The populist will have a blow-out in Alliance Monday evening and the republicans put up a job (so the pops say) to take all the Alliance people and brass band to Hemingford and have a republican love-feast the same night. At any rate it makes put little difference who will have the audience as people are getting tired of those kind of meetings as the principal object of the "orators" seem to be how long they can hold the floor praising themselves and abusing somebody else before the audience begin to scatter. It is to be hoped that Judges Lansing and Hazard will be out and the candidates will speak their little pieces again.

J. C. McCorkle will buy horses and pay cash for them.

WASHINGTON NEWS

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

On to Atlanta! The distinguished party, including the President, his entire Cabinet and most of the ladies of the Cabinet families, which left here tonight on a special train for Atlanta, carried no banners, brass bands or other implements of war, but their arrival will be hailed with much more delight by the citizens of Georgia's metropolis than was another party which visited the same city something like thirty-one years ago, amid the roar of cannons, the rattling of drums, the blare of trumpets and waving of flags. Mrs. Cleveland did not go. She was too good a mother to leave the baby, and it was deemed injudicious for so young a miss to make such a long railroad journey. Secretary Olney had a long conference today with the wife of Ex-Congress Waller, who was sentenced to twenty years in prison by a French Court-martial for his alleged interference with French military operations in Madagascar. Mrs. Waller, who only reached Washington this morning, from Madagascar, via France, told the Secretary the whole story from her side. After the interview she expressed herself as being perfectly satisfied that the administration was doing, and would continue to do everything that it could properly do for the relief of her husband.

It is really amusing to hear the fears expressed by some of the republican senators, that they will be compelled, when Congress meets to reorganize the Senate and take charge of the committees, thus becoming responsible for legislation without the majority to pass it. Pray, who is going to compel them to assume such responsibility? Surely not the democrats, who are probably willing, although not anxious, to allow things to remain as they are; nor the populists, unless they can make a deal for their own benefit. If there is any compelling it will be done by the republicans.

In order to keep the fine gun-making plant at the Washington Navy Yard in operation, it has been decided to make the three-inch field guns, which are needed for the Navy there. About one hundred of these guns will be made. The Navy Department had authority to have them made by contract, but when the bids were received it was found that they could be made by the government just as cheap or cheaper, and the keeping together of the skilled force of mechanics which are employed in the Government gun shop turned the scales in favor of having the work done there.

While I do not know that Senator Sherman has chosen this time for the publication of his recollections during forty years in office with the special idea of injuring one Benj. Harrison, there are reasons which squint that way. For instance, Mr. Sherman charges in his book, without any ifs, ands, or buts, that Mr. Harrison's nomination for the presidency in 1888 was brought about by a corrupt bargain with one man who controlled the New York delegation. Although no names are used, it is perfectly plain that Mr. Sherman refers to the promise made by Steve Elkins, now a member of the senate from West Virginia, on behalf of Mr. Harrison, to Boss Tom Platt, who was the man in control of the New York delegation, that if Harrison was nominated and elected, he (Platt) should be Secretary of the Treasury. The breaking of that promise made Platt the bitter enemy of Harrison that he has been ever since. Mr. Sherman also has a fling at all the prominent republicans, and he leaves the impression that, with the exception of Hayes—who made Sherman Secretary of the Treasury and allowed his whole administration to be used to push his Presidential boom—they were a bad and tricky lot, an impression, barring the exception, doubtless shared by lots of people.
