FASTEST HOUNDS PURSUE RABBITS

Nineteen Races Between Dogs and Bunnies Mark Opening of Coursing Meet.

MAGNEY UNABLE TO STOP IT

In spite of vigorous protests by the Humane society the opening of the Omaha coursing meet was held Wednesday afternoon at the county fair grounds. Nineteen races between pairs of fleet greyhounds after jackrabbits were run off, amid cheering and considerable bet-ting by the fair sized crowd. About haif the rabbits aurvived the exciting ordeal, the others being killed by the dogs in the course of the racing.

County Attorney George A. Magney attended the opening of the meet, and reiterated his previous statement that the law gave him no grounds for stopping it. He said that statutes prohibiting cruelty to animals applied only to domes-tic beasts, whereas the animals sacrificed in the coursing sport were wild jackrabbits from western Kansas, where they would be poisoned as pests, if not caught for coursing purposes and trained to escape the dogs.

Will Appeal to Legislature. Theodore L. Ringwalt, an officer of the Humane society, who was a leader in protesting against the meet, admitted last night that "the law is so limited we are on thin ice."

"But we will go before the next legislature," he declared, "and will try to get the law changed so it will prevent coursing meets in the future. Coursing is no more humane and just than it would be to turn a pack of hungry wolves loose after a man and give the man only half a chance to get away." Speed and skill shown by the grey-hounds in following their quarry frequently aroused cheers from the specta-Bellevue college freshmen, by defeating tors.
