be able to get out and enjoy the beauties of nature and the feminine fancy turns, not lightly, but yearningly, to the outing suit that stands for so many boating trips and mountain clamberings. The outing dress is to be the feature of this season's wardrobe, and there are numberless materials of which it can be made. White is preferred to colors for the dresses, as indeed for nearly everything that is worn this summer. White duck suits are still worn, though they are yielding ground to the new piques. Piques come in many tints, red, pale blue, green, pink and light gray being the most common. White pique suits with embroidery collars and a strip of insertion down each side of the blazer jacket are worn in place of the white and span and entirely free from devices of trickery. Its material is rose pink silk brocaded with ivory and gold. The skirt forms very wide plaits at the sides and in back is laid in organ pipe folds that extend into a short train. The waist of ivory white chiffon has a fitted lining of pink silk and bretelles of ivory satin embroidered with gold and amethyst sunbursts. Rosettes, pointed belt, and bell sleeves are of amethyst mirror velvet.

English Walking Hats.
The market is flooded with English walking hats, but, alas, they are all of them made in so scanty size that the former characteristic of the English hat—the fit low down on the head—is impossible, and so it is that the average purchaser doesn't "look right," for all the hat she wears seems in the hand the right shape. The only security that the hat will be right and convey the suggestion of English correctness is in a purchase that necessitates considerable outlay. Since a large sum put into a hat of this kind provides natty headwear for a couple of seasons, what else could one get, outside of the merry sailor, that would wear as well, and with so stylish effect, for less money?

The Sailor Hat.
That same sailor is still the wear for the million, whether it be the million-dollar or the million-mob. Let it be noticed that the extremely pronounced styles are not in favor. The average crown, the average brim, and the inconspicuous band are the general as well as the best wear. The wonder of the sailor, and the secret of its sustained popularity, is that it takes elegance of effect or the reverse from its wearer, and from the rest of her attire. So it is that the expensive hat that the girl wears will seem the crowning touch of a faultless rig, while the same hat on another will seem to be only "one of those vulgar sailors."

In June the Summer Girl is sweet,
In July she is sweeter,
And August with its tropic heat
But makes her charms complete.
September she's a poet's dream,
October—but why linger
When every month—if so doth seem—
Tempt us the more to sing her?

Oh, where should be the wonder, say
That all men rave about her?
And that where once she holds her sway
No one can do without her?
The East and Europe to her bow,
The world longs to caress her,
And she's the Queen of Summer now,
The Summer Girl—God bless her!

like. First there is the foundation of silk, over which is closely fitted a layer of perforated satin in some contrasting color. Then comes a draping of plaited or fluted chiffon, and a final layer of straps, insertions, or bands of ribbon, set so closely that they join edges at the waist and spread apart above to show all the under layers. It must take the lady's maid a long time to peel down to the human core of all these strata.

The New Gloves.
The newest gloves being shown are some four-button chevrettes in black, with white, heliotrope, gold or red points, and welts and pearl buttons to match. They are also to be made in tan shades, trimmed brown. The plique-sewn chevrettes in beaver, black and other colors, with braid points, are also gloves to be recommended, and very smart to the hand are the black kid gloves with white and colored pointings. They are very decorative in appearance, buttoning with colored pearls, and the kid is soft and strong, promising comfort and durability. In shades there is a "Merveille" quality, twelve-button length mousquetaire, in tan, white, pink, cream and other shades, and a "Leonie" glove, a four-button French suede, with two-row silk braid points, is beautifully shaped and becoming to the hand. For summer wear the Milanese silk gloves will be found very cool and comfortable, and, above all, are durable, the material forming the tips to the fingers and thumbs being treble woven and offering the greatest resistance to wear. This is a great feature and renders the glove specially economical.

A Dainty Veil Case.
A pretty veil case can be made of the crepe tissue paper which has sprung into such popularity during the last few years. First—a foundation is prepared like an ordinary book cover of cardboard, the back having a flexible hinge, so it will open and shut easily, made of stiff paper or cloth and covered with silk. The whole case is lined with the same pale-hued silk with an interlining of cotton wadding sprinkled with sachet powder and then the outside is covered with stripes of the crepe paper about three-quarters of an inch wide interlaced through small brass curtain rings. If one does not mind the trouble these rings may be buttonholed with knitting silk to match the lining of the case, the paper being of some prettily contrasting shade.

duck of similar make. For common wear a dark pique is very serviceable, because it does not soil so easily and is cool. Pique ranges in price from 35 and 40 cents a yard to $1.25. The latter variety has embroidered dots and is entirely new. For tennis suits there is nothing prettier than twilled flannel. It comes in light tints, cream grounds, with five black stripes and other colors. The tennis suit here shown has a plain cream flannel skirt, with two brands of blue braid and a blue-and-white striped blazer jacket.—The Latest in Chicago News.

Don't Scribble on Sleeves.
Economizing on sleeves is hardly wise at present and a woman may safely spend most of her money on handsome brocade velvet or satin for great sleeves that reach only to the elbow. Then she may strive to save money on the rest of the gown. If her pink gown cannot be matched with a pink fan let her try a fan of some pretty shade of lavender. By gas light the lavender will be a pleasing contrast. If there be trouble in matching a yellow gown with velvet of the same shade for the sleeves possibly pink will answer if the dress is to be worn with artificial light. So, too, blue may be made to do duty at night as a match for green. These hints may be applied to the dress of the accompanying illustration, if need be, but as presented here it is all spot-

Fashion's Fancies.
Plaid crepons are novel, and come in beautiful combination colors.
A shirt-waist of white wash silk is a useful and stylish garment for any woman.
The newest style of fan is exceedingly small and dainty.
Some muslin gowns have fichus to match, which are worn as a sort of mantle.
Bow-knots seem to have a new lease of life in chataleaine pins.
Double berthas of pink embroidery are effective on girl's white nainsook frocks.
Novel nightgowns have crush collars of open embroidery, through which ribbon is drawn and tied.
A number of soft gray shades are noticed in the new assortment of printed and brocaded silks, while old rose shades are also prominent.
Some of the odd combinations in vogue this season are lavender and very faint green, blue and yellow, green and pink, cream color and old rose, Nile and wisteria pink.
Yokes made of Dresden ribbons, cut in star shape, the points outlined with frills of lace, with English eyelet holes and a deep net top, are new and pretty.
Delicate women select even for summer wear fine sheer wool gowns in preference to those of cotton, and if the material is all wool and ever so light, it can be cleaned over and over, and appear as dainty and fresh as the prettiest of cotton gowns before washing.
Stock collars and loose-hanging plastrons of heavy white satin ribbon, entirely covered with gold spangles, are stylish for trimming the blouse waists of dark blue crepon gowns.
Light gloves, in all shades of gray, delicate tan, and mode, are shown; and heavy white-button kid will be correct with either reception or street wear. White lasts better than does any other kid, and cleanses indefinitely, while black gloves are never worn, except with black costumes.
It is rumored that parted hair is not to be the fashion much longer, and the pompadour roll will be popular. With the hair brushed back in this fashion, it is to be arranged in the shape of a figure eight, quite high at the back of the head, and the Psyche knot, which has been with us long enough to become modified into quite a graceful arrangement, will have to go.

A Feeling Fatigue's Sorrow.
Cincinnati Tribune: A pathetic cat story comes from one of the down river suburbs. Little Pearlie Kelch, the daughter of Mr. Enos Kelch, has a large pet cat which has slept for many months in a basket by her. A week ago the child was taken by her mother to Nebraska. They left in the morning before the cat was up, and Pearl's little night gown was left in a white heap on the floor. When the cat first missed the child it went to the little gown and laid itself down there and has refused to leave it, save at short intervals, ever since. The other members of the family have not had the heart to take the garment away from the disconsolate pet.

Educational.

Attention of the reader is called to the announcement of Notre Dame University in another column of this paper. This noted institution of learning enters upon its fifty-second year with the next session, commencing Sept. 3, 1895. Parents and guardians contemplating sending their boys and young men away from home to school would do well to write for particulars to the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, before making arrangements for their education elsewhere. Nowhere in this broad land are there to be found better facilities for cultivating the mind and heart than are offered at Notre Dame University.

Many a girl who takes "the first man who offers" lives to repent the act.

Old Rip Van Winkle went up into the Catskill mountains to take a little nap of twenty years or so, and when he awakened, he found that the "cruel war was over," the monthly magazines had "fought it over" the second time and "blown up" all the officers that had participated in it. This much is history, and it is also an historical fact that, it took the same length of time, for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to become the most celebrated, as it is the most effective, Liver, Blood and Lung Remedy of the age. In purifying the blood and in all manner of pimples, blotches, eruptions, and other skin and scalp diseases, scrofulous sores and swellings, and kindred ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" manifests the most positive curative properties.
