GALLAGHER, WITH LARGE FAMILY, MOVES AWAY

The population of Omaha was reduced by twelve Tuesday night when J. F. Gallagher, his wife and ten children, left for Philadelphia, where they will reside in the future.
Mr. Gallagher was the local manager of the Crown Cork and Seal company and a few days ago he received notice that he had been transferred to Philadelphia, as manager of the plant there. He left over the Rock Island. The children range from 2 to up to 21 years of age.

TWO SOCIETIES IN OMAHA COME BACK

Audubons and Unitarian Societies Are Revived by Some of the Old Members.

SOCIAL EVENINGS FEATURES

By MELLIFLICTA—March 22.
Two very happy events of the last half year in Omaha have been in the form of resurrections. The two come-backs are the Audubon society and the Unitarian society.

The first of the socialists will be given in vitality by their long sleep—they are stronger and further reaching than in the days of their old activity.
The Unitarian society is going to revive the old-fashioned New England church social, with the added interest of dancing. The social evening is to be a regular feature of the church organization. In addition to the twice-a-month Saturday evenings of the Unitarian Junior club, the church congregation as a whole will meet perhaps once a month.

An attractive booth where home candy is sold will be presided over by Mesdames Bernard Capen, H. D. Lurdey, Frank Johnson and William J. De Winter. The fruit punch bowl will be in charge of Mrs. R. H. Hollister and Miss Eunice Hope.
To be in perfect keeping with the spirit of an old-fashioned church social ice cream and cake will be served after the program is given.

Mr. Faversham Entertained.
Mr. William Faversham, who is appearing at the Boyd in "The Hawk," will be the guest at luncheon this afternoon at the Omaha club of Mr. Edmund Minor Fairfield, president of the club. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Fairfield give a supper at the Fontenelle for Mr. Faversham. Among their guests will be Mr. Earl Gannett.

Misses Luella Carter and Myrtle Hunter and Mrs. L. M. Churchill poured tea from a table decorated with narcissus and daffodils.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single grain and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

LOCAL ARTISTS TO SHOW THEIR WORK

Nine from Nebraska Are Included in the Exhibition Coming Next Week from St. Paul.

TO VOTE TO BUY A PAINTING

Nine Nebraska artists will be represented in the second exhibition of this year which the Omaha Society of Fine Arts brings here. This exhibition, which opens Monday at the public library, comes from the St. Paul institute's annual exhibition of northwestern artists. The art display will remain here two or three weeks, during which time the gallery will be open free to the public each day.

All artists in Nebraska, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana were invited to send their work to St. Paul, when a jury of selection passed upon their work, the jury being composed of well known artists from Chicago and St. Louis.

The work of Augusta Knight of Omaha won honorable mention at St. Paul. Other Omahans who exhibited their work were George Barker, Jr.; A. William Dunbler, Robert F. Gilder, Elizabeth Ferguson and Lillian Ruderford. Sara S. Hayden and Mary Whitehorn of Lincoln and Alice Cleaves of Falls City also have pictures in the exhibit.

Vote for Popular Painting.

Following the practice instituted at the art exhibit at the Fontenelle votes for the most popular painting will be sold at 10 cents. The picture getting the highest number of votes will be purchased, providing enough votes are sold to pay for a picture, otherwise the money will go into a picture fund to be used to buy a picture at the next exhibition. There was not enough income from the sale of votes for "The Discouraged Art Student" or "Her Littlest One" at the last exhibit to purchase either of these paintings, but the money for these votes has gone into the picture fund.
In St. Paul last year a painting by Robert Gilder was purchased through such a popularity contest.

Economic Uncle Sam Sends Out Orders to Save All Old Papers

Now they're going to save all the old paper at the postoffice.
Instructions have been received by Custodian McCune to save all the paper, let not a scrap escape.
The instructions predict that "a tidy sum" will be realized by the government on the sale of this paper.
How much "a tidy sum" is we cannot say. It's just the opposite of the "tainted money" we read about.
The Postoffice department has been saving pieces of string for some time now under instruction from Washington. Probably this has saved "a tidy sum" too, and Uncle Sam is extending his economies.

Some say they wouldn't be surprised to get instructions to save the surplus found about the building. And then the dust that is collected might be pressed into bricks and burned in the furnaces, thus saving another "tidy sum."
Anyhow, don't attempt to carry a scrap of paper out of the building unless it is your own.
It's a serious thing to take government property.

Jardine Declares War to End on Guy Who Invented Hats

City Commissioner Jardine is tired of the subject of hats. He has nothing but unkind words for the man who invented hats.
There's a reason.
One of the irritations of the commissioner's life is to recognize his own hat when it is necessary to make a selection from various hats.
He says a curse of hats hangs over him.

His latest experience occurred on Tuesday. At noonday lunch he unwittingly exchanged hats with a man whose head is several sizes smaller. He did not observe the mistake until a friend called his attention to the undignified manner in which he was wearing his hat.
At a function Tuesday evening he could not find his own hat, so he waited around until everybody else left and then took the lone hat which happened to be waiting a claimant. This hat bore initials, "C. F. R." and was superior to the Jardine hat, which was some consolation.
