

BRINGS WAR CLOSE HOME TO PEOPLE

Great Britain Proposes to Prohibit Imports of Tobacco, Wood Pulp and Other Articles.

WILL SAVE ROOM IN SHIPS

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The government's proposal for the restriction of imports is commented on in the press this morning, the belief being expressed that the proposed prohibitions will bring the war much closer home to the people.

Little Building Now.

The prohibition against the importation of building materials is considered as unlikely to cause great hardship, as little building is going on, owing to labor difficulties and the opposition of the government.

The Daily Mail discussing the prohibition of the importation of paper, pictures the situation which is likely to follow.

"We shall go back to the condition of a century ago," says this newspaper, "when paper was something precious and carefully economized and when the people saved every scrap of it. Cheap books were then unknown. It cost a shilling in Pitt's time to produce a small pamphlet. There is not a household nor a business in the country which will not be affected by the inevitable rise in the price of paper."

Body of Recluse on Exhibition Years Is To Be Buried at Last

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 28.—After two and a half years of public exhibition, Probate Judge Snider today issued an order for the burial of the body of John O'Connor, the wealthy recluse, for whose fortune claimants have come from all parts of the United States and Canada.

O'Connor left property estimated to be worth between $50,000 and $100,000. He left no known relatives, although more than forty people, mostly from a distance, made claim to relationship.

In district court ten days ago Judge Corcoran pronounced all these claims without merit. In the event that no lawful heir appears the property will revert to the state, which has already filed its claim. The body of O'Connor has rested in a morgue for 753 days pending the litigation.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question is asked every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but often due to disordered blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the system better able to withstand the varying elements. This is the important reason why Scott's Emulsion should always be taken for colds, and it does more—builds strength to prevent sickness. Scott's Emulsion contains Nature's rare strength-building fats, so skillfully blended that the blood profits from every drop. It is free from harmful drugs or alcohol. Sold at drug stores—always get the genuine. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-28
