that's the first free ride he ever had," "Look at that fellow, imagines he's Supt. Phelan, don't he?" "My won't it go hard with them to pay fare after election—those that are not furnished with an annual?" etc, etc. After marching around through the aristocratic part of town they pulled up at the opera house. In the meantime the other boys were "opening the mills and closing the soup houses." The room was well filled and the speaker made a great hit—abusing Bryan and telling stories. Whenever he tried to produce argument he contradicted himself. In speaking of the tariff legislation Mr. Palmer loudly proclaimed that "when the McKinley tariff bill was repealed and since the Gorman-Wilson bill went into effect, thousands of cattle were imported into this country from Texas." In his denunciation of the demonization of silver he declared that "silver was never demonized and when it was, he, as the representative of the Des Moines district in Iowa, voted for it and he was proud of it." A great many McKinley men were disgusted with the "speech" and we venture to say that Mr. Palmer will never speak in this county again. However, Mr. Palmer should be complimented for one thing—he knew when to stop. His speech was very short and if it hadn't been, the old gentleman would have been talking to himself. The fact of the matter is two thirds of the population of Alliance have Bryan hearts but McKinley mouths.

BEREA.

The Berea S. S. visited with Rev. Wornom's S. S. last Sunday. "Uncle" John O'Keefe of Hemingford passed through here last Tuesday on his way to his ranch on Snake creek. Severt and Halvor Rindgen are two bachelor brothers who live five miles southeast of here, one is a goldbug and the other is a silverite and how in this wide world they can live in the same house is a profound mystery to us.

The Berea literary will open for the season next Saturday night, Sept. 26th in the Sunday school house one half mile south of here. Everybody from far and near are requested to meet and help organize.

Educational.

Office days of Co. Supt. are Mondays and Saturdays of each week. Teacher's examination the third Saturday of each month. Any teacher who has not a State Course of Study should send to Co. Supt. at once for a copy and adopt it in his school this year. The first meeting of our Co. Teachers' Association for this year will be held in Hemingford school building Sept. 26th at 1:30 p. m. The work and plans for the year will be decided upon. Every teacher in the county is expected to be present and those interested in the cause are cordially invited. Program for Sept. 26, 1896.

Notice to Non-resident Defendant.

In the district court of Box Butte county, William B. Abbey, plaintiff, vs. Annie L. Fanning, W. H. Fanning and W. J. Bowden. The above named defendant W. J. Bowden, will take notice that on the 25th day of August 1896, William B. Abbey plaintiff herein filed his petition in the district court of Box Butte county against the above named defendants, the object and prayer of which are to foreclose a certain mortgage executed by the defendant Annie L. Fanning to the American Investment company upon the southeast quarter of section 25 in township 27 north, range 48 west of the 6th principal meridian in Box Butte county Nebraska, to secure the payment of one certain promissory note for the sum of $400.00, dated March 25 1897, and due and payable Dec. 1st 1897 with interest thereon payable semiannually and on which time of payment was afterwards extended five years from maturity thereof. Said note and mortgage contains the condition that if any interest on said note is not paid within twenty days after the same becomes due, then the principal shall immediately become due and payable at the option of the holder thereof. Said note and mortgage was before the same became due for a valuable consideration daily assigned to the plaintiff who is now the holder and owner thereof. All of the interest which became due on said note on the 1st day of Dec. 1896, has since that time still remains unpaid and the plaintiff elects to declare the principal and interest thereon due and payable at once, and thereon to foreclose the mortgage herein named and to sell the premises thereon for the sum of $400.00, with interest thereon from the 1st day of June 1896, at ten per cent per annum. Plaintiff prays that the defendants be required to pay the same or that said premises may be sold to satisfy the amount found due. You are required to answer said petition on or before the 14th day of September 1896. Dated August 9, 1896. By D. K. SEACRIT, his attorney. Pp 8-7 4w.

In the District Court of Box Butte County, ANNA G. REED, Plaintiff, vs. CLEMENTINE A. MCKINNEY, Defendant.

Clementine A. McKinney defendant, will take notice that on the 10th day of August, 1896, Anna G. Reed plaintiff herein filed her petition in the district court of Box Butte county, Nebraska, against you the said defendant, the object and prayer of which is to foreclose a certain mortgage executed by the defendant to the American Loan and Trust Company upon the northwest quarter of section 9, in township 23 north, range 49 west of the 9th P. M. in Box Butte county, Nebraska, to secure the payment of one promissory note dated May 29, 1890, for the sum of $200, and due and payable on the 1st day of May 1895, bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from date. Said note and mortgage was for a valuable consideration, before the same became due, daily sold, assigned and delivered to the plaintiff, who is now the owner thereof and of the money due thereon from the said note and mortgage, on the 1st day of May 1895, at the rate of ten per cent per annum, and the further sum of $44.04 for taxes paid on said premises to protect her security with interest thereon at ten per cent per annum from the 1st day of May 1895, for which she claims with the interest thereon, plaintiff prays for a decree, that the defendant be required to pay the same, or that said mortgage may be foreclosed and said premises may be sold according to law to satisfy the amount found due. You are required to answer said petition on or before the 22nd day of November 1896. Dated Sept. 21, 1896. ANNA G. REED, Plaintiff, By W. M. IODENCE, her attorney. Pp 8-7 25.

Notice to Non-resident Defendant. In the District Court of Box Butte county, Nebraska, WILLIAM N. PEARSON, vs. MARY A. PEARSON.

Mary A. Pearson defendant, will take notice that on the 18th day of September, 1896, the plaintiff herein filed his petition in the district court of Box Butte county, Nebraska, against said defendant, the object and prayer of which is to procure a divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between the parties hereto, and any further relief which the court may deem equitable. You are required to answer said petition on or before the 18th day of October, 1896. Dated Sept. 19, 1896. WILLIAM N. PEARSON, Plaintiff, By L. A. BERRY, his attorney.

TRYING TO KEEP UP. False Pride and Living Beyond One's Means. There is nothing so absolutely foolish and unremunerative as the false pride which attempts a style of living beyond the means of the individual, whose only incentive thereto is that others in her set do thus and so, and therefore it is incumbent upon her to do likewise, says the New York Tribune. To strive to keep up to a certain standard, without the means to do so comfortably or successfully, is of all things most wearing and dispiriting. Many a woman at the end of the season asks herself what it is all worth, and thinks how foolish she has been to waste time, energy and money to gain the favor of certain people who have so much that they count for nothing the efforts made to please them and consider they are conferring a favor by accepting invitations. Yet, despite her experience of the vanity and hollow sham of it all, the chances are ten to one that such a woman will begin her poor, pitiful worldly campaign the next season with renewed vigor, and that she will again sacrifice herself and family to this Moloch of modern society called public opinion. If only these poor, hard-working, weary denizens of vanity fair realized that such striving is not only fruitless, but derogatory, that the very people whose acquaintance and friendship they are most anxious to secure would like and respect them far more if they were simple and honest and hospitable according to their means, it would save them no end of trouble and discouragement. "We dined at Mrs. A.'s the other evening," said the sensible wife of one of our multi-millionaires, "and enjoyed it so much. She lives in a tiny apartment and has only two maids, and she gives us the simplest little dinner, but so good, and such a relief after the elaborate affairs one generally has to sit through. Just soup, fish, a fillet of beef, an entree and a sweet, everything in such excellent taste, and only eight at table, but just the people one wanted to see. 'Do ask me again,' my husband said to her as we were leaving. 'I have not enjoyed myself so much this winter,' and he really meant it. We took dinner with some one else, who shall be nameless, a couple of evenings afterward. Such a tiresome experience as it was! The dinner was poor and yet very elaborate, and everything was on a scale too big for the house. 'What a mistake those people make,' I said as we were driving home, 'and how anxious and fagged Mrs. — looked.' 'I presume they are living beyond their means,' was my husband's manlike conclusion. — came to me the other day to get me to go into some new enterprise in which he is interested, but I guess I'll keep out of it." "How tired and discontented Mrs. Clymber looks," remarked one of her acquaintances, "and yet she has made a success of it this winter, every one says." "She has bought her victory too dear," answered some one who was present. "She has spent more than she can afford. She had offended her old friends, and what has she gained? Tolerant only from the set she has set her heart upon belonging to. No wonder that she finds the apples of Sodom dust and ashes—yet she will continue to reach after them with the same eagerness next season."

CAMBRIAN ETYMOLOGY. Localities in the British Isles That Retain Celtic Names. Many localities retain the names originally bestowed upon them by the Celtic Britons, those, for example, which have the prefix cum, which is the Welsh word, a valley, says the Gentlemen's Magazine. Anderson, the local poet, enumerates them: There's Cumwhiton, Cumwhinon, Cumranon, Cumrangan, Cumrrew and Cumcatch, And many more cum's in the county. But hin w! Cumdvoek can match. Some of the above names, it will be observed have the Anglo-Saxon "ton" superadded to them. The familiar Celtic prefixes, pen, a hilltop and caer, a fortress, appear in Penrith and Penrudeock (which both signify "red hill"), Cardrnoek and Carlisle or Caer-Leol. Durnoek may be the Gaelic dw-enoc, "water hill" or else a proper name. Leol is merely a contraction of Liguallium, the Roman name of Carlisle, and the Latinized form of some unpronounceable appellation by which the Britons designated the site of that city. In Talkin we recognize the Celtic word, talcan, a brow, and in Castle Carroek we may trace the Gaelic carragh (which means a large stone set on end) or the Welsh caer, a rock. The river names of the county are for the most part of Celtic origin. Thus the Irthing, wandering over the alluvial plain, is believed to derive its name from the Welsh gwyrddu, to write or turn, and the Gelt, dashing over its bed of red sandstone, from the Celtic galt, a rock. Of mountain names Helvellyn, the yellow mountain; Rivelyn, the red mountain, and Bleacathra, the seat mountain (the ancient name of Saddleback), are Celtic. The Gaelic word cathair and Welsh caer mean a chair and Blaen is a Welsh term for a hill-top, occurring in other local names, such as Blencow and Blennerhasset. A Skill That Vanishes. She paused to watch the boys playing mumblety peg. "Isn't it remarkable," he said, "how cleverly a boy can handle a knife?" "Yes," she answered, with a sigh; "and it's more remarkable to think how he loses it all when he grows up and ought to be able to carve."—Washington Star.
