

Birthday Yesterday— Lowell Lays Low

C. L. Lowell, special agent for the Illinois Central, was 24 years old yesterday, and because it was the 13th, he retused to work, ride on trains, litneys or street cars, for fear of collecting on his insurance. Lowell last year was enroute through the state on his birthday, also a Pullman car. The birthday occurred on Friday, the 13th, which fact he communicated to the porter. At Lexington the train struck a tramp and mused him up something for life. The porter strolled through the car, looked at Lowell and shook his head, sadly. Near Grand Island another wayfarer of the road was fractured. The train pulled into the station, and the porter came and got Lowell's luggage. "How did you know I was going to get off here?" inquired the special agent. "Ah didn't know whether you was 'a not," replied the porter, Burt Williams-like, "but Ah knowed 'till that one of us two was goin', so Ah thought we might be able to abrogate yesh on the platform bettah. Man yo', an' yo' birthday, an' this coon can't travel no farther. If you come in, sah, I'm goin' out. That all!"

Lowell, having arrived at his destination, picked a pin from the gravel for good luck, and argued no further. Cold Blasts Cause Suffering. Sloan's Liniment will help your aches. Get a 3c bottle now, it penetrates, kills the pain, stops many aches. All drug stores.—Advertisement.

STANDARD STOCKHOLDERS TO HAVE CHRISTMAS GIFT

Stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska will be remembered at Christmas time this year. At a meeting of the board of directors held here on Friday a dividend of 20 per share was declared, this to apply to all stockholders of record of November 30. The steadily increasing demand for gasoline by automobilists is said to have increased the value of these shares materially. One stockholder remarked when he heard the news, "We will be able to do a little brightening in our corners this year at Christmas time."

"Boag" Ribboncraft Exhibit de Luxe

We have secured for a short time the finest display of ribbon novelties in the United States, and are showing them on the main floor of the store this week. No one in Omaha should miss seeing this remarkable exhibit of exquisite hand-made ribbon flowers and novelties.

$1 Our Annual Dollar Silk Sale $1

Almost Two Times as Good Merchandise as Last Year. Our Greatest Sale.

We will not shade or qualify our statement in any way in declaring this the greatest value giving Dollar Silk Sale ever held by this store. Last year we thought we had reached the high water mark, but the silks in this year's sale are, by actual figures, worth almost twice as much as those in last year's sale.

As our customers know this sale includes all broken lots of silks and velvets, regardless of value. The lowest valued goods are worth $1.75 a yard, the highest, $3.95, and the average worth of the entire lot is $2.95 a yard. We will put it up to our customers to judge whether or not this is a full dollar's worth.

Thanksgiving Linen Sale

The linen markets of the world quiver with activity when this great country's Thanksgiving day draws near. Great quantities are produced expressly for the American trade, and they all vie with each other in offering concessions in prices to secure large orders.

The big lots that comprise this special Thanksgiving sale of ours include only high grade, qualities, although the sale prices are about 75 cents on the dollar. It is a good time to buy linens for the entire year.
