

A Mother's Love.
It is said that the Hon. Samuel Gal- loway of Columbus, O., was one of the plainest men ever known in the state. He told many stories relative to his own personal ugliness of face with great good humor.
One which he often related with much relish was that of the remark made by the little daughter of a friend in another city with whom he was dining.
"Mamma," he heard the child say in an awe-struck whisper, after a prolonged survey of the peculiar features of the guest, "that gentleman's mamma must have loved children mighty well."
"Why so, my dear?" inquired the unsuspecting parent.
"Oh," returned the child in the same audible whisper, "cause she raised him!"—Youth's Companion.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh, whether a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.
If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

GOSPEL OF EQUAL RIGHTS STILL ON OUR STANDARD.

The Republican Plug-Uglies Are Preparing to Do an Extensive Business in Fat-Frying—Plunder System Cannot Be Honestly Defended.

Says a philosopher after the order of McKinley: "Ancient Tyre, Athens, Rome, Damascus and other great seats of ancient science and art became such because they supplied other nations with their products."
Without pausing to inquire as to the historical accuracy of the assumption that the cities named "supplied other nations with their products" to any great extent, one's attention is irresistibly drawn to the philosophical theorem that they became great seats of science and art because they supplied other nations with their products.

One can readily understand how a commercial people trading extensively with other peoples acquire more knowledge of men and things, and so acquire more materials of science, if not of art, that isolated peoples holding little or no communication with others. But how the mere sending abroad of their products to supply the wants of others can advance a people in either science or art passes understanding utterly.

The context of the theorem quoted shows that when its author used the word "products" he had in mind chiefly manufactured products of comparatively unskilled labor. But that does not make the general proposition any more true. The mere supplying of foreigners with our products, whether crude or highly wrought, cannot make us great in science and art.

The context serves only to show how the confusion of thought arises or to expose an artful sophism intended to produce confusion of thought in careless minds. First attention is drawn to the almost self-evident fact that the products of skill in the world's history have been supplied mostly by nations advanced in science and art. Then the inference is artfully suggested that the supplying of such products has caused the advancement.

When the proposition is thus stated it becomes apparent at once that advancement is not a consequence of supplying products of skill, but that the supplying of such products is a consequence of advancement in the arts and sciences. A people must have the knowledge, art and skill before they can turn out highly wrought and artistic products for export. The export of such products is an evidence and a consequence, not a cause, of greatness in science and art.

The McKinley philosopher might as truthfully have said that the sun became the great source and center of light and heat in our system by supplying the earth and the other planets with those forces or modes of motion. It is characteristic of the protectionist to transpose everything, putting antecedent for consequent and consequent for antecedent, cause for effect and effect for cause. The great system of plunder under the aid of law does not admit of defense by honest and straightforward reasoning.

The Machine and Morton.

Amusement and instruction are both conveyed to the political student by the appearance of the venerable Levi P. Morton as a candidate for the republican presidential nomination. When the pliable and shifty politician first suggested his name it was regarded as a joke and a bluff. When he consented to their little game, however, he informed them that he was in earnest and that there must be no trifling.
The tricksters and conspirators were baffled by the position which the old man assumed. They had intended to give him a few complimentary votes until they should find out the drift of sentiment in the convention, when he was to be dropped and his strength was to join the most available combine. He ended this scheme. He declared that if he entered the race he should be there to stay. They had gone too far to retreat and were compelled to take him at his word. They have an expectation of huge proportions on their hands.

All this trouble the republican "smart Alecks" brought on themselves by faithlessness and trickery at the republican national convention in 1892. The gang politicians, including Clarkson, Platt, Quay and others, attempted to defeat Harrison's renomination, but failed in their schemes. In the confusion caused by their overthrow and in the demoralization that followed the nomination for vice-president went by default to Whitelaw Reid. Morton was entitled to a renomination with Harrison, but it was lost in the tumult and divided counsels of the leaders.

If Morton had been nominated for vice-president on the ticket with Harrison he would have gone down in the general republican wreck. His defeat would have ended his political career. He would not have reappeared as a candidate for governor of New York in 1894 and as a candidate for president in 1896 to embarrass and burden the machine bosses in all their schemes of aggrandizement and spoils.

Absentee State Officials.

Pittsburg Post: What a mean howl was set up by the rabid republican press of Pittsburg because President Cleveland went off for a few days recently on a duck-hunting trip. We are not going to imitate this display of partisan littleness, but nevertheless there is some satisfaction in directing the attention of our high-minded and patriotic contemporaries to the fact that with one exception every active member of the republican administration of Pennsylvania is absent from the state. Governor Hastings and Attorney General McCormick are in Arkansas, Secretary Reeder, Auditor General Mylin, State Treasurer Jackson, Banking Commissioner Gilkeson and Secretary of Internal Affairs Latta are junketing in Florida with Senator Quay. The single exception is Mr. Schaeffer, superintendent of public instruction.

Restive Under Reed's Leadership.

Philadelphia Bulletin: There are growing signs of a disposition among the republicans in the house to break away from the leadership of Speaker Reed and his committee on rules and to raise objections to his methods of mapping out the business of the house. This is one of the inevitable effects of the presence of an active candidate for the presidency in the speaker's chair. It is impossible for Tom Reed to take a stand on any vital question in the house without having his presidential ambition taken into account. It has been the same with every speaker that ever kept his dexter eye on the white house.

Party Chains No Longer Unbreakable.

Kansas City Star: The republicans are again in control of congress, but the tenure of their power will depend on the character of their stewardship. If they fail to meet the just requirements of all intelligent and patriotic people the next election will result in their overwhelming defeat and condemnation. The chains that bind voters to party are no longer steel or iron, and the first exhibition of selfishness in legislation will provoke such a destruction of links and strands as will make the future party contests problematical.

Eager for More Fat-Frying.

Indianapolis Sentinel: The leading republicans do not hesitate to say that as soon as the party gets possession of the government another high tariff measure will be adopted. The present proposed one is only a homeopathic dose; simply a tickler to put the manufacturers in good humor and prepare them for the old fat-frying program that will be inaugurated as soon as the republican nomination for presidential candidates is made.

Morton Is All Right.

Bloomington Bulletin: The assertion that Levi P. Morton's advanced age debars him as a presidential candidate is not a valid argument. He is just as capable of editing a check book, and in fact a little more so, than he was twenty years ago. Boss Platt will do all the presiding in the event of nomination and election.

His Head Is Turned.

Topeka Capital: The election of Governor Bradley as governor of Kentucky has turned that gentleman's head. As yet there are no other evidences except the fact that he carried Kentucky in a republican year that Governor Bradley possesses presidential qualities.

Trying to Make Matters Worse.

Sherman and McKinley legislation is responsible for nearly all the financial ills with which this country has been afflicted for the past two or three years. Instead of trying to remedy the evils that exist Mr. Reed's congress is endeavoring to make them worse.

Campaign of the Usual Sort.

Bloomington Bulletin: Matters have already progressed far enough to make it apparent that the Tanner campaign is to be one of explanation and denial. The republican papers now making accusations will be busy all summer with the whitewash brush.

A Discreet Senator.

Sioux City Journal: Senator Butler of North Carolina refuses to run for the presidency on the populist ticket and says that "the vote our ticket will poll next November will surprise the country." He does not want to be a victim of the surprise.

McKinley's Unreliable Biographer.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: It is to be regretted that William McKinley is to have his biography written by that statistical romancer, Robert P. Porter, for, if anything like the last national census, it will be absolutely unreliable.

Dearly Love a Barrel.

Utica Observer: Governor Morton is said to be gaining strength in the south. Those southern republicans dearly love a barrel. They used to think that "Mister Alger was an awful nice measure enough."

The Voters Themselves to Blame.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: All the governors and all the mayors are protesting against the growth of municipal extravagance, and all to no purpose if a large class of voters in cities continue to neglect their political duties.

Hunters Do Not Hunt.

Calling a Dog by Telephone.

An intelligent hunting dog who had strayed away was found in New Hartford, Conn., recently, and the finder notified the dog's owner in Winsted. The New Hartford man called up the owner by telephone to arrange for returning the dog, and while talking asked the owner the dog's name "Hold him up to the telephone," was the reply. The part of the instrument was put against the dog's ear, and the owner called, "Dash." The dog recognized the voice, and set up a barking which showed his joy.—Boston Herald.

The house has had unimpaired prosperity for nearly a century and a quarter and is now not only the oldest but the largest establishment of the kind on this continent. The high degree of perfection which the company has attained in its manufactured products is the result of long experience combined with an intelligent use of the new forces which are constantly being introduced to increase the power and improve the quality of production, and cheapen the cost to the consumer.

The Passing of the Outlaw.

The wonderful strides of development in Oklahoma and Indian Territories during the past three years, and the rapid advancement of civilization and Christianity in those territories during that time, leave the outlaw no longer a resting place on this continent.
Beautiful cities, rich valleys and the rolling prairies of that country now teeming with an industrious and enterprising class of people take the place where such bands were roaming at will only a few short years ago. The people of that territory have as little fear from any further outrages from such a source as those in the east, and such is the result of favorable legislation, backed up by the courage, push and enterprise of the American people.

Rattlesnakes, Butterflies, and ... ?
Washington Irving said, he supposed a certain hill was called "Rattlesnake Hill" because it abounded in butterflies. The "rule of contrary" governs other names. Some bottles are, supposedly, labeled "Sarsaparilla" because they are full of... well, we don't know what they are full of, but we know it's not sarsaparilla; except, perhaps, enough for a flavor. There's only one make of sarsaparilla that can be relied on to be all it claims. It's Ayer's. It has no secret to keep. Its formula is open to all physicians. This formula was examined by the Medical Committee at the World's Fair with the result that while every other make of sarsaparilla was excluded from the Fair, Ayer's Sarsaparilla was admitted and honored by awards. It was admitted because it was the best sarsaparilla. It received the medal as the best. No other sarsaparilla has been so tested or so honored. Good motto for the family as well as the Fair: Admit the best, exclude the rest.
Any doubt about it? Send for the "Curebook." It tells doubts and cures doubters.
