BURGESS-NASH PROMISE TREAT TO THEATER-GOERS Employees of the Burgess-Nash company promise the Omaha public a real treat in the theatrical line. Early in December, a definite date not having yet been decided upon, it is going to put on a show at the Boyd theater that will be a hummer. It will be for the benefit of the Burgess-Nash Welfare association, that is, to help the association swell its treasury. The show will be an opera in two parts with an olio. The first part will be in the nature of a minstrel, the name being "The Stranded Minstrel" and "minstrel" as written and staged by A. L. Green, advertising manager of the store will be an attraction that will strike the public's fancy. There will be a number of the latest song hits. The olio will be an interesting feature and the second part will depict a "busy day in a department store" and if this doesn't make you laugh right out loud you have no sense of humor. "Myrna," the "back-of-the-counter" girl; "Myrtle," the cash girl; "Mrs. Hard-to-Please" and "Mrs. Highbrow" will be there in all their glory. A. L. Green, promoter of the play, says "every member assembled to take part in this play is employed in the store—even to the brass band, and we certainly have some talent, too. Several rehearsals have been held at the store and there is much enthusiasm shown."

YOUTH LAUGHS AS DOCTORS SAW

Young Messenger Boy Watches Surgeons Take Out Portion of His Thigh Bone.

SPINAL ANESTHESIA IS USED

While surgeons sawed out a piece of bone from his thigh several inches long, Frank ("Peg") O'Brien, young messenger boy for the Hurry Messenger service on Douglas street, yesterday morning laughed and joked as he watched the operation at St. Joseph's hospital. Several years ago O'Brien lost his leg a few inches above the knee. The surgeons at the time were unable to do a good job on the stump, and as the young fellow pedaled his bike with one foot on his daily rounds afterwards he experienced considerable trouble. So yesterday Dr. T. T. Harris and Dr. H. W. Whiteman took him to the hospital and administered spinal anesthesia, paralyzing him from the hips down, and allowing the work to be done without pain to the patient. By the time the effects of the anesthetic wore off the surgical work was finished. Local surgeons say that spinal anesthesia is a new practice in surgery, but a successful one. Very few cases in Omaha hospitals, however, have required it before.

A total enrollment of at least 250 men is expected. Tomorrow evening and each Monday night during the Bible study season, a supper will precede the class work at the association building. George F. Gilmore, president of the Conservative Savings and Loan association, will conduct a new study group in connection with the Bible work. "Liberty Girls" At Gayety Give Fetching Show

A rattling good male quartet, four fetching Irish melodies, four fancy songs and some other groups of attractive or unusual features are on the new bill at the Gayety. Not to say that Jack Conway and the other principals and the frisky chorus are not pleasing also. The foregoing groups of special entertainment are mentioned merely to indicate that the "Liberty Girls" show has some elements that are different, and that they come not singly, but in bunches. Conway is dispensing the same droll comedy in the unsmiling but laugh-compelling way that made him very popular last season, and the rest of the company is also "there with the goods." It is a treat just to watch Conway's bit of silent comedy work in the second act, which last night's big crowd applauded to the limit. Just because it was such a natural and strikingly funny portrayal of Irish character. Sam Baehen creates the opposite end of the fun—William Petrie, Tom Welch, Jack Kerns and Jerry O'Donnell form the quartet that can hardly furnish enough of its harmony and humor to satisfy the audience. Joa Stern gets many compliments, and Katharine Dickey sings a series of Irish melodies and other songs quite pleasingly. Jennie Ross is a floozy bundle of accentuated activity, who outs more lively capers in a minute than one would expect in an hour. The Flying Sherwoods offer a sensational aerial performance that leaves the crowd breathless between acts.

Neil O'Brien Has Real Minstrel Show At the Brandeis

Those theater-goers who spurn minstrel shows on the theory that no minstrel show ever was assembled that did not contain the same old line of jokes and gags that have been in constant use for a score of years, missed a bet if they neglected to see Neil O'Brien at the Brandeis theater Saturday. For Mr. O'Brien has himself written a skit entitled "Darktown's Braves Fighting the Flames," and it is a scream from start to finish and is notably minus the whiskered gags derided from Joe Miller's joke book. Mr. O'Brien has often been called America's leading minstrel and when he wrote the Darktown sketch he earned the title, that of America's leading writer of minstrel skits. Mr. O'Brien, of course, dominates the show. His inimitable styles scores an instantaneous hit, but his many assistants are able, and add much to the worth of the performance. Eddie Masler, Pete Detsel, Eddie Ross, Laanes White, Charles Strong and a score of others easily demonstrate that they are leaders of minstrelsy.

CHURCHES TAKE ON RENEWED ACTIVITY

Pews Filled and Number Attending Prayer Meetings Greatly Increased Since Sunday Left.

NEW MEMBERS ARE TAKEN IN

Another Sunday of crowded churches, enthusiasm and renewed religious activity was yesterday in Omaha. Beautiful weather for the morning services helped to fill the churches to capacity and in some of them additional chairs had to be brought in. Religious activity didn't stop with the departure of "Billy" Sunday two weeks ago. It only began. Ministers and members alike have entered on an era of work for the church unprecedented in the city and the results are showing both at the Sunday and the week-day services. "We used to have about twenty-five present at our Wednesday evening prayer meetings," said Rev. M. V. Higbee of the North Presbyterian church. "Last Wednesday we had 200 present. The Wednesday before that we had 144."

In this church twelve new members were received yesterday. A new adult Bible class was organized in the Sunday school and two other adult classes showed an increase of 50 per cent in their membership. A campaign has been started to build up the Sunday school membership to 500 by Easter. Rev. F. T. Rouse received sixty new members into the First Congregational church. After they were received each new member stood with an old member and clasped hands while they sang "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Young Men Active. Assistant Pastor Cleveland in this church has organized a class of thirty-one young men who will be active in Christian work. Next Thursday evening they are to lead the services at the Gospel mission. Rev. Titus Lowe received twenty more new members into the First Methodist church yesterday morning. He is holding evangelistic services every Sunday and Wednesday evening as are many other pastors.

At the Central United Presbyterian church, Rev. Hugh B. Speer received forty-eight new members. The church was crowded to the doors. An enthusiastic man's campaign has been started at this church. Rev. A. C. Douglas of the First United Presbyterian church received twenty more new members. Rev. J. A. Maxwell at Calvary Baptist church gave the hand of fellowship to twenty-one new members at the morning service and the evening service he baptized twenty others. The communion service at this church yesterday was the largest in the history of the church. A new class composed of young married couples exclusively was organized.

Nineteen new members joined Plymouth Congregational church at the morning service and the church was crowded. "The offerings were unusually fine," said Rev. F. W. Leavitt, the pastor. "It shows that people were not impoverished by the expense of the Sunday campaign. It just taught them how to give." Twenty were received into the First Christian church by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Cobbe.

A church "social" has been arranged by St. Mark's Lutheran church for both new and old members to be given the evening of November 29 at the church assembly parlors. Rev. O. D. Baily, pastor of Kountze Memorial church, said he had received no new members into the church yet. "We don't do things that way," he said. "If a man wants to join the medical profession he must have instruction. If he wants to join the church he must also have instruction and our instruction extends over a period of five months. Last week I organized my regular catechetical class for the instruction of prospective members in the catechetical and church doctrines. I had 295 persons present to enroll in the class and 121 visitors. This gives a total of 284. Of all this number only seventeen came in as the result of the "Billy" Sunday campaign."

SOME CHICKENS! AT POULTRY SHOW

Fanciers of High-Bred Birds Are Planning Fine Exhibition at Auditorium. TWO THOUSAND TO BE SHOWN

Some chicken? Which one? Why, you can have your choice of two thousand—as Al Jolson says, there'll be "short ones, tall ones, fat ones, small ones," to suit every taste. All this at the annual poultry fanciers' show at the Auditorium, November 24 to 25. The Poultrymen's association has completed arrangements for the show. Present expectations are that over 2,000 birds of the fanciest blood obtainable, will be on display, and it is given out that the show will be the best ever staged in Nebraska. W. E. Baehr, secretary of the association says the show will be interesting to others than just poultry fanciers, and he expects large daily crowds. At the laying of the corner stone, Colonel C. L. Mather, mayor of Benson, introduced the speakers of the day.

More Room Needed Quite Often at the Dresher Bros. Plant

The development of the dry cleaning establishment by Dresher Bros. at 2311-13 Farnam street during the last five years illustrates in a concrete manner Omaha's growth, as well as showing how persevering young men succeed. "Al, Sam, Denton and Charles Dresher began their cleaning establishment on a comparatively modest basis. When their new three-story building west of their present place shall have been completed the investment will represent $150,000. It will be the largest industry of the kind in the west, employing from 100 to 150 people, according to the season. The new gasless supply system was designed with the idea of being efficient and absolutely safe. The tanks are taken underground at the rear and an intricate system of pipes conveys the gasoline to all departments. The tanks hold 4,000 gallons. Al Dresher states the place alone cost $15,000. The new building has a frontage of forty-one feet and has three stories and basement. There will be 35,000 feet of floor space and the work will be divided into eighteen departments, extending from the cleaning of the most delicate gown to an automobile cover. Last week the Dresheres received a lot of draperies from a Kansas City theater for renovating. An Omaha man had a $4,000 rug cleaned during the last few weeks. The Dresheres have added a department where hats for men and women are being made. These brothers started their business career on Farnam street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, in a tailor shop before they embarked in the dry cleaning business. They have built up one of the large industries of the city.

NEW CITY HALL AT BENSON STARTED

Cornerstone Laid Yesterday, with W. O. W. in Charge of the Ceremony.

JEFFERIS AND FRASER TALK

With all the attending ceremony, the corner stone of the new $25,000 city hall for Benson was laid yesterday afternoon. Woodmen of the World camp No. 288 of Benson had charge of the ceremony. The regular Woodmen of the World ceremony for such occasions was used. Council Commander Oliver Rouse of camp No. 288 led the Woodmen in the march to the site. A. W. Jeffers and W. A. Fraser, now-forein commander of the Woodmen of the World, delivered addresses, praising the spirit of the people of Benson in finally voting the bonds for the city hall that has long been needed. The voting of the bonds marks the culmination of a long fight for a city hall. Several times the proposition has been voted upon, and every time the bonds have lost. To a large extent the fight in the past has been made on the location rather than on the question of the city hall itself.

Municipal Gymnasium

The structure now is to be located between Fifty-ninth street and Fifty-ninth street, and between Main and McKinley streets. It is to be two stories, with a basement eighteen feet deep. The basement is to be fitted up for a municipal gymnasium, with marble lining throughout. The building is to be of pressed brick. There is to be room for the fire department equipment, four horses and the offices of the department and a jail on the first floor. The second floor is to be given over to the council chamber, mayor's office and other municipal offices.

A big parade preceded the laying of the corner stone. The First Regiment band of the Woodmen of the World led the parade, which formed at the old city hall, several blocks away from the site of the new one. Following the band came Mayor C. L. Mather of Benson, with the other officers of the municipality and members of the Omaha council and Douglas county commissioners, who were invited guests. Then came the fire department in uniform. Then the Woodmen of the World of Benson camp No. 288, all dressed in full uniform and led by Commander Oliver Rouse. Following these came bodies of Odd Fellows, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Masons and other lodges that joined in the procession and the ceremonies.

At the laying of the corner stone, Colonel C. L. Mather, mayor of Benson, introduced the speakers of the day. Insect Bites and Infection Dangerous. Apply Sloan's Lintiment to any bite, sting or bruise; it kills the poison and heals the wound; only 25c. All druggists. Advertisement.
