THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER. VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietor. BEE BUILDING, FARNAM AND SEVENTEENTH. intered at Omaha postoffice as second-class matter.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

By carrier
per menth. iy and Sunday per menth. per year, to the sunday to the su alt by draft, express or poetal order. Only two stamps received in payment of small as the Fersonal checks, except on Omaha and eastern ange, not accepted.

naha—The Bee Building.
uth Omaha—Sis N street.
uncil Bluffs—it North Main street.
neeln—St Little Building.
teage—901 Hearst Building.
teage—901 Hearst Building.
Louis—805 New Bank of Commerce.
ashington—705 Fourteenth St., N. W.

deress communications relating to news and edi orial matter to Omaha Bee, Editorial Department

MAY CIRCULATION.

53,345

State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, as: Dwight Williams, circulation manager of The Bos Publishing company, being duly sworn, says that the average circulation for the month of May, 1915, was 18,566. DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager, Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before to, this 2d day of June. 1918. ROBERT MUNTER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

Thought for the Day Selected by Mrs. T. B. Norris

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindnesses and small obligations given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart, and securs comfort .- Sir Humphrey Davey.

Greater Omaha day, June 21! Mark it

Whether you side with Wilson or with Bryan, boost for Omaha.

It is all right to "swat the fly." but the vital thing is to abolish the source. Nearly 70,000 autos registered by Nebraska owners. Pretty good proof of progressiveness. That's so, the president did say something once about doing team work or getting off the Colonel Roosevelt made and unmade a prestdent. Colonel Bryan made a president. Will

While there is always room at the top, the iding graduate will arrive faster by beginning near the bottom.

Anyone can catch the gleeful tone of the enator's question, "Well, who's embarrassing the administration now?"

Remarkable, truly remarkable, with what facility the senator's scissors man snips only the newspaper comment most reviling of Mr. Bryan.

The president of the Swiss republic says this is no time to talk peace. Evidently his message is not intended for circulation over

In the meantime, while the city is lawing over the reduction ordinance, consumers in Omaha are paying the old rates for electric light, which the company itself concedes to be

Viewing the progress of the war from the periscope of neutrality, it is clear that while all the armics are going somewhere, they are get-

"Hear me for my cause!" Mr. Bryan pleads, in substance. Many a time and oft the nation heard that plea, calmly weighed it and voted the other way.

The country is progressing. We have advanced far enough to indulge in a political sensation of the first magnitude without Colonel Roosevelt in the spotlight. Some going that,

The Roman wolf has entered the financial 200 over which the British lion presides. The nursery which is said to have preserved Romulus to the world is unequal to the drafts of modern war.

But remember that Omaha's city government has for years been cast on a 200,000 popviation scale, and there is, therefore, no necessity for anlarging or addies to the machinery except, possibly, in a few minor places. .

notice manuel P. Miller out on the bouch of the hear arguments in what is known as the Garfield

Albert Cahn or the firm of Cahn Bros., is bursting

th pride. Daughter arrived Wednesday. The capital of the Omaha National bank has been sed to $500,000 with surplus standing at $250,600. errangements are progressing for an exhibition of cers and fruit at the rink next week. Charles A. tran will have general supervision.

Miss Maria Ryan, daughter of E. L. Ryan of Kan-Mr. Lalk, auditor of the Wabach, and wife, are the ets of Mrs. Lalk's father, J. J. Is C. Jewett. astice Miller was entertained at ten last evening

The fluder of a church compendium and gospel my book lost between Florence and Saratoga school on fe requested to leave it at Gladstone's place on

A bad wind storm swemping down the Missouri val-wrented a number of buildings, among them Lin-nel's new wholesale store at Twith and Jones streets course of seculon

Uphold the President-Debate Afterwards With the full texts of the Wilson note to Germany, and also of the Bryan appeal to the country before us, the path of the patriotic American citizen seems to us perfectly clear-Uphold the president and debate afterwards.

If there is a real issue between the official demand made for reparation for our Lusitania lesses and cessation of submarine attacks on merchant vessels and the principle of arbitration as embodied in our peace treaties, there is everything urgent in maintaining our present rights and nothing to be lost in deferring the academic

We believe that this will be the attitude of the country as a whole—that even those who are firmly committed to the principle of arbitration and disarmament can see no advantage to the cause by forcing it at the critical moment when the president is entitled to have the united support of the American people in his determined effort to maintain peace by the way which he believes most effective.

So let us repeat: Uphold the presidentdebate afterwards.

The American Rejoinder.

The note delivered at Berlin yesterday by Ambassador Gerard, as a rejoinder to Minister von Jagow's representations in connection with submarine warfare, is a simple restatement of the American position. It contains nothing of threat or bluster, nor can its clearly constructed phrases be twisted into expressions of offense. On the contrary, its language is straightforward, its statements are earnest, its references to the position of the imperial German government are respectful, and its whole text is susceptible only of interpretation as plain-dealing on a matter so gravely affecting the relations between two great nations, each jealous of its honor and determined to maintain its dignity and prestige.

The text of the note gives occasion for wonder as to what Mr. Bryan found in it so repugnant to his cherished ideal of peace for all the world. Especially as compared with the previous note which he signed, it does not support his allegations as to its contents, nor warrant the forebodings he seems to harbor as to the future.

Study of the note indicates the president's sele purpose to be insistence on the careful observance of an accepted principle predicated on the requirements of humanity as well as the essence of justice and equity. Its application is the feature that distinguishes modern from barbaric war. Whether it is to be abandoned is the substance of the present protest made by the United States to Germany.

The president's renewal of the proffer of good offices in the task of approaching Great Britain on behalf of Germany proceeds on the assumption of continued American neutrality. It comports with the attitude rigidly maintained from the first by this country, and should greatly strengthen our position in the present diplomatic proceedings.

Fooling with Fate.

Bumptious Mexican officials along the border line are tempting fate by threatening to interfere with the operations of the American Red Cross society in its efforts to provide for the rel'ef of the starving people of Mexico. Apparently blinded by the power they have arbitrarily wielded for so long, these petty pretenders to greatness are pushing their annoyance to the utmost limit. The United States has not attempted to interfere with their political disputes, nor with the antics that have marked their differences, except when they directly affected interests other than those peculiar to Mexico alone. Taking advantage of this policy of noninterference, the quarreling factions have gone to such extremity that conditions in Mexics are no longer tolerable. Even now the leaders are permitted to compose their disputes on such basis as they may, but the United States bas determined that this process shall not be allowed to progress at the risk of further starvation among the destitute people of that country. Relief is to be given, and it will be extremely unwise for any Mexican official to undertake to prevent the furnishing of food to the suffering inhabitants of Mexico.

Pan-American Trade. Senor Octavo Zayas, Cuban delegate to the Pan-American conference, which lately closed its sessions in Washington and started on a tour of some of the larger cities, very plainly touched a vital point in any and all Pan-American trade schemes in an address at St. Louis. "To carry this traffic," said he, "we must have ships, and they must be your ships or ours." The answer to this would seem to be a ship subsidy in some form, and yet we are reminded that a very conatderable traffic has been, and still is being carried on between the South American countries and the United States, and not all of it in foreign vessels.

It would have required more than magic to have provided a fleet of American-owned ships to carry all the traffic suddenly thrust upon the open market as a result of the war. Nor is it at all likely such a fleet will be seen upon the seas within a short time. Conditions in the ocean freight industry are not, nor have they been of late years, favorable to American shipping. Even before the passage of the seaman's bill by the last congress much American capital was invested in vessels of foreign register, because of the greater profits that could be obtained. Democratic efforts to improvise a merchant navy failed because of the inability of the party in its councils to decide on a measure that would even approximately have filled the bill.

Haste will not solve the problem, but proper action under well considered shipping laws may bring about such conditions as will result in South American trade being carried hither in ships owned in the United States. It is not likely, though, that the party that repealed the canal tolls clause favoring our own ships will do much to establish an American merchant marine.

Pathetic beyond words is the demand of an iderly lord that sons of lords who refuse to fight be compelled to work for their country. What General Sherman said about war foreshadows a shock to aristocracy.

Shall Nebraska Segregate Careless Consumptives?

By Dr. E. R. Van der Slice. TO UBERCULOSIS is communicable and is far more widespread than most people know. It kills more than any other disease. Two hundred thousan of it last year in the United States, 1,000 of whom came from Nebraska. Ninety per cent of all tuberculosis comes from pre-existing human cases. It would be possible to wipe out this plague in a few years if proper precautions were exercised and those affected preperly controlled.

Now, the careful consumptive is comparatively safe, but many are careless. These careless ones are responsible for the spread of the disease, for they yield to the whims characteristic of the scourge-they are always on the move, visiting friends or relatives in distant states or seeking health in other climates just the opposite of what is really best for them. They need quiet, rest and sleep, lack of excitement. good food and fresh air, all of which are most readfly obtained at home or, best of all, in a sanitarius where rational life is compelled.

Not long ago, while riding in a Pullman car, a physician noticed that the window above the berth where a consumptive had passed the night was litercoughed up. Later in the day a young couple with two children came into the car and cocupled the same seat. The little one did just what so many children are allowed to do-rubbed its tongue against that coated window.

A few weeks ago a child of II months died from pulmonary tuberculosis. The source was definitely traced to the visit of an aunt who stopped off on her way to Colorado. She was taken in by the kindhearted parents, who gave her the best they knewscreened a porch and nursed her and as a cense quence lost their only child within five months. The other now recalls with indignation that this sister coughed into the bedclothes and sneezed without holding the napkins provided for her use over her

Dr. Lampson tells of a young woman who was found to be the center case in her family, her hus-band, two daughters and son also being affected She could give no history of exposure, as she had never known tuberculosis among her family or her friends. The possibility of house infection was eliminsted by the fact that they were the first and only family to occupy the house. But it was discovere that a year previous to the woman's illness a guest had been entertained for three weeks. This man was sick and coughed badly, raised much sputom, which he discharged into his handkerchief, and dried when saturated over er under the kitchen stove. Within the year the mother began to fall. Her husband began to decline also and the children followed, until all five were badly infected. Though being virtually one of the family for only three weeks, this guest had visited the scourge on his hosts.

In rural districts where it is not uncommon to hire strangers for help and take them into the family, the head of the household should exercise great protective caution. He should inquire of the appl if he has ever had any lung trouble, and notice whether he coughs, is flushed afternoons and whether he is below normal weight. If such a one was to enter the family certain precautions should be imperative. This person should sleep in a separate room, have separate towels and wash basin; also a separate drink-ing cup. He should eat from dishes kept apart and separately washed.

It has been proven by experiment that the dishes of tuberculous people are dangerous. The water in which drinking glasses used by tuberculous people were washed has been injected into guinea pigs with death from tuberculosis resulting.

Our state sanatorium, in common with sanatoria ir most states, witnesses the going back to work of patients who are still in an active stage. They are compelled to hide their true condition as much as possible from their prospective employers. For this gained at the sanatorium not practiced and they continue to be a menace to all associates. Who would employ a man who uses a paper napkin every time he coughs and who expectorates into a sputum box? Such a one would be comparatively safe; but the one who expectorates cuously is the one who spreads the disease. Against the advice of those in authority, one of our men, who was a decidedly active case, left to tend bur in his home city. Another went home to spend his last days in his mother's family of young children. Still another left on a yearly pligrimage across country. Several others have gone into other states to find

How can we minimize the dangers arising from these sick people who are ever on the move? Make it difficult for them to find entertainment or employment outside a sanatorium. The public cons must be developed to the point that legislation for the segregation and detention of careless consumptives shall be demanded. Some states have been aggressive in health matters.

The Maryland law of 1906 and that of a number of other states since have recognized that the indis-criminate coughing and careless disposal of the sputum or other infectious discharges of a tuberculous patient constitutes a menace to the health of his neighbors and family and have provided for the prosecution and punishment of such offenders. The grounds for action against the carcless patient in all these laws, however, are those of nulsance, It was found after some experience, that for practical purposes a law which provides for a court procedure under the laws of nulsance, with a simple fine on conviction, is not adequate to meet the needs of many cases. More drastic legislation giving power to remove and to detain tubercular patients, if desirable, seemed to be needed. One of the first states to act on this demand was New Jersey in 1912. Since then New York, Wis consta and Minnesota have made similar legal provisions and are now segregating their careless consumptives and detaining them until considered safe by the authorities.

Can Nebraska, with her thousands of tuberculou any of whom are careless, afford to do less? Nebraska State Hospital for Tuberculosis.

People and Events

Christopher Columbus "saw America first," but lacked the gumption to stick to it and b

One of the St. Louis papers soberly asks the ques tion; "Is thus a community of Mossbacks." At last accounts St. Louis was still in Missourt. A judge of a taxing court in Missouri told the City club of St. Louis he could demonstrate by an investigation that tax dodgers sequester $100,000,000 worth of property annually. The motion to investigate awaits a second. Doctors, too, have troubles at home. A member of the profession at White Plains, N. Y., defendant in a diverce suit, alleges that his wife shook him ecause he would not tell her his professional confidences. Isn't that awful? A merry ruction is on in St. John's Episcopal church, Philadelphia. Paster Richmond, having been defrocked by Bishop Rhinelander, refused to vacate the church and held on last Sunday, denying the Twenty American beauties, all girls, no boys, are headed for San Prancisco to enter a beauty contest. One is married. If the unattached nineteen escape, the reputation of the "Native Sons" for sequestering good things will have to be revised downward.

The forty-story building reared on the site of the burned Equitable, and covering a block of ground in New York City, will easily house 1800 people. It has three floors below ground. Forty-eight elevators in batteries of eight each, have a capacity for handling

Public Service Commissioner Hayward of New York City is stirring up the corporation animals. He wants to know why the Brooklyn Rapid Transit does not obey the orders of the commission, and has pulled the officers into court on a charge of eriminal negligence. New York is sitting up and wondering what gence. New 1012 will do next the rude Nebraskan will do next WHITTEMORE, Ia., June 10 .- To the Editor of The Bee: A rough sea. Bryan in and strongling. Roosevelt in a boat, throwing him a life preserver on which is printed, "Bully-Delighted."

C. S. HAMMOND.

American History in the School, OMAHA, June 11 .- To the Editor of The Bee: I wish to give my views in regard to making American history an optional study for the students of the Omaha High school. This is a vast mistake. If there is one study that is needed in the Omaha schools, it is the study of American history. The school board considers the study of their own country too hard for the average stu-That is a shame; one young girl of just 17, and not a hard student either, preceived 100 this last examination in American history; she is in the senior class of the Omaha High school, and this can be easily verified. If a young girl of 17 can get 100, surely the boys and girls of 18, 18 and 20, which is the average graduating age this year, have brains enough to get a passing mark of 70. If not, they should not receive a diplor as graduating from the Omaha High

My children are not yet of high school age, but I certainly will have them take American history and shall deem it a disgrace if they do not have brains and patriotism enough to at least obtain a passing mark.

This age is becoming shambling, wishwashy and unpatriotic. What we need on the school board are some strenuous, patriotic men, who will consider the study of their own country one of the most important a student can take.

JOHN Y. NORMANDY French or Spanish in the Schools? TILDEN, Neb., June 11.-To the Editor of The Bee: The study of a second modera language in the public schools has some time been considered a necessity, even though the courses in many cases have been far from practical, for very few become fluent; nevertheless the principle is right, and so far probably German has been taught more than any other language, but the difficulty of the multiple gendered article and adjective, in some forty forms, make it very hard. French may be suggested, but the southwestern quarter of the Union is racially under Spanish atmosphere, and from El Bie de La Granda Del Norte, al Cabo de Hornos, as well as the West Indies not only is Spanish the language, but the next decades of the world's development will be in those realms. Besides the language is the most systematic of the remance idioms, and admitting of but few exceptions, is a tongue of rare beauty and richness, and in its commercial use it will follow English closely.

French and Italian have immens stores of values, but the opening of the South American realm prompts us to "be on speaking terms with our neighbors." for never before have these southern republics shown so much life and kindly feeling for the United States. Therefore, to speak German is an art, and French and Italian accomplishments, but Spanish will be more and more a utility as well as a rare accomplishment.

POLLY GLOT.

Traveling Men's Protest. NEW YORK, June 9.- To the Editor of The Bee: We wish to voice a protest against the pernicious legislation exemplified in the amendment of the Interstate Commerce commission law introduced by Senator Cummins of Iowa and known as the Cummins' amendment, which recently became operative.

This amendment will cost the commercial interests of the United States unnecessary millions without any apparent benefit except that derived by the railroad companies. The bill was rushed through both the senate and the house without debate and on its face indicates the efforts of paid lobbyists rather than intelligent consideration

The burden the law imposes on houses that carry very valuable samples, such as jewelry, furs, etc., is shown in the fact that such houses carry floating insurance, which covers all losses while their travelers are on the road, whether such losses occur while the baggage is in the possession of the railroad companies, hotels or other points during the period when the commercial travelers are engaged in selling merchandise. The insurance which this new law requires will not reduce the insurance already carried on samples by mercantile houses, consequently the tax manifestly is unfair.

It may be estimated that the commercial travelers of the United States, of which there are more than 800,000, contribute fully 60 per cent of the passenger and freight revenue of the raliroads of this country. Commercial travelers are really the advance agents of the railroads and go out to secure orders for freight which is shipped over the railroads and for which the rallroads exact the highest possible rates. The rallroads do not grant any special concessions to commercial travelers on account of the role they play in securing business for them. On the contrary, rallroads are constantly increasing passenger rates when possible as well as excess baggage rates from time to time.

It may not be so visionary to predict that if the heavy expenses of con travelers are added to in the future as they have been in the past the method of selling merchandise will resolve itself into a mail order proposition, with pho-tographs and full descriptions of the articles to be sold to the trade being sent out instead of personal representatives of houses whose expenses are so heavy. Railroads in many instances have not exhibited wisdom in the past and it may be that they will "kill the goose that lave the golden egg." M. E. HEISEL President Associated Commercial Trav-

Nebraska Editors

Editor 8. W. Kelley of the Atkinson Graphic has just finished installing a model K linotrpe machine.

James Eaman, proprietor of the Crete Vidette-Herald, has leased his paper and job plant to F. J. Branaka, formerly of Denison, Is. The transfer was made last man paper published at Norfolk, from its founder, W. M. Ahlman. W. W. Haskell, founder of the Ord Quiz. Is still on the job, the deal for the transfer of the paper to a corporation headed by H. D. Leggett, formerly of the St. Paul Republican, having fallen through. Mr. Haskell, in the meantime, has sold the Ord gue plant and will now devote all his time to his newspaper.

F. C. Ahiman and A. H. Braun have

SMILING LINES.

Are Belle and Barbara blood rela-"Oh, no. It is a purely platonic grouch they have for each other." -Puck.

"Fatty Mack eats like a bird."
"Like a bird? why, he shovels in his food like an elephant."
"Just what I said. Takes a peck at every mouthful."—Baltimore American.

"What do you think of my graduation essay?" asked the young man.
"Fine!" replied his father. "Only I'm afraid a lot of people are going to be bashful about offering plain wages to a man whose intellect is so much above the average."—Washington Star.

Rankin-The editor of a western paper says he is going to adopt the policy of running the society page without adjecives.
Phyle-Impossible! He might as well

try to eliminate the capital I's from the political speeches,—Youngstown Tele-

THE OLD-FASHIONED GARDEN.

Julia Dorn in St. Louis Globe-Democrat

An old-fashioned garden? Yes, my dear, No doubt it is; I was thinking here Only today, as I sat in the sun How fair was the scene that I looked Yet wondered still, with a vague sur-How it might look to other eyes.

the green retreat of the shady hill:
d you scarce can tell as you look within. Where the garden ends, and the woods But here, where we stand, what a blaze of light.
What a wealth of color makes glad the sight!

Here gay sweet peas, like butterflies, Fintter and dance under summer skies. Blue violets here in the shade are set, With a border of sweet mignonette, And here are pansies and columbins, And the burning stars of the cypress Stately hollyhooks, row on row, Golden sunflowers all aglow, Scarlet popples and larkspurs blue, Asters of every shade and hue; And over the wail like a trail of fire The red nasturtium climbs higher higher.

Glacier National Park This Summer Will Attract Thousands

and Pacific Coast tours, is without precedent. For those who tour the Coast this summer, this is the chance to visit Glacier National Park, on the Great Northern Railway; and those who are planning a tour of the Rocky Mountains will never know their magnificence until they have seen Glacier Park—the indescribable climax of the grandeur of

In Glacier the traveler penetrates into localities of hidden mountain lakes and into the depths of forests; he reaches the mysterious sources of cascades, waterfalls and torrents tumbling from melting glaciers. He zig-zags over mountain passes, along Government trails that yield to the beholder such scenic and bizarre vues d'ensemble, embracing canyons and mountain sides of multicolored walls, broad expanses of weird topography, that word-painting or any kind of painting, seems cheap and futile,

This is, too, a delightful vacation land—the longer one is there. the stronger is its grip. There are resources for all tourists—mag-nificent hotels, fascinating chalets and auto tours for conventional travel: camps, guides and outfits, horseback trails, trout fishing, hiking and exploration tours for the unconventional.

The railroad fares and all Park charges are moderate, yet the tone of everything is strictly first class and entirely in keeping with the expectations of traveled people; everybody is attentive to the comfort

Ask for printed matter describing the entire scheme of sidetrips, tours, camping and outing expeditions; study it and decide if you can plan a vacation more enjoyable for the summer of 1915 than a sojourn in this land of silent enchantment. CITY TICKET OFFICE.

Farnam and 16th Sts. Phones D. 1238 and D. 3580.

Circle Tours

New York, Boston and the East

-Via Rock Island Lines-

Choice of Nearly Fifty Different Circle Tours to Choose From Routing includes principal cities, points of interest and popular resorts of the East, allowing optional steamer trips via the Great Lakes, St. Lawrence River and Thousand Islands, Lake Champlain and Hudson River; also sound steamer between Boston, New York and Norfolk, Va., and others. Round Trip Tickets on Sale Daily-

60-Day Limit Detailed information concerning rates and routes on request. J. S. McNALLY, D. P. A., 14th and Farnam, W. O. W. Bldg.

SUMMER EXCURSIONS

TICKETS ON SALE DAILY

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL RAILWAY

ROUND TRIPS FROM OMAHA:

New York City 351.8 Nortolk, Va. 348.8 Portland, Me. 353.0

Tickets on sale via differential lines at somewhat lower rates. Final return limit 60 days, liberal stopover privileges. Reduced rates to many other summer resorts in Canada, New England, New York State, Northern Michigan and the Wisconsin Lake Country, as well as delightful cruises on the Great Lakes and combined rail and water diverse route tours to New York and Boston. For complete information, folders, etc., call on or address

W. E. BOCK, City Passenger Agent, C. M. & St. P. By., 4817 Farnam St., Omaha, Nob. Agents for all steamship lines.