

OPEN NEW FIELD OF BUSINESS TO OMAHA

New Burlington Cut-off to Shorten the Distance to the Wyoming Fields.

SOME MOST EXPENSIVE WORK

The Wendover cut-off, a few miles over the Nebraska line and in Wyoming, will be completed early in December, and shortly thereafter the new line, connecting Omaha up with the northwest, will be in operation.

Mr. Holdrege left President Holden in Denver, the latter returning to Chicago by way of Kansas City. Relative to the Wendover cut-off, Mr. Holdrege said:

"The building of nine miles of road, about the most expensive on the system, shortens the line to the northwest considerable and eliminates some heavy grades. The cut-off is constructed along the Platte river canyon, cut out from solid rock a portion of the distance. There are three tunnels bored through the solid rock. Instead of going around the mountains, we have gone through them, but in doing so we have secured an easy grade, and the line will be one of our best for handling freight to and from the northwest. In addition, connecting up with the Powder river line, it opens a vast area of territory to Omaha trade. It puts Omaha in close touch with the Wyoming oil fields and the cattle country."

To Open New Line Soon. Mr. Holdrege is uncertain as to when passenger service will be established over the cut-off, but freight trains will commence operating within the next few days.

Everywhere that Mr. Holdrege went he found excellent crops of all kinds. He noted that Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming raised enormous small grain crops, and that the corn crop of Nebraska is about the largest, if not the largest in the history of the state. On this point Mr. Holdrege said:

"While there is some soft corn, corn caught by the frost, it is all going to be fed to cattle, later will come to market as beef. So there is no loss on this account. The quantity of good marketable corn is enormous.

"All through the cattle feeding country, farmers and feeders are laying their plans now. Many of them are coming to market and taking out loads of feeders, while others are going into the range country and picking up stuff that will make beef. All this stuff is going into the feed lots and later will come out as prime beef."

Gardner Notes the Wonderful Growth of the Gate City

"Omaha looks pretty good to me, and I am greatly pleased to note the substantial growth that is apparent on every hand in the city," said President W. H. Gardner of the Northwestern, after returning from a two hours' automobile ride with Frank Walters, general manager of the same road.

President Gardner, accompanied by his family, is on a trip to the Pacific coast, where he will remain a few weeks. He came in from Chicago on an early morning train and went west over the Union Pacific, his car attached to the Fast Mail. In his hand he carried a copy of The Sunday Morning Bee and called attention to an interview in the paper, one in which Mr. Walters told of the bountiful crop yield in Nebraska and the evidence of prosperity seen along the Northwestern lines west of the river.

Said President Gardner: "Every word of that is true except the statement credited to Mr. Walters, wherein he is quoted as saying that the Northwestern has all the business it can handle. With us that time has not quite yet arrived, and while we are doing a great business, we have the power, the equipment and the road to take care of all the business offered.

"The Northwestern is in the best condition in its history. Our equipment is about as near perfect as it can be and our motive power is abundant. A great deal of money has been spent on the roadbed and from one end to the other of every main line and branch we have put it in condition to give the best of service.

"Our business is very satisfactory and indications are that with the enormous crops and the buying capacity of merchants and consumers, it is going to continue."

Two Carpenters Overcome by Gas

While working in a vacant flat at 2012 Harney, yesterday morning, two carpenters were overcome by gas escaping from a jet in the cellar. The two men overcome were A. M. Latocki, 1947 Atlas street, and William Manley, 2915 Pinksy street.

Latocki was first affected by the gas. Manley, working in the next room, heard him fall and ran to his assistance. He succeeded in opening the windows, which had been closed on account of the cold, and summoned police assistance.

Dr. C. B. Felts responded with a pulmotor, revived Latocki and took him to his home.

Ferocious Buck is to Be Dehorned

Because it killed a doe last week, a fine buck deer at the Riverview park corral will be dehorned.

Alexander Melvin, caretaker of Riverview park, proved to be the man of the hour when Commissioner Hummel asked for a valiant knight who would catch the unruly animal.

The doe has been tied to a tree and must suffer the humiliation of being divested of its antlers, which will mean ostracism from the animal social set at Riverview. Mr. Hummel says a buck deer without antlers is as bad as a fix as a man with a new suit of clothes and nothing to spend.

Grain in Storage Here is Lowest for Many Years

While Omaha grain receipts keep right up to the corresponding period of one year ago, stocks in storage in local elevators continue to decrease from week to week, now having passed the 20,000 bushel mark, the lowest in years. The decrease right now, which is most apparent in oats, it is asserted is mainly due to the enormous export demand. It is asserted that the oats are going to the war zone of Europe. As a result scores of the Omaha grain dealers are anticipating much higher prices for oats before next spring.

Stocks in storage in Omaha elevators of the various kinds of grains, in bushels, at the beginning of this week and on the corresponding date of one year ago are:

	Now	Year Ago
Wheat	22,000	1,122,000
Corn	126,000	22,000
Oats	20,000	2,282,000
Rye	2,000	22,000
Barley	21,000	71,000
Totals	1,544,000	2,053,000

Sues for Damages for Fall from Top Berth of a Pullman

The first petit jury to sit in the Omaha division of the United States court since last spring has reported and before noon a trial jury had been impaneled to try the case of Miss Hazel Solomon against the Pullman company.

Miss Solomon is suing through her father, John J. Solomon, for $25,000 damages because of injuries alleged to have been received when she was traveling from Kansas City to Waco, Tex., August 31, 1914.

The petition states that she called for a step ladder so that she and her sister might descend from their berth. Her sister made the descent safely and then the porter removed the ladder, and when the plaintiff, thinking the ladder was still there, attempted to descend she fell to the floor and was unconscious for half an hour and suffered other injuries which, it is alleged, have rendered her incapable of pursuing her occupation of public singer.

The Solomon sisters have been heard here at the Orpheum. They live at 706 North Thirtieth street.

OLD-TIMERS HAVE SETTLED IT ALL

Question of Preparedness No Longer Need Bother Powers Ruling the Nation.

OTHER PROBLEMS AT REST

"I am for preparedness. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Shutting the garage door after the gasoline jnriskaha has been stolen does not promote digestion. Clamping a quietus on what is going to happen is what I call preparedness," was the comment of the Careful Observer when he met the Oldest Inhabitant.

"Who was the man who said, 'In time of peace prepare for peace?' asked the man who came here in the days of steamboats.

"I think it was Colonel John Maher of Lincoln and Texas who uttered that pacific platitude," replied the sapient one.

"What I want to know is, how would you put a quietus on what is going to happen? That's what I want to know. Don't you believe in the inevitable? Don't you believe that certain events will happen in spite of preparedness and prevention?"

"Of course, there is a factor of certainty in such affairs as taxes, shortage of the ice crop, New Year resolutions, the man who says, 'I told you so,' the woman who declares, 'I have nothing to wear,' the person who sits next to you at the play, and explains the plot, the base churl who grins when you are hurt by a gale, corns that hurt in the day and felines that are hurt in the night, and rainy washdays. I am just suggesting what is in my mind. There are a few other certainties upon which the expectancy of life may be based.

"Proceed, pal; your fol-de-rol interests, but does not excite me. Please pass some more of your propaganda of preparedness."

"You should be chided for your malapertness. I was trying to induct into the recesses of your skull the very ordinary fact that certain human experiences are as fixed as the stars, and that no preparedness can forestall them. Do you get me, Julius? My major premise, however, is that most of our ills, aches, pains, griefs and troubles are due to lack of preparedness. It is as simple as swatting a flea. Human unpreparedness is the besetting sin of the nation. We do not think that the rainy day will come. We forget that the roof leaked the last time it rained."

"You are inclined to believe that to be forewarned is to be forewarned, but I think that you are rather severe in your arraignment of the nation."

"Your hearing is improving."

"I coincide with you to a limited degree, yet I maintain you are something of an idealist. It is all right to be prepared, but you do not account for human fallibility."

"But I contend that the so-called fallibility of human nature can be overcome by preparedness. Votes for preparedness! If preparedness is good for a nation, it is good for the individual. It's good for what ails you. It is the great panacea. Try my panacea of preparedness and you will feel like a new man."

"Then you maintain that preparedness minimizes preparation."

"Just so."

"Well, I guess you are right, as usual."

How You can Have "Naturally Curly" Hair

If you will forewear the curling iron and follow the simple plan here suggested, you will be surprised beyond words to see not only the beautiful curls, but the soft fluffiness and lively lustre, your hair will acquire. The plan—merely to apply to the hair before retiring, a little pure salerine (in liquid form), using a clean tooth brush for the purpose. The most effective way is to divide the hair into strands, moistening each of them separately from root to tip.

The delightful wavy effect in evidence in the morning will suggest to any stranger that your hair is "naturally curly" and if you'll get a few ounces of liquid salerine from your druggist you will have a supply for months. This, by the way, will leave no sticky or greasy trace and cannot harm the hair or scalp in any way. The hair will be quite manageable at all times, no matter how you do it up.—Advertisement.
