

WOMAN CAPTURES PLUMBING THIEF

Gives Chase Through Business District and Holds Him Despite Threats to Shoot.

HAD PLUMBING ALL TORN OUT

Owing to the plucky work of a little woman, the Omaha police department has confined in the city jail one of a gang of marauders for whom they have been searching for weeks.

Mrs. Ida Steinberg, 2019 California street, chased a full-grown man for six blocks through a busy part of the city, grappled with and held him, despite the fact that he drew a revolver and threatened to shoot.

Mrs. Rose Kubby of the same address owns a vacant house at 321 California street, and yesterday afternoon saw two men prowling about the interior of the building.

Mrs. Steinberg, who is Mrs. Kubby's daughter, went over to investigate and met the pair just as they were leaving the house.

Break and Run. Upon her questioning them, one of the men claimed they were representatives of a real estate agency and had come to put a for rent sign in the window. They broke and ran in different directions, Mrs. Steinberg starting after the spokesman.

After chasing him to Sixteenth street, she caught up and seized him by the back of his shirt. They struggled, and the fellow, whipping out a revolver, threatened to shoot her if she didn't let go.

But Mrs. Steinberg hung on until the driver of a brewery wagon drove to and collared the gent to await the arrival of the police. Investigation at the house from which the two men had been routed, disclosed the fact that every bit of plumbing had been cut out by them.

Gives Name of Cherritt. At police headquarters the captive was booked as Harry Cherritt, 244 Caldwell street. Cherritt, the police assert, is well known to them and has served time in a state institution.

Numerous cases have been reported to the authorities wherein, for the sake of several dollars worth of metal, vandals destroyed plumbing and fixtures in vacant houses of a hundred times more value.

This is the first man that has actually been caught with the goods, and beside being given a thorough grilling as to possible previous jobs, he will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Cherritt was arraigned in police court and bound over to the district court with bonds fixed at $750. Gilbert Dolan, who was later arrested on suspicion of the same charge, is being held for further investigation. Since Friday's affair the report has come to the station that a vacant house at 225 Military avenue has been visited by thieves, who cut out all the plumbing.

Commercial Club Men Plan Outing

Commercial club men are planning an outing for Tuesday at the Field club. For that day they will have the underground run of the club house and grounds. There will be golf, tennis and numerous out-of-door sports, the program starting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and there will be prizes for winners.

In the evening at 7 o'clock there will be a beefsteak dinner. In connection with the dinner there will be music, but no speeches.

MORSE RETURNS FROM THE FLOOD DISTRICT IN KANSAS

Returning from the flooded districts of Kansas, Chief Engineer Morse of the Rock Island, was in the city between trains, enroute to headquarters in Chicago. Mr. Morse had been spending several days in the vicinity of Scandia, Kan., where the Rock Island lost 13,000 feet of track along the Republican river and one bridge more than 1,000 feet in length.

Hagenback-Wallace Show Coming

MISS ZELDA NELSON, THE "CIRCUS BABY" WITH THE CARL HAGENBACK-WALLACE SHOWS AND A FEW OF HER ADMIRERS.

Peanuts and pink lemonade will soon be ripe and the odor of sawdust tantark will permeate the air. The Carl Hagenback-Wallace circus, "gayest, gladdest, grandest, galaxy" in all the wide world, is coming to Omaha for its annual engagement Monday, July 12. This year the big show—in reality there are two shows—will come aboard three special trains, the longest ever used to transport a circus organization.

The country for miles around is all aglow with the noisy circus bills of purple and gold, and on downtown billboards thousands of eyes feast. Father Time is always on the job; scenes come and go, but somehow or another the circus is just the circus—it lives forever. The joys and memories of circus day keeps a steady hold upon the heart-strings of the American people—it is a sort of national institution.

All through the long months of winter agents of the Carl Hagenback-Wallace circus were busy scouring the continents

BUSINESS MEN ARE COMING

Nebraska Association to Hold Its Summer Outing at Carter Lake First Week in August.

MANAGER DOLAN STATES AIMS

The Nebraska Business Men's association has almost completed arrangements for its summer outing at the Carter Lake club grounds during the first week in August. The plan as now arranged includes several features not at first contemplated.

The purpose of the outing is not only to benefit the merchants of Nebraska, but also the buying public as well—to bring about a fair co-operation between them for the prosperity and welfare of the state through the buy at home policy, it is asserted.

"The association will appeal to public opinion, not for sentimental reasons, or personal gain to individuals," says Manager Dolan, "but to promote home trade and industries for the goods of all the people. It aims to promote the business prosperity of the state, to build and prosper its cities and rural communities so that they may be able to maintain themselves without financial difficulties; that they may maintain good schools, good churches, good highways and avoid the unfavorable conditions that are found in the large centers of population where colossal wealth and abject poverty grow up side by side.

"The association will aim to remove from the mind of the public the misimpression regarding markets, prices of goods, cheapness and other business problems that are being discussed to lure the buying public away from the present system of distribution of merchandise. Our present system is the best one that could be devised under individual ownership. Opposition to it which appears in various places under the guise of cheaper goods tends only toward monopoly or socialism.

"We want to unite the energies and influence of the people in favor of home trade which will build up the prosperity of the state, enhance the value of all property and keep the money of the people at home where it is produced so that it may be available at all times when needed for the welfare and prosperity of the people."

Editor of London Daily Mirror Dead

Mr. Kenealy, who was born in Sussex, England, devoted all his life to journalism. He joined the staff of the New York Herald in 1882 and represented that paper on Rear Admiral Peary's first Arctic expedition. He became a member of the New York World staff in 1888 and was its correspondent with the American fleet in the Spanish war.

Mr. Kenealy began newspaper work in London as news editor of the Daily Express in 1901. Three years later he went with the Daily Mirror. Under the non des plume of Montague Vernon Fosnoy he wrote "The Pioneers of Yankee," and he also was author of "The Letters of Alphonse Montan."

OMAHA BOY WINS PHI BETA KAPPA HONORS

Edwin Landale, one of the 1912 Omaha High school class, has in three years completed a four years' course of study at Pomona college, California. He graduated with honors, making unusual high record in mathematics and philosophy. In recognition of his scholarship the faculty selected him to deliver an address at the commencement exercises, and elected him to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, the highest academic honor in the power of the college to bestow. He also passed examinations qualifying him for a scholarship in Harvard university. He is expected to return soon to his home in Omaha.

Stand on Their Heads When Training

The Lucky Sisters, strong-jaw performers, with the Sells-Floto Circus

"You are old, Father William," the young man said. "And your hair is exceedingly white. And yet you endeavor to stand on your head. At your age, do you think it is right?"

All of which brings forth memories of "Alice in Wonderland," the mad hatters and duchesses and mock turtles and dorm-mouses—and the training methods of iron jaw workers.

And iron jaw workers are connected with circuses. Which means that this little yarn concerns the Aerial Luckeys, who are to appear in Omaha Thursday, July 8, with Sells-Floto circus and Buffalo Bill's original wild west. And when the great tents go up at Twenty-first and Paul streets, when the three girls who compose the Luckey troupe swing by their teeth, thirty or forty feet above the ground, just remember Father William and his adventures in "Alice in Wonderland." For like Father William the Luckey sister learned to hang by their teeth by standing on their heads.

Paradoxical? Not a bit of it. The greatest strain of an "iron jaw" act is not, as it would seem, upon the teeth. Instead, it centers upon the muscles of the neck and shoulders. As long as these can remain tense and contracted, the muscles of the jaw remain likewise. But allow the neck and shoulder muscles to relax and the strain becomes too great. Therefore it is that in training an "iron jaw" act, the principal practice is that of standing on one's head. Hours are consumed at this—until finally the "iron jaw" artists can stand on their heads for an hour at a stretch. Then, and only then, are they deemed strong enough to attempt to hang by their teeth. Of course the Luckeys are to appear in the performance here. They also will be in the parade, which will come at 10:30 o'clock circus morning. More than that, that parade will be led by Colonel W. F. Cody, Buffalo Bill, in person. And, of course, there'll be the forty-cloves and the blood-swalling behemoth and Lucia Gore, the "bravest woman in the world," and Captain Ricardo, the "man of a thousand scars," and 100 or so other exciting things, lending zest and zing, spirit and splendorefulness, wonder and wonderousness, massiveness, magnificence, daring and defiance to death and disaster. Gosh ding it! It's no use. There goes that press agent language again. The circus is to exhibit here at Twenty-first and Paul streets. Of course there'll be a parade led by Buffalo Bill himself. The show is to arrive early Thursday morning from Shenandoah.

CHARTER MAN WITH THE LYNCH COMPANY AT BRANDEIS.

SHE HAS THE LEAD IN "THE WILD OLIVE."

POPULAR PERFORMER WHO WILL SHOW IN OMAHA.

Myrtle Sledman At the Hipp

Clara Meyer with M'lle. Martha and Sisters, at the Empress

THE popular Edward Lynch players will present Robert Edison's success, "Where the Trail Divides," at the Brandeis theater for the week beginning tonight, the second of their all summer engagement.

The story is that of a white girl and an Indian boy, survivors of a bloody attack on settlers in Dakota. Brought together, they grow to love each other. The girl has been adopted by a wealthy ranchman. The boy has been given a splendid education. It is the ranchman's wish that they be married at once, as he has not long to live. The first act develops these facts, and shows the quality of the Indian's courage, when he, unarmed, subdues a drunken cowboy who is terrorizing the place. The climax of the act is an easterner's objection to the marriage of the white girl and the Indian. The second act shows the return of the girl from the east after her adopted father's burial. A cousin by his attentions has undermined to some extent her affections for her Indian lover. She stands ready, however, to live up to her promise to the Indian. Preparations are being made for the wedding, when the cousin comes in with a crowd of intoxicated cowboys to stop the ceremony. The Indian tells them that any objection will be fatal. They believe him and the ceremony proceeds. Between the second and third acts of the play the scene shifts to the Indian's home on the prairie. The wife has had no companionship save her husband's and her thoughts. She has grown weary with longing for a life more eventful. The cousin comes back and makes love to her—and she does not say him nay. The Indian finds them as the man announces that she is his by right of capture. The rest of the play is intensely interesting and the ending is in doubt until the last minute.

The play for the third week of the Edward Lynch Players' season at the Brandeis theater beginning Sunday night, July 4, will be "The Third Party," a screaming whirlwind of fun, that enjoyed a long run in New York last season, but which is new to Omaha. A public restaurant in London employs a gentleman chaperon and the complications of the play arise through his place being taken for a time by a well known man about town.

Orban's Cockatoo's head the bill at the popular Empress for the first half of the week. This is as beautiful an act as has ever been presented to the Empress audiences. The birds are well trained, offering an amusing novelty. Wright & Sabboti come well recommended as high class song and dance entertainers, with Browning & Dean, two eccentric black face boys. These boys are well known in this house, and have caused small riots on their previous enagements. Mlle. Martha and sister complete the vaudeville offering with a singing and dancing novelty, entitled, "While the Boys Are Away." A well balanced picture program, including "The Insurrection," a three-part drama, completes the bill.

An intense dramatic sketch, entitled "One Woman's Way," offered by the Emily Stanley & Co., headlines the bill for Thursday. Paddock & Paddock, two versatile boys come, billed as "whirlwind dancers and singers." Hawley & Hawley, billed as "Somehow Different," and Consul Pedro, the marvelous chimpanzee, complete the vaudeville offering. An assortment of photo plays completes the bill for the last half.

For today, Monday and Tuesday, the Hipp theater will show the powerful triple alliance, Betty Nansen, William J. Kelly and Edward Jose in "A Woman's Resurrection," adapted from Tolstoy's unforgettable work, "Resurrection." On Wednesday and Thursday, John Barrymore will be seen in the comedy triumph, "The Dictator." The photo play was produced in Cuba and Central America, in order to give the proper local color. The comedy is constant, breezy, entertaining and well acted by an exceptionally competent company. Mr. Barrymore will be well remembered for his success in the photo play, "Are You a Mason?" "The Wild Olive," from the brilliant pen of Basil King, will be the attraction Friday and Saturday. Myrtle Sledman and Forrest Stanley head a distinguished cast. The massive scenic grandeur assembled in this play represents a stupendbusiness in the scale of modern photo play production which has never been surpassed on the screen.
