

CAVALRY CAMP AT COLONIA DUBLAN

Column from Hachita Arrives at Mormon Settlement Adjoining City of Casas Grandes.

GATEWAY TO GALENA REGION

ders to his troop against permitting the occupation of cities. The general offered no comment on what he would do provided the American troops occupied a Mexican city.

Dispatches direct from Mexico and the official announcements from Major General Funston made it evident today that the two American columns, one from Columbus, N. M., under General Pershing, and the other from Hachita, N. M., under Colonel Dodd, had gotten into close communication with each other, and probably had formed an actual junction when a little more than half way on the route to Casas Grandes.

Strategy Becoming Apparent.

Something of the strategy of the dash on Villa's trail also was apparent. The Hachita column made its actual start from San Bernardino ranch, which is in the little square of territory about the size of a large county, where the state of New Mexico extends some forty miles south of the general east and west line of the American border. By using this American territory for the first part of their advance from Hachita, the flying cavalry command of Colonel George Dodd, was able to strike into Mexico at the shortest distance from Casas Grandes, a little more than sixty miles of march. The main column under General Pershing at Columbus, N. M., starting from a point considerably further distant from Casas Grandes, did not go due south, but apparently veered to the westward to get into touch with the cavalry command from Hachita.

Reports here that Pershing's army intended to establish a base at Guzman were discounted in dispatches yesterday that Guzman was still held by Carranza troops and that the American columns were marching about twenty-five miles to the westward. This would put them very close to the route of the cavalry command of Colonel Dodd. Guzman is an important constitutionalist garrison town, about thirty miles directly south of the point where General Pershing entered Mexico, and by going past it to the west no question of occupation was raised.

Wearing dresses, jewelry, trinkets and finery that would seem strangely out of place in 1916, but which were in vogue in the youth of our grandmothers, great-grandmothers, and great-great-grandmothers, and bringing with them heirlooms and priceless family relics of other centuries, fourteen silver-haired old ladies were the guests of honor at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Christy, 2404 Lafayette avenue, Friday at a real "Old Times" party.

The sight of so many old-time things and manners loosened the floodgates of remembrance and for a few precious hours today was forgotten; they lived over again in conversation their yesterday. Ah! here was an old silver spoon owned by some bright-eyed old lady that was old at a wedding anniversary a half century ago. And here a sampler—a thing as strange to the modern debutante as the Ramadan—that, handed down from generation to generation, has existed in three centuries. And, again, a Bible, printed in England when the American revolution was still a timely topic of the day. Very much in evidence were the back-combs, shawls, camoes and whatnot of yesterday. Anyone attempting to compare modern times with the "good old days" would inevitable wand—but not, in most cases, their memories or spirits. The oldest lady at the party was Mrs. M. W. Sears, mother of Judge W. G. Sears. She is 85 years old. And the youngest was—well, the youngest was old enough. The guests of honor at the party were Mrs. Sears, Mrs. E. W. Kennedy, Mrs. Arvilla Foster, Mrs. M. J. Tracy, Mrs. S. M. Moon, Mrs. Mary Moore, Mrs. Joseph Beatty, Mrs. H. J. Sheridan, Mrs. Collins Jordan, Mrs. Lucinda Kerns, Miss Mary Lunn, Mrs. Helen Stearns and Mrs. Sarah Mays. Mrs. Christy, the hostess, whose mother, Mrs. Mayse, was one of the guests of honor, was assisted by Mrs. J. B. Witley, Mrs. D. M. Leaming, Mrs. C. T. Lindley, Mrs. T. W. Wheeler, Miss Flora Sears and Rev. Oliver Keve, pastor of the Walnut Hill Methodist Episcopal church. Miss Sears sang "The Wearing of the Green." The color scheme in decorations, refreshments and the attire of the hostesses was green and white.

Operations Are Performed On Three of Omaha's Officers
An epidemic of illness has swept over the police department in the last few days and three officers are confined to hospitals following operations, while two others are confined to their homes. Officers Johnny Holden and Nels J. Hetland were both operated upon Friday at Lord Lister hospital. Holden was operated on for blood poisoning, while Hetland underwent the knife on account of appendicitis. Officer E. J. Kimball was operation upon at St. Joseph hospital for mastoiditis. John Brady, turnkey at the city jail, is confined to his home with a bad cold, and Sergeant W. R. Wilson is at home suffering from diabetes.

BAN ON CHILDREN TO MOVIES LIFTED

Dr. Connell Declares Scarlet Fever is So Relieved as to Warrant Rescinding of Order.

ONLY TWENTY-EIGHT CASES NOW

Dr. Connell, city health commissioner, has lifted the ban on the admission of children under 12 years of age to theaters and moving picture shows. Dr. Connell, in rescinding the order, explains that the scarlet fever situation has so improved that this precaution is no longer necessary.

Health Commissioner Connell made this statement: "I believe the scarlet fever situation, particularly among children, has been relieved to the extent that I am warranted in rescinding my order relating to children attending motion picture shows and other places of entertainment. There were only twenty-eight cases this week of children of school ages."

SERGEANT RUSSELL DRIVES STOLEN AUTO TO STATION

An automobile owned by John Lof, 2115 Ohio street, was stolen from where it had been left parked at Nineteenth and Cass streets. In less than forty-five minutes after a report of the theft had been made to the police, Sergeant Russell found the car at Twenty-first and Nicholas streets, where the thief had abandoned it. Sergeant Russell, although not an expert "handler" of unruly flyers, drove the machine to the station.
