Strife and toil, and not pleas give purpose to life.—Mercedith.

There is an art in questioning which all teachers have not learned and many have failed because they did not. A question should arouse thought.

The day's work will be a unit if the teacher will so relate the lessons of the day that they will strengthen one another, be united in their trends, with a central thought upon which they all depend, that will come out clear and strong at the close.

A school was visited some time ago where a class in arithmetic was being questioned on the division of a mixed number by a mixed number. The question ran thus: "Well, Charley, you have finished, have you?" "Yes, sir." "What did you get?" "Four and a half." "You reduced the 6/3 to an improper fraction, did you?" "Yes, sir." And so on—most of the questions could be answered by "Yes, sir." It may be a habit you have and do not realize it. Stop and think.

Each day's work in the school room should be a unit, each lesson a unit. Many teachers make a great effort to make the individual lesson plan the work of art. The individual lesson has three essential parts: Making sure of the known; Making it lead to the unknown; and making sure by summary or application of the now known. Any permanent acquirement of the next related unknown makes a successful lesson, a lesson which is a unit. But teachers should be very careful in making the lesson plans that they do not embody too much of the new and then find it difficult to get the child to grasp the unknown. If the teacher understands her pupils, knows the consciousness of the child, she can present the right unknown and it will become known to the child of its own accord, as the natural food meets the natural appetite and becomes flesh and blood.

Another fine rain Monday night.

Anton Uhrig has been remodeling his residence.

Prof. Fenner Sundayed at Hot Springs.

Mrs. H. A. Cunningham of Alliance was in the county seat Sunday.

Editor Ellis of the Times was doing business in the city Wednesday.

Rev. Shambaugh, of Alliance, was a county seat visitor Wednesday.

Mrs. A. H. McLaughlin, of Marsland, was the guest of Mrs. Tash Thursday.

Miss Claud Hester of Harrison visited Sunday and Monday with Garnet Kendall.

Mrs. Wm. Hollinrake who has been quite ill for the past week is improving rapidly.

Professor W. S. Worden of Crawford spent Sunday with Hemingford friends.

Messrs. Hercul and Green went out hunting yesterday—but don't mention it to them.

Dick Bevan has invested in bicycle which he rides in a very imposing manner.

Mrs. James Hollinrake spent a few days this week visiting her husband at Edgemont.

Dr. Blanchard will leave Hemingford Monday, May 25th, to be gone several weeks.

County Treasurer Miller went to Alliance Sunday evening, returning the next morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney's baby is quite ill with lung fever. Dr. Baldwin is the attending physician.

W. C. Mounts, Alliance's genial razor manipulator, was shaking hands with friends in this city Sunday.

Goodenough Bros. have purchased Delbert Libby's tenorial outfit and now have the only two-chair shop in the city.

D. H. Smith, B. & M. operator at Crawford, was visiting friends in Hemingford Wednesday. Mr. Smith was formerly operator at this place.

C. J. Wildy and J. C. Osborn made a trip to Sheriff Sweeney's ranch southeast of Alliance Monday. Owing to the rain storm they were compelled to remain over night at Berea.

Editor Paradis of Alliance spent Wednesday in the city. We believe it does Bro. Paradis good to come to Hemingford and get a drink of pure water.

Attorney Keller of Hot Springs was here last Thursday and subpoenaed James Kinsey to appear as a witness in a murder trial which is now in progress at that place.

Mrs. E. G. Hough of Harrison, Neb., arrived in Hemingford on Tuesday morning's train and visited at the home of Rev. Kendall. She was joined at this point by two of her boys with whom she started, via the wagon route, to Missouri.

Warren, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fosket, died Monday, May 11th. The funeral services conducted by Rev. Wornom, took place on Wednesday, interment in Hemingford cemetery. Dr. Pringle of Hay Springs was the attending physician and we are informed that death was caused by diphtheria. Another member of the family is quite ill at this writing. THE HERALD extends sympathy to Mr. Fosket and family in their bereavement.

Charley Triplett has secured the position as operator at Hyannis and went down yesterday.

A single man has nobody but himself to blame if things go wrong. A married man can blame it all to his wife.—Ex.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Miller, of Alliance, Monday. Mrs. A. M. Miller and daughter Miss Georgia went down last evening to make the acquaintance of the little fellow.

Edgar Beebe arrived from Denver after an absence of two months. He reports times very dull at that place and says there are ten men for every job. Mr. Beebe says everything is looking finer in Box Butte than he expected to see.

W. R. Akers, secretary of the state board of irrigation, with his stenographer Harry Scott, were at the county clerk's office Wednesday for the purpose of taking testimony of claimants of water rights acquired by filings under the St. Rayner irrigation law of 1889. When these prior rights are determined the board will then consider the claims made under the Akers law of 1885. A. H. McLaughlin, John Hughes, J. F. Roll, David Vincent and W. G. Simonson were claimants who appeared at the hearing.

The high school B. L. G. C. gave its second entertainment last Friday evening and the program rendered was fully as good if not better than the first and that is saying a great deal. The club is composed of the following young people:

Frank Olds, Geo. Pinkerton, Chas. Jones, Bert Reynolds, Orville McCorkle, Misses, Mabel Curtis, Anna Ward, Lala Connell, Alma Fenner, Lena Jay, Garnet Kendall, Pearl Broshar, Inice McCorkle, Lee Rustin.

The club will give a concert at Box Butte this evening.

On his way to the democratic state convention at Lincoln THE AUXILIARY was pleased to make the acquaintance of T. J. O'Keefe of the Hemingford HERALD. The printing house of which this publication is the official organ, has forwarded a good many big packages of ready prints to the Herald Publishing Company, but this was the first time that it had met the editor and chief manager of the paper. Mr. O'Keefe is a young man—about the age and fully as good looking as the Schuyler Quill editor—and thoroughly up in his business. He prints a large and prosperous paper and has a host of friends and patrons in the northern section of the state. They have been having a warm county seat war in that locality, and things seem to have come THE HERALD's way to a degree that shows the influence it wields in the community.—Publishers' Auxiliary, Omaha.

Another meeting of the citizens of Hemingford was held at Gerber Hall Wednesday evening to complete arrangements for Decoration Day services. Chairman Pinkerton presided.

The committee on speakers reported that Hon. W. R. Akers had been secured as orator of the day.

Mesdames Miller, Sherwood, Blanchard, Gilman and Tash were appointed a committee on entertainment.

Messrs. Switzer, Gilman and Tash were appointed a committee on programme and instructed to send invitations to all the old soldiers and their wives to attend the services as guests of the people of Hemingford.

The Northwestern Congregational association will meet in Hemingford at the Congregational church at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday evening and there will be sessions all day Wednesday. There will be persons from all points in the district and some from points farther east. A very successful meeting will be the result and all are cordially invited.
