SAYS MOTHER-IN-LAW WAS PAID $35 TO KEEP AWAY

Ike Hart, charged with disturbing the peace, was arraigned in police court and admitted that he attacked the wife, Mary Hart, when he found her in the company of Jim Bolan, at the Havens hotel. Bolan, with a spirit of chivalry sought to intercede in behalf of his companion and got a bust in the boomer. Mrs. Hart asserted that she was suing her husband for divorce, but Ike volunteered that she wasn't having much success, and until the suit was settled he intended to ward off any trespassing gentleman. "It's a case of too much mother-in-law with us, judge," informed Mr. "She comes to the house and insists on making trouble. She and Mary framed up a deal and made me pay $35 if she would keep away." The judge dismissed the case.

Their families are cold and hungry, but they do not ask alms." Mrs. Ahlquist's telephone number is Colfax 708. Mrs. Ahlquist reports she has investigated the circumstances of four families this week and found distressing conditions due to unemployment of husbands.

PACIFIST NOYES WILL GO TO WAR

English Poet in Omaha Says Great Britain is Justified in Fighting in Present War.

WILL JOIN ARMY IN SPRING

Although famed as a pacifist, and as the author of "The Wine Press," a powerful poem against war, Alfred Noyes, English poet, in Omaha to speak to the Fine Arts and Pailment societies today, is not wholly wholly a man of peace.

"Yes, I am for peace," he said at Hotel Fontenelle this afternoon, "but I am also for justice and humanity. "For instance," he explained, "I am at peace and in favor of peace with everybody in Omaha. But, if I or my wife or friends were unjustly attacked here, or murdered, and nothing but fighting would protect us and settle the difference, then I would fight. It is the same with Great Britain in this war."

Then he made plenty of distinctly British statements, which emphasized the fact that he believed his country to be fully justified in its fight against Germany. Moreover, he is registered for military service, and in the spring, when he returns to England, he will again offer himself as an army recruit.

"Again," he said, "I have done so once already. Yes, he is actually willing to go to war, even if he is a peace poet. Although very modest about his willingness to serve his country in a military way, he takes special pains to avoid being lined up as a "slacker." Nothing like that in his makeup, even though he isn't in the trenches now.

"I could not pass the vision test before when I registered for military service," he explains. "Anyway, I am a married man and single men are being taken for service first."

Professor at Princeton.

Although only 32 years of age, Mr. Noyes is said to be rated as one of the greatest of contemporary English poets. He is exchange professor of literature at Princeton university for the spring term of the present college year and has held the chair before.

In their honor General John L. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Prinz and other leaders in the Fine Arts society gave a luncheon at noon at the Fontenelle. Mr. Noyes spoke to the Fine Arts society at the hotel at 4 o'clock on "Optimism in the Poetry of the Future." This evening he will be guest of honor at a Pailment club dinner at the Fontenelle.

When asked for his opinion upon the teaching of the German language in public schools whenever such is demanded by a specified number of citizens, Mr. Noyes said that "German and Russian and French are very good modern languages for students to learn," but that he saw no good reason for specializing particularly on German.

When told that the present method of teaching literature sometimes seemed to be to chop poetry up into feet and inches, he expressed the opinion that such a method would spoil the natural taste of students for literature.

"American literature is an ideal element for the Americanizing of foreigners in the United States," he declared. "If the works of such American authors as Emerson, Lowell and others are taught to the immigrants who come to this country it will help to make American citizens of them."

Your Sick Child Is Constipated! Look at Tongue

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, bilious or feverish.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sourness gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Put directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.
