Mr. Bryan in the East.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27 .- The second day of William J. Bryan's trip westward from the seclusion of Red Hook was an eventful one, crowded with a variety of incidents of travel, including a picturesque reception at a summer hotel, a stirring speech to a crowd of workingmen at the town of Kingston, and culminating in a great meeting at Albany, where the candidate spoke to a crowd estimated at from 7,000 to 10,000 people, packed in the city hall square, under the shadow of the state house. Before this demonstration, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan sat down to a dinner with Benator Hill and prominent Albany Democrats at the Senator's magnifi-cent home, "Wolfert's Roost," whither they were driven directly from the depot, where a strong lunged crowd came near to mobbing them on their

Those who met the Democratic candidate and his wife at Mr. Hill's much discussed dinner were: Supreme Court Judge G. Cady Herrick and wife; Louis W. Pratt, the collector of customs, and wife; Norton Chase, chairman of the city Democratic committee, which, with other local organizations, had the meeting in charge. For nearly three hours Mr. Bryan was the guest of the New York Senator, and although every participant in the dinner averred that it was a purely social affair, their descriptions were taken with a grain of salt, it being the general impression that an understanding was reached which will insure to Mr. Bryan the support of the party organization in this State.

The crowd began to gather in the city hall square two hours before the meeting, and when Mr. Bryan faced them the people were packed in solid masses over several acres of pavement and sod, with adventurous men perched like bouquets in the branches of trees and climbing telegraph and lamp posts. Mr. Bryan said in part: "In a campaign, there is always some overshadowing issue; there is in a campaign always one great paramount question which, more than any other, will determine the allegiance of those who support the ticket; and in this campaign we appeal with confidence to those people who are opposed to a longer continuation of the gold standard policy in the United States. Our opponents have at last taken a definite position upon the money question. The Republican platform adopted at St. Louis declares that the gold standard must be maintained in this nation until other nations shall consent to its abandon-ment. We believe that declaration which commits us to a gold standard until other nations come to our relief is equivalent to a declaration in favor of a permanent continuation of the gold standard, because we do not be-lieve that other nations will take pity

"Can you think of all the wars of the past; can you remember that from the time that Cain killed Abel until now history has been little more than a record of warfare; can you remember all those wars and can you add in one great sum all the misery that those wars have caused, and then can you think of the pestilences which have visited the earth and the misery that they have brought, and then can you think of the famines that have afflicted mankind from time to time; can you add into one great sum all the misery caused by these three dread destroyers of the human race; and then think that the consummation of the conspiracy of those who stand behind the gold standard would bring

"Money can be too good. It can be so good that you can long for it and pray for it, but cannot get hold of it. (Laughter.) Remember that when ever you make money dearer, when you increase its purchasing power, you have simply driven down the value of other things, and if those who own money and who hold con tracts payable in dollars are willing to so legislate as to make their property more valuable, how can they appeal to those who own property and owe debts to join them in that sort of legislation? I have asserted, I assert again, that without the aid of the money-owning classes the gold standard would not stand for one day in any nation under the sun. I that behind the gold standard in this country the only potent force con-sists of those who hold fixed investments, and those who, as brokers, profit the greater by greater bond issues. They tell the laboring man of this nation that they ought to support a gold standard. The laboring men have never found the financiers of this nation the men who have exerted themselves to improve the condition of the laboring man. As a rule, the men who have spent their time in trying to break down labor organizations -the only protection the laboring man has had-these are the men who now come to the help of the laboring I ask you if you ought to expect blessings from those from whom you have only received cursings in the past?" A BIG STORE CLOSED.

The Dry Goods Firm of Hilton, Hughes & Co. Falls.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 .-- The old dry goods firm of Hilton, Hughes & Co., (once A. T. Stewart & Co.,) made an assignment this morning to Q. M. Wright, without preferences. Among the banks in Wall street the fallure is regarded as due to a gradual decline in business. The firm's credit for the last five years has been badly impaired, and it is understood that very little, if any, of the firm's single name paper is out. The firm has been taking stock for several weeks, and recently was understood to have re-celved about $750,000, which was used in reducing the liabilities.

The assignment was made by Albert G. Hilton, son of Judge Henry Hilton, who comprised the firm. statement has been made as to the amount of liabilities and assets.

Manley M. Gillam, general manager of the concern, stated that it was his opinion that the great Broadway dry goods house had closed its doors for good and all. He believed that the assets would undoubtedly exceed the liabilities The difficulty was to realize upon them quickly.

For more than fifty years the firm last known as Hilton, Hughes & Co. was one of the largest in the trade. It was created by A. T. Stewart and at his death passed to his widow. SHOVERS OF THE QUEER When she died Judge Henry Hilton became the owner of the property. After various partnerships between Hilton and his sons, E. J. Denning feiters Made at a Revival. and John M. Some time ago Mr. Hughes retired and since then Albert Hilton had carried on the business as Hilton, Hughes & Co.

THE RISE OF STEWART.

Alexander Turney Stewart, who amassed the Stewart millions, was born in Lisburn, near Belfast, Ireland, October 12, 1803, He emigrated to America early and studied for the ministry, but with the consent of his guardian abandoned that purpose. Returning to his native country at his majority he received a small fortune loft him by his father and invested it in Irish laces and linens, which he brought to this city. In 1825 he started a modest store here and with his wife -for had just married-lived in a back room or two. His frugality, industry and enterprise secured him phe-nomenal success. He moved into larger and larger quarters and during the war had two wast establishments in this city with branches all over the world, employed 2,000 men and enjoyed an annual in-come of from 1 to 2 million dollars. In 1869 President Grant appointed him Secretary of the Treasury, but his confirmation was prevented by an old law which excludes from the office those interested in the importation of merchandise. Stewart offered to devote his profits to charity during his incumbency, but the senators were obdurate. Stewart built a marble mansion at Fifth avenue and Thirtyfourth street, which is one of the finest private residences in the West-ern hemispere. He died April 10, 1876.

"Who is Hilton?" indicated some speculative article in the newspapers. He obtained so great an ascendancy over Stewart in the merchant's declining years that once an acquaintance of both, in answer to the query, "Who is Hilton?" said: "Hilton is Stewart." It is known that Hilton spent a number of hours daily in consultation with Stewart. When Stewart died is was found that he had willed comfortable incomes to several relatives and dependants, $1,000,000 to Hilton and the residue and bulk of his estate to his wife. The day Stewart died Hilton and another went to the dead millionaire's confidential bookkeeper and found that the Stewart interest in the great dry good business amounted to about $12,000,000. "Just what I told you," said Hilton to his companion, and they drove away.

During the ride Mr. Bryan said, concerning his views of the party outlook in this state: "I am more than gratified with the demonstration of last evening. It far surpassed anything which I had expected. I am also pleased to find so unanimous a sentiment in favor of the indorsement of the action of the Chicago convention. From what I see now in New York and the sentiments expressed by members of the state organization, I am well satisfied that the state convention will indorse the platform as well as the ticket. Some of the delegates may oppose parts of the plat-form, but it is the national platform and will be accepted as a whole."

At Tonawanda 200 or 300 people were gathered when the car stopped in the center of the town and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, standing on the platform, shook hands with a typical country erowd. Mr. Bryan spoke briefly to them, but his voice, in its huskiness showed the wear and tear of the week's work.

HOPEFUL AS TONEW YORK BY SHOT AND SHELL.

PALACE OF ZANZIBAR TOTALLY DESTROYED.

British Guns Do Effective Work in Short Order-The Usurping Sultan Refused to Surrender and Sad Havoe Immediately Followed-Given Refuge at the German Consulate.

Shelled by British Guns. ZANEIBAR, Aug. 28.—Sayld Khalld, who seized the palace and assumed the title of sultan on the death of the late sultan, was notified last night to surrender to the British marines at 9 c'clock this morning or suffer the consequences. He had with him about 2,500 well armed and well disciplined men, including 900 Askaris, who had been trained by British officers, plenty of ammunition and a number of field guns and other pieces of artillery, and received further reinforcements during the night from the slave dealers, who flocked to his support, as the formal hoisting of the British flag over Zanzibar would mean the liberation of about 200,000 slaves and a death blow to slavery in this part of East Africa.

By 8 o'clock this morning the British subjects, nmbering about 100 peo-ple, and a number of other foreigners embarked on the warships, the Ital-ians going to the Italian gunboat Vol-

FIRING BEGUN JUST ON TIME. Shortly before 9 o'clock a naval officer was sent to the palace square with another message for Sayid Khalid, asking him if he was prepared to surrender in accordance with the terms of the ultimatum, and again notifying him that the palace in which he had barricaded himself would be shelled at 9 o'clock promptly if he failed to haul down his flag before Sayid replied that he would die sooner than surrender. His answer was conveyed to Admiral Rawson and the British consul general, and the crews of the ships, which had been prepared for action the day before, were sent to quarters. At 9 o'clock the flagship signalled the Raccoon, Thrush and Sparrow to begin firing and a moment later the vessels opened fire with their heaviest guns. Ten minutes later they had torn great gapes in the palace, seattering death and confusion among its defenders, dismounting some of the guns ashore and putting to flight the gunners handling the pieces. The fire of the warships was admirably directed and smoke was soon seen to be issuing from several parts of the palace. During this time the St. George and the ilomen were held in reserve, although they occasionally plumped a shell into the enemies camp, adding to the dismay of its defenders.

THE PALACE SOON IN BUINS.

The Raccoon, Thrush and Sparrow kept up the bombardment until 9:50 o'clock, when the palace was tumbling in ruins and large rents had been made in the barricade of Sayid's followers. The latter, however, answered the fire of the warships with great gallantry and did not stop firing until, in response to the flagship's signal of "Cease firing," the guns of the warships stopped showering shot and shell asher. The losses of the same warships atopped showering shot and shell asher. shell ashore. The losses of the enemy are not known, but it is certain that several hundred were killed of wounded, especially among the defenders of the palace proper.

During the bombardment, the sultan's armed steamer Glasgow opened fire on the British warships, but a few well aimed shells from the heavy guns of the Raccoon and a shot or we from the four-inch guns of the Sparrow crushed through and through her, silencing her fire in short erder and ultimately sinking her at her moorings.

UNDER GERMAN PROTECTION. Soon after the palace caught fire and the walls and roof were sent flying by the shells of the warships. Sayid Khalid and Said Sayles, commander of the usurping sultan's army, escaped with a number of their leading followers through the back part of the palace to the German consulate, where they asked for protection, which was boordy after 10 o'clock, in response to sig als from the lagship St. George, reinforcements of marines and sailers were sent ashore from the British ships, and the work of capturing the insurgents, collecting the dead and attending to the wounded was commenced.

INSURGENTS QUICKLY SUBDUED. When the insurgents had been compelled to lay down their arms and were securely corralled by the marines and blue jackets the latter were ordered to try to distinguish the flames in the palace and in the old custom house, which had also been shelled and set on fire, as the insurgents had fortified and had to be driven from the building. But at noon, in spite of the efforts of the sailors to extinguish the flames, the palace was a mass of biazing ruins, the old oustom house was in ashes and a number of other buildings, demolished or set on fire by exploding shells, were in ruins.

No casualties are reported among the British ashore and, though all business naturally is at a standstill, order was completely restored before nightfall and the foreign residents were able to return to their residences ashore.

For the present the island will be administered by Admiral Rawson, pending the receipt of further instructions from the British govern-

Ents, Pa., Aug. 28.-William J. Bryan made speeches yesterday in three cities of two states-Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y., and Erie, Pa .and inciden'y traveled several hundred miles to meet the thousands who gathered from the surrounding country to hear him at each place. The day's demonstration culminated in Erie, where the meeting of 350 delegates of the Democratic societies of Pennsylvania made the presence of the candidate particularly opportune. Here Mr. Bryan made three stirring speeches to as many different audiences in the evening being driven quickly from one hall to another. The first meeting was at Maennerchor hall, which held 2,500 persons, to whom Mr. Bryan appealed to study the issue of the campaign and vote their convictions. His second appearance was on the stage of the Auditorium, where he faced an audience of equal size, and the second speech was, like the first, brief but stirring. Outside of the Eric opera house thousands more had waited for a glimpse of the candidate, and inside were assembled the delegates to the meeting of the Democratic societies. When the peo-ple were admitted they filled the house in five minutes and the doors were closed upon hundreds.

He was escorted to the balcony overlooking the street, where Theodore Shrinder and the Rev. Frank S. Heath had been making preliminary speeches, and received an ovation from the 2,000 people, of whom workingmen seemed to be a majority.

Mr. Bryan's voice was decidedly busky for the first time since his week's rest at Red Hook. Mr. Sibley followed with a brief speech and then the lines were formed for the recep-tion. Ex-Congressman Kerr presented the people. The reception consumed three-quarters of an hour, beginning at 11 o'clock, and probably 2,500 people went through in that time, most of them lading
