

TWO APPLES OVER HUNDRED ARE RECEIVED IN OMAHA

Two apples which are quite unique in their way have been received by G. W. Hervey, associate editor of the Twentieth Century Farmer, from a friend in Ohio, Thomas McNary of Jefferson county. They are apples which are not grown in this section of the country and are from trees which are 100 years old. One is a large yellow belleflower and the other is a vandyver, an old style apple which is not listed in the present-day apple lists. The two trees were planted in 1813 by the grandfather of the present owner, who is 75 years old. From as far back as the present owner can remember these trees have been uniform bearers. The orchard adjoins the farm on which Mr. Hervey was born and raised. In this community the old orchards are generally gone, but there are still a few trees which are bearing.

their geography studies. On Friday they visited the smelter. The young folks are much interested in these visits.

THOUGHT HE COULD WHIP PART OF MORAL SQUAD

Frank Bastram betrayed the fact that he was a stranger "in our midst" by ac-costing the police moral squad at Sixteenth and Chicago streets and offering to whip them individually or collectively. He failed and was brought to headquarters, where he will remain for the next five days.

Our March Exposition of New Spring Silks

Complete Revue of the Selected Spring Fashions Opens Tomorrow, Emphasizing WIDE ASSORTMENTS and LOW PRICES

—To see this comprehensive showing, it is difficult to realize that European sources of supply are seriously curtailed, for we are amply provided with heavy stocks of all fabrics which will be wanted, and they will be sold by us, not necessarily at prevailing prices, but in accordance with the low prices we paid. Every yard of silk offered in this exposition is the best that is produced in the various qualities. We make this superlative claim only after the most painstaking investigation and comparison.

—We have said before and it bears repeating, that the incomparable advantages enjoyed by the patrons of our silk department are largely due to the fact that this store pays cash and buys in immense quantities; also, through our European offices and their branches, we acquire at the most opportune times the best that foreign makers produce. We are confident that silks of these qualities at prices quoted cannot be duplicated elsewhere. And the wonderful array of the newest weaves, textures and colors adds emphasis to the unusual pricing.
