

DEMS ARE JUGGLING OVER LIQUOR ISSUE

Three Nebraska Candidates for Governor Tell Jacksonians How They Stand on It.

BRYAN PUTS IT UP TO PARTY

Ninety-five democrats, members of the Jacksonian club, got a chance to look over their own gubernatorial ticket last night at the annual banquet of the club held at the Paxton hotel.

Colonel W. F. Stoeker, Charley Bryan and Keith Neville, the democratic candidates for the nomination for governor, spoke. J. W. Woodrough, newly appointed federal judge for Nebraska, and Arthur L. Wakeley, newly appointed judge of the district court of Douglas county, spoke just enough to tell the democrats how good it feels to get plunked on the head by a political plum when one has almost given up hope.

Two of the candidates had the nerve to tell the constituents where they stand on the prohibition fight coming up in the fall. A third lacked the nerve, or else considered it policy not to announce himself.

How They Lined Up.

The two who took a stand were Stoeker and Neville.

The one who triumphed was Charley Bryan. Stoeker started something when he made a suggestion for controlling the liquor traffic in what he thought would be perfect shape, and thus stating off prohibition. Stoeker wanted every bottle and case of liquor stamped and sealed by the state. He wanted the state then to keep an accurate check on where every package, box and bottle went, and where it was finally consumed. That, he held, would be the only way to stave off prohibition.

Deftly R. L. Metcalfe kidded him about this stand, when Metcalfe got an opportunity to make the closing talk. "I only wondered why Mr. Stoeker had not advocated such a plan fifteen or twenty years ago," said Metcalfe. "Then the people might have listened to such a plan. The time has now gone by for the consideration of anything like that."

Neville on Wet Side.

Keith Neville, frankly confessed that he is against prohibition personally, that he will vote against it personally. He declared he is a total abstainer, however. "If I am elected, however," he said, "and if the amendment carries I shall enforce the law to the letter."

Mr. Neville advocated three things prominently, the creation and maintenance of a publicity bureau for the state to exploit its resources to the world; good roads, and the protection of irrigation rights in western Nebraska. He said he had heard Omaha was in a peculiar position of not being able to buy the present electric light plant, nor build a municipal plant. "If that be true," he said, "I have little regard for your resourcefulness. I will say also that if I am elected I will do all I can to help legislation that will make it possible for you."

Wants Party on Record.

Charley Bryan said he did not intend to discuss prohibition, "I believe, however, that the amendment will carry this fall," he said. "The question then is, what is the democratic party going to do? It cannot afford to take a stand in opposition to the law. No party that does not take the human side of this question when it is once adopted, can be expected to be continued in power." Frank Weaver was toastmaster.

Among the republicans who slipped in to hear the speeches were M. J. Greivy and Frank Shotwell.

Zinc-Lined Boxes For Ammunition Are Deemed Superfluous

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 16.—The parliamentary committee on economy, which has been investigating ways and means of saving money in the public service, tells in its latest report how a member of the committee was one day struck by the fact that all the ammunition sent to the front was packed in zinc-lined boxes. The attention of M. Thomas, minister of munitions, was called to the fact, and he suggested that inquiries should be made at the front. If the zinc was superfluous, it would be suppressed.

Two members of the committee accordingly followed a box of cartridges from Vincennes up to the front trenches, but failed to find out where the zinc was necessary. They consulted everybody en route, from generals and colonels down to privates, but without result. At last the general commanding the Fifth army solved the puzzle—the zinc was used, he said, merely because it had been used for the last fifty years.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE SCHEDULED ON FRIDAY

CRETE, Neb., March 16.—(Special Telegram.)—Doane, Bellevue and Cotner will meet Friday night in their annual triangular debate. This year the question is, "Resolved, That the United States should materially and substantially increase its armaments." The Doane affirmative team composed of Nedrow, Delina and Blatter will defend its position against Cotner here in Crete. Bellevue upholds the affirmative against Doane at Helevue. Doane's negative team is Daniel, Hobson and Wert.

The other debate at Cotner will be between Bellevue's negative team and Cotner's affirmative.

Why Colds Are to Be Dreaded.

It is not the cold itself but the serious diseases it so often leads to that makes a common cold by far the most dangerous of any of the minor ailments. The cold prepares your system for the reception and development of the germs of pneumonia, consumption, diphtheria and other serious diseases. The quicker you cure the cold the less the danger. To accomplish this you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most effective. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

ALL QUIET ALONG BORDER OF MEXICO

Movement of Troops Across Line Not Marked by Serious Disturbance of Any Kind.

CENSORSHIP IS AN EXPERIMENT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 16.—Brigadier General Pershing's start into Mexico without opposition from Mexican forces, and apparently without serious disturbance resulting along the border, was the big topic of conversation today at Fort Sam Houston, headquarters of Major General Frederick Funston.

Ever since he began planning the expeditionary movement General Funston has paid close attention to the attitude of General Carranza and his followers. When General Pershing wired yesterday that he had crossed the border and had been joined by the Carranza forces stationed at Palomas, the major general evinced great satisfaction. This was heightened today when early reports indicated that the only violence along the entire border occurred near Kincaid, Tex., where a small detachment of troops guarding the Barredo bridge on the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railway was fired on in the dark about midnight.

Only Five Shots Fired.

First stories of this affair were that at least 100 shots were exchanged between the attackers, said to be Mexican bandits, retired. It was later announced from Fort Brown at Brownsville that not more than five shots were fired none taking effect. For fear that another attack might follow, reinforcement were sent from San Diego.

While the primary purpose of the censorship ordered by General Funston was to mislead Francisco Villa, it is known that it also was in the nature of a military experiment, partly to determine the attitude of the American newspapers and people toward such methods. That it met with objection and, in many cases, was freely endorsed by newspapers, was a surprise to General Funston, who had said when he announced the secrecy plans: "I suppose they will haul me into court for this."

Reason for Delay.

General Funston today voiced his satisfaction that after the public fully understood the situation, there had been no expressions of impatience at the failure of the expeditionary force to make an early start.

It was generally felt in army circles that, in consuming only weeks in preparing for the search after Villa and at the same time for the defense of the border, the southern division had done fast work. There was a shortage of rolling stock in many sections; there was no large force available at any particular point, supplies had to be transported and mounted for the cavalry had to be added.

Pershing Reports Progress.

The first report from Brigadier General Pershing, commanding the expeditionary forces into Mexico, to Major General Funston, stating that all was going well, was received at Fort Sam Houston this morning.

The report dealt with the strength of General Pershing's command, the disposition of the various units and the officers, the distance of the first day's march and the movements of the Carranza troops.

All these matters come under the censorship, however, and were not given out.

Carranza Garrison Leaves Naco.

NOGALES, Ariz., March 16.—Tranquillity prevailed on both sides of the Mexican border in this section today. The first crisis of excitement among the Mexicans at Naco of the American march has passed here. Nogales was heavily patrolled all night by American troops. Fifty men of the Carranza garrison remained today in the Mexican town of Nogales. The others, several hundred, have been withdrawn south over night. They were reported en route eastward along the American border headed for Naco, the Mexican side of the Arizona town of that name.

American train crews have refused to make their runs between Nogales and Hermosillo, Mexico, and Mexican crews have replaced them.

Two School States at Grand Island.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., March 16.—(Special.)—An interesting contest is in prospect for the election of three members to the school board at the coming spring election. A few years ago the Civic league placed several women members in the race as candidates and their ticket was elected. Mrs. Bentley and Mrs. Schuman, who have served on the board and whose terms expire, are not candidates for re-election, and the Civic league is promoting the candidacy of Mrs. Ray and Mrs. James Buck and Dr. McGrath, while the opposing ticket, composed of T. P. Boehm, C. H. Menck and P. H. Colwell, also has been placed in the field.

A large number of votes were cast for Mrs. M. F. Stanley and Mrs. J. H. Grosvenor for members of the school board, but their male opponent beat them by small majorities. The feeling is growing in Aurora that the women of the town should be represented on the school board. It is reported that the Women's club of the city will call a meeting of the patrons of the school and ask them to nominate two women for members of the board.

Grand Island's affirmative consists of Miss Eunice Brown, Renel Finley and Frank Weiland. This group will go to Hastings. The upholders of the negative are T. W. Noel, Milford Kelso and John Geakas.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-sister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get my medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ill, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully, if you wish to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

Scarcity of Labor Anticipated for U. P. Bridge Work

The Union Pacific engineering department is unable to determine just when work upon the reconstruction of the bridge across the Missouri river at this point will begin. While considerable of the material has been ordered, none of it has arrived and no data is available as to when it will be here.

Officials of the Union Pacific anticipate that they are going to have to pay fairly high wages for men to work on the bridge reconstruction. It is said that at this time the supply of expert workmen required on a job of this character is somewhat limited owing to a heavy demand all through the east and south. When it comes to labor, not only the Union Pacific, but all other roads are anticipating a shortage of men during the coming season. It is asserted that times have brightened up materially all over the country and that the number of idle men is now the smallest in years.

April 1 is the date set each year for increasing the number of men on the sections throughout the country, and also the date for starting out the maintenance crew. In years past, local railroad offices had long lists of applicants to draw from both for section and maintenance work, but this year it is different. There are not more than half the usual number of applicants, all of which is taken to mean that laborers are going to be scarce and wages high.
