Mr. Jas. Stratton, of Berea, sent this office two potatoes this week which had sprouted in the cellar and new potatoes had set in the center of the old ones, drawing their substance from the same source, the young potatoes had grown to such an extent that they had burst through the old ones and present the appearance of a half hatched chicken. They are quite a curiosity and may be seen at this office.
F. W. Feidler was in town Wednesday and was considerably worked up over the action of the county physician over in Dawes county. One of his neighbors who lives four miles east of Dunlap, by the name of Stanek had his leg broken last Sunday. Mr.

Feidler went to Hay Springs after a doctor to set the limb but no one there would come out unless paid in advance. He then telegraphed to Chadron for the county physician and expecting him to come, he went home. The next day word was received to bring the man to Chadron or to the Co. poor farm and the Co. Surgeon would attend to it. As the man could not be moved he was compelled to suffer until Wednesday morning when Dr. Piper was induced for the cause of humanity, to go and reduce the fracture. The Dawes Co. physician ought to have his neck broke and then be compelled to wait a week for some one to set it.
The following will be of interest to many of our readers who knew Mr. Hendershot here in 1890-91.
Spencer, Ia., Aug. 13.—C. D. Hendershot, a prominent attorney here who with Milt Allen of Sheldon, Ia., formed the firm of Allen & Hendershot, committed suicide at 1 p. m. today by shooting himself through the heart. Deceased was local agent for a loan company and had forged trust deeds upon various farms in this vicinity and realized upon them from the trust company to the extent of about $7,000. Hendershot was the son of Judge Hendershot of Ottumwa and came here about four years ago and has been in the practice about three years.
Chadron is bound to be before the world someday. If it isn't a cowboy race, or a hundred mile or a beet sugar factory or a school fight or a prize fight or a populist wrangle, you can bank on its being a rattle with Johnny Durr as the following dispatch from yesterday's World Herald, indicates:
Chadron, Neb., Aug. 13.—Three British bicycle tourists, Edward Clegg, Coleman Nichols, and Henry Cartstensen, refuse to work out a sentence imposed on them for fast riding and will seek the protection of the British government. They were arrested Saturday, and this morning were fined $1 and costs each, aggregating $5.70 each. They have plenty of money, but refuse to pay, and were committed to work on the streets. This they declined to do.
The Sunday Schools of Hemingford, will hold a picnic Aug. 30th at the Congregational church. Ample shade will be provided and nearby schools are invited to unite with us.

Troubles appear to never cease. The latest is that where-in the saloons are involved. It seems that since Nate Hart left that G. H. Dietrich took possession of the saloon and installed Wm. Hough as manager. John and Ed Barry, brothers of Mrs. Hart claim that Hart's interest rightfully belongs to Mrs. Hart, but rather than establish the claim by legal process of law they had Hough arrested for gambling. The case was dismissed to allow a new complaint to be filed. A new complaint was then sworn out charging him with selling liquors on Sunday. Hough in turn filed complaint against the other saloons and John Barry for the same offense. The case came on for trial Tuesday afternoon, Hewett, Smyser, and Noleman appearing as attorneys for the city, Wm. Mitchell as attorney for Hough, and W. A. Hampton as attorney of the others. The trials were then postponed to Wednesday morning. By this time the pro- fine of $25. and costs each. The case against Barry was set for one o'clock.
