Choice beeves sold up around $9.1549....

The same as on yesterday and bulk of the fair to good 1,600 pound cattle went at $8.4098.90.

Clows and helfers were in moderate supply and active demand and steady to streng all morning, and there was no particular change in the market in stockers and feeders. Supplies of the later are accumulating at the yards, however, and indications are that prices will work lower before the end of the week.

any similar period since the first of the year.

Other markets reported another sharp advance in prices this morning, and as supplies were not heavy at any point local buyers had to pay logice higher prices for the bulk of their purchases. A few of the first hogs bought by shippers might not have been over like higher, but these sales were excattering, and by the time any appreciable number of hogs bogan to go scaleward the market was at least fix up.

Fackers showed an inglination to hang back right at the start, but before shippers had gone very far packers had started. From this time on competition in anything at all desirable was keen, and in many cases sales showed an advance of as much as 20°. The general market looked fully like to in many instances 20° higher.

Owing to the fact that many of the sales at the low end of the range were not made in time to be quoted yesterday, the average was higher than the market really warrauted. For this reason a comparison of the averages for the two days will not show so much of an advance as can be actually quoted. This happens a great many times when the market is into one day and early the next, or vice SHEEP—Today's receipts of sheep and lambs were almost as large as for Tuesday and Wednesday combined, and were far larger than for any Thursday since the first week of February. A total of filty-five cars, or 12,000 head, showed up, and the supply for the week to date amounts to 36.55 bend. This is 100 smaller than a week ago and a falling off of 14,0% as compared with a year ago but is slightly larger than for the same days two weeks ago.

The trade remained a very draggy affair all through the forenoon, and proceed any what lambs said up to noon being a full 10% libe below yeaterday, and little if any better than Tuesday. A few loads of choice Mexicans reached $11.15, while bulk sold downward from $11.10.
