

RED HOT DEBATE ON AMERICAN RIGHTS

Senators Smith and Borah Suggest an Embargo Against Great Britain to Get Results.

WILLIAMS AND HITCHCOCK TILT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Great Britains interference with American trade was characterized as "perpetual robbery," Germany's course was characterized as "murder," and charges were made and denied that British censors extracting American trade secrets from intercepted mails turn them over to English firms, today in the most enlivened debate the senate has had so far over the international situation.

Senator Hoke Smith's denunciation of British interference with shipment of cotton to Germany drew the approbation of Senator Borah, republican, who declared he was willing to take the responsibility of "acts not words," and the disapproval of Senator Williams, democrat, who declared he was not willing to see the south contend for commerce ahead of human lives.

"The president can only write notes," said Senator Smith. "Congress can do more. I don't mean to go to war. I don't believe in involving this nation in war for a few dollars. All we've got to do is to show that we've got the nerve to insist on our rights. England knows that we are right and that it is wrong."

Borah Suggests Embargo.

Senator Borah, republican, asked the Georgia senator if he thought congress would embargo munitions and other necessities to Great Britain.

"If the senator will help I would be glad to join in such an embargo to take effect in thirty days. If meanwhile England has not yet decided to respect the legal rights of the United States," responded Senator Smith.

"I am perfectly willing," returned Senator Borah. "In order to protect our rights upon the sea and upon land, to assume the responsibility, not of speech, but of action."

Senator Knute Nelson, republican, recalled the German naval policy, declaring 34 Scandinavian vessels had been sunk by Germany since the war began.

Williams Against War.

Senator Williams, democrat, declared the north starved the south with its navy and said the United States now was having a demonstration of what such tactics could accomplish.

"I want to say," Senator Williams continued, "that if the senator from Georgia could have his way and congress were to pass and the president sign the measures he advocates, it necessarily would result in nonintercourse with the allies, unless the allies were to stand still like a lot of whipped curs while waiting for life, liberty and independence, and obey the will of the United States congress with 90,000 soldiers and the fourth navy in the world behind it. I fear England would not stand for bullying from a people who can't bully."

Senator Williams took issue with the designation of England's blockade as a "paper" one.

"I don't want to see Dixie put into the attitude of caring just as much about property as the life of the woman and children sent to their graves in the ocean," he continued. "Until the question as to the loss of women and children is settled, I do not intend to nag the president or this administration, and I would not nag a republican administration about the loss of property. My people are not ready to put cotton and human life on the same basis."

Hitchcock Asks About Mails.

Senator Hitchcock, democrat, asked Senator Williams what he would do to assure respect for United States mails, declaring Great Britain had seized sixty-three bags of first class American mail bound direct to Rotterdam, "and had not consented to render justice yet."

What the Senator Wants Me to Say.

"What the senator wants me to say is that I would declare war against Great Britain and cause a lot of Irish, English, Welsh, Scotch, Canadians and Americans to be killed because my mail had been interfered with, but I shan't say it," replied Senator Williams.

Doubts Trade Secret Charge.

"I resent every act of belittlement that violates our rights," continued Senator Williams, "but I don't care enough about it to shed human blood over it. As to British censors handing over our trade letters to British business men, I have doubts, it strikes me that England is a little too busy at war right now defending its life to be engaged in catching onto trade secrets. We have 3,000 miles of undefended Canadian border. I don't want my boys to go up there killing Canadian boys and Canadian boys coming down here killing our boys just because somebody stopped somebody's mail on its way to Norway."

Supposed the Senator Went on Indefinitely.

"Supposed the senator went on indefinitely," demanded Senator Hitchcock.

"Suppose the moon was made of green cheese," returned Senator Williams.

But they are being made indefinitely," persisted Mr. Hitchcock.

"They are not," replied Senator Williams.

"The God's truth is—no, I will not say it. Even the truth about some things cannot be told in the senate."

Man Who Demanded Cash from Wilson is Placed Under Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 20.—John Paul Wins, who is said by the police to have been writing to President Wilson for the last two or three months demanding money and drafts, is under arrest here and is to be examined by a sanity commission.

MOHR'S CHAUFFEUR TELLS STORY OF PLOT

Says He Was Instructed by Mrs. Mohr to Stop Car and Say Doctor Shot by Robbers.

SPOT SELECTED NEAR LAKE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 20.—The prosecution in the Mohr murder trial today continued its efforts to show that Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr hired two negroes, Cecil Brown and Henry Spellman, to murder her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr. George W. Heals, the physician's negro chauffeur, who turned state's evidence after being indicted, had not completed his testimony when court adjourned yesterday.

In resuming his testimony today Heals said on the night of August 27 he went with Brown to Mrs. Mohr's house.

"Mrs. Mohr asked Brown how things were," Heals testified, "and Brown said 'O. K.' She asked where we were going to pull it off. She thought it would be better on the Newport side, because she knew all the police of Newport. Mrs. Mohr finally said she would leave that to us. She said 'all you've got to do, George, is to stop the car.' She told Brown he would get $2,000, that I was to get $2,000 and Spellman $1,000.

"I told Mrs. Mohr I didn't want to do it. She told me not to be afraid, that I could say it was a holdup and to call up the nearest house and tell them that the doctor had been held up and shot.

The murder was planned for the next night, Brown said we could throw our guns into the water."

Heals said he and Brown picked out the spot for the murder, that they agreed to throw the guns into a lake and that Brown showed him where he would leave his motorcycle.

GREEK KING SENDS PROTEST TO U. S.

Monarch Says Entente Has Frequently Violated the Neutrality of Greece.

FRENCHMAN MAKES ANSWER

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The king of Greece late on Thursday summoned the Associated Press correspondent in Athens for the purpose of making a protest through the press of the United States, which he said was the only form of public opinion open to him against the recent action of the allies in their operations at Saloniki in blowing up the bridge at Demir Hissar, in occupying Corfu and other islands which Greece claims.

He said the situation is as if a foreign power had occupied that part of the United States which had been won from Mexico after the Mexican war, and that the plea of military necessity advanced by the allies was like that given by Germany for invading Belgium and Luxemburg. It is the nearest cant, the king declared, for Great Britain and France to talk about the violation of the neutrality of Belgium and Luxemburg in view of what they had done and are doing themselves. He denied the military necessity for the blowing up of the bridge or for occupation of Corfu, and he also challenged them on the contention that submarines of the Teutonic allies are being supplied from a Greek base.

Greek Sentiment Turns.

He said that the allies in proof over the failure of all their calculations in the Balkans were trying to depend on Greece the result of their own stupidity, and that 50 per cent of the Greeks at the beginning of the war were in favor of the allies, but now not 20 per cent would turn their hand to render them aid.

King Constantine did not feel that he could afford to demobilize while the fate of Saloniki is undecided, and while he did not think it probable that Germany could be victorious in the sense that it could take London, Paris or Petrograd, he believed it would be difficult, if not impossible, to conquer Germany in military way if economic conditions did not force it to sue for peace. He said, finally, in his opinion, the war would end in a draw.

The interview with the king was transmitted from Athens on January 13, but was sent out from Paris only on January 18, at 2:45 p. m. On January 18, at an earlier hour, the highest French authorities—whose personality is not otherwise indicated—gave an interview to the Associated Press in reply to the statements made by the Greek king. This authority denies any parallel between the German invasion of Belgium and Luxemburg and the temporary use of certain points in Greece, which does not constitute an occupation, properly speaking, and which use was made for the most part with the tacit consent of Greece.

The allies, he said, only went to Saloniki to aid Greece's ally, Serbia, and to take up treaty obligations which Greece did not fulfill.

During the recent months, he added, the Greek government permitted Germans and Austrians to violate its neutrality by using the Greek islands and coasts as a base for provisioning their submarines. The charges about the bridge at Demir Hissar were without foundation, the French authority said, and the question of the sympathies of the Greek people was proved by their action at the recent elections and their attitude towards M. Venizelos, the friend of the entente.

The authority points out that while the king declares he cannot demobilize, he forgets to add that the allies continue, at his request, to advance money to Greece for its mobilization. As for the king's opinion regarding the result of the war, the authority says it is pleasant that a sovereign, who is so impressed by Germany's strength, should not admit that it cannot be victorious, which shows how right impartial people are in claiming that it will be crushed.

BOTTLE OF SIOUX COUNTY OIL WILL BE ANALYZED

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(Special Telegram).—Judge Kinkaid received a small bottle of oil today from I. D. Porter of Harrison, Sioux county, obtained at a depth of 200 or 300 feet, and collected in small quantities from the surface of the water.

The congressman from the Sixth district at once asked for an analysis at the hands of the geological survey. In view of the fact that the oil fields in Wyoming, the finding of oil in Sioux county, Nebraska, is a matter geologists here say is quite possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Purdy of Beatrice, Neb., are visiting in Washington. Mr. Purdy is the well known football star of a few years ago.

Put Stomach in Fine Condition

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflame the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we associate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-forming mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

All the steel coaches left the track, but no passengers were injured. The trains were combined at Kansas City last night and left there as a double-header, with Trenton at a speed of forty-five miles an hour, the united train was derailed in passing a curve.

The engineer was thrown out of the cab and escaped death with a crushed foot. The mail car, baggage car and smoker were thrown over in leaving the rails. Conductor G. M. Burnett of Kansas City was in the smoker and suffered two broken ribs; Lon Moseley, a flagman, of Kansas City, was cut and bruised severely, and J. A. T.
