POWER TO RECOGNIZE CUBA.

SECRETARY OLNEY TALKS POSITIVELY.

NOT CONGRESS' PROVINCE.

Claims That the President Has That Power and That the Passage of the Cameron Resolution by Congress Would Have No Ometal Effect -Conflict of Powers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19. - The Cameron Cuban republic recognition resolution, if pressed to final passage in both houses, will constitute a direct and formidable issue between the executive and legislative branches of the government. This is clearly indicated by the following interview given out by Secretary Olney to-day: "I have no objection to stating my own view of the resolution respecting the independence of the so-called republic of The Kearney New Era reports that Cubs. Indeed, as there are likely several horses have died in Buffalo to be serious misapprehensions regarding such resolution, both in this country and abroad, and as such apprehensions may have injurious results of a grave character, it is perhaps my duty to point out that the resolution, if passed by the Senate, can be regarded only as an expression of opinion by the eminent gentlemen who vote for it in the Senate and, if passed by the House of Representatives, it can only be regarded as another expression of opinion by the eminent gentlemen who vote for it in the House. The power to recognize the so-called republic of Cuba as an independent state rests exclusively with > the Executive. "A resolution on the subject by the senate or by the house or by both bodies, or by one, whether concurrent or joint, is inoperative as legislation and is important only as advice of great weight voluntarily tendered to the executive regarding the manner in which he shall exercise his constitutional functions. The operation and effect of the proposed resolution, therefore, even if passed by both houses of congress by a two-thirds vote, are perfeetly plain. It may raise expectation in some quarters which can never be realized. It may inflame popular passions both in this country and elsewhere, may thus put in peril the lives and property of American citizens who are resident and traveling abroad, and will certainly obstruct, and perhaps defeat, the best efforts of this government to afford such citizens due protection. But except in these ways and unless the advice embodied in the resolution shall lead the Executive to revise conclusions already reached and officially declared the resolution will be without effect and will leave unaltered the attitude of this government towards the two contending parties in Cuba. SENATOR FRYE'S COMMENTS. Senator Frye of the committee on foreign relations, after reading Secretary Olney's statement, said: "I have no doubt that a majority of the committee believe that if the resolution is passed by a two-thirds vote over the veto of the president, it would then become a law and that the executive would be compelled to execute it as he is any other law on the statute books. I think, too, that the majority of the members of the committee are of the opinion that the Secretary of State is wrong in his opinion that the recognition of the republic as an independent state rests exclusively with the executive. As one member of the committee, I have been inclined to think he is right on this point, and have not fully determined what the effect would be if the resolution should pass notwithstanding the President's veto. I am so strongly impressed that it is the duty of the United States in some way to put a stop to the horrible slaughter and barbarous brutality in an island almost in sight of our shores, that I am disposed to give the insurgents the

The advocates of the resolution express their willingness to forego speechmaking in order to facilitate action by the Senate, and say that so far as they can have any influence the opponents of the resolution will be al-lowed to do the talking. The opponents of the resolution do not hesitate to express their purpose to prevent its passage by any means in their control. Senator Hale of Maine will lead the oppositition in case Senator Allison shall be unable to resume his seat after the holidays. Mr. Hale will be acting chairman of the committee on appropriations and this position can be used by him to great advantage in opposing the Cuban declaration. He will be supported by Senators Pettigrew, Aldrich, and others.

CUBAN ADVOCATES CONFIDENT. The supporters of the resolution are confident of its success if a vote can be reached. Senators Davis, Frye, Lodge and Morgan, all members of the foreign relations committee, express confidence in the passage of the resolution. They cite the adoption of the Cuban amendment to the immigration bill as an indication of the feeling of the Senate on the Cuban question, and say they will have a two-thirds ma-jority on both sides of the chamber if the vote shall be reached.

CONFLICT OF POWERS POSSIBLE. Of course Sceretary Olney's statement indicates clearly that if the joint resolution shall ever pass both branches of Congress and be sent to the President, the latter will veto it. not only on the ground of impolicy, but also because it constitutes an in- WHAT IT WOULD MEAN. TO RECLAIM LANDS. Moreover, the secretary, in almost as many words, says that no attention will be paid to the will of Congress in this matter, even if the resolution is passed over the President's veto. In this case a grave conflict of powers of two branches of the government might be expected to follow, though just how the issue may be made up so that it can be reached by the supreme court, the arbiter of all questions of constitutionality, is not clear at present. It is suggested, however, that if the issue shall go to that length, congress may achieve its purpose indirectly by the exercise of a power certainly confided to it exclusively by the constitution, namely, by a declaration of war, which is, after all, in the judgment of many authorities, only what the recognition of the independence of Cuba under existing conditions would

Effect of the Recognition of the Cubau

Republic by the United States. WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 .- The action of the Senate foreign committee in agreeing to report the Cameron resolution will, if completed, by action of Congress and the President, enable the present rebels to float a loan and obtain munitions of war in abundance, especially with the powerful backing of the United States. Besides, if the Cubans could then manage to put afloat a few warships or privateers their flag would then admit them to United States ports under the protection of the neutrality laws, but the United States could not, under the Geneva award, tolerate the fitting out of privateers in its ports. Furthermore, as this recognition of independence would involve the recognition of a state of war, neither the Spanish government nor the Cubans wouly be permitted to equip warships or military expeditions in the United States, and this country would observe strict netrality towards both parties, just as did China and Japan in their late war.

One bad effect upon the United States itself of the proposed action would be the total loss of all of the claims for indemnity for American property destroyed during the insurrection, which may lie against Spain, for this action would relieve her at once of responsibility. What the insurgents undoubtedly expect and ardently wish for, in the opinion of the state department, is the precipitation of a war between the United States

English Press Comment.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The papers very generally comment upon the gravity of the situation between the United States and Spain brought about by the action of the senate foreign relations committee in agreeing to report tor Cameron's resolution for the recognition of the Cuban republic. They agree, for the most part, in expressing belief that President Cleveland will veto the resolution if it is sent to him, but that in the present temper of the American people the resolution will be passed by congress over the veto with the requisite majority.

There is far more danger of giving house plants too much rather than too little water in winter. During the short days and long nights, with very ittle sunlight on the soil it is hard to keep it at a temperature where the plants can grow vigorously. All the surplus water added lowers the temperature until it reaches a point where the plants barely exist without making any growth. If the soil has much veg etable matter, humic acid will be de-veloped and a low temperature and this will poison the plant roots.
