Triplets Arrive in Wood Home Just as Fourth Ushered In

Triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. James Wood, 8755 South Eleventh street, fust as midnight cannon and staccato splutter of giant-crackers announced the dawn of another anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

A few minutes before midnight Mr. Wood, who is employed as a teamster by Commissioner Jardine of the department of city streets, called police headquarters and asked for a doctor. Drs. Charles Zimmerer and T. T. Harris were An hour later Dr. Zimmerer returned to headquarters, his face wreathed

"Say, boys!" he exclaimed. "Here's a man who's celebrating the Fourth in 'safe and sane' way!"

Two of the trie of infants are boys and the third is a girl. The mother is reating easily, and Dr. Zimmerman says there is every indication that she will recover and that the children will live.

When Mrs. Wood came into the world herself, thirty-five years ago, she was accompanied by a sister. She is the mother of nine children besides the triplets. Of these, seven are living

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN ORGAN TO ARRIVE FIRST OF YEAR

A new pipe organ without a church in which to put it, will offer a problem to the First Presbyterian congregation the first of next year.

Their new house of worship at the northwest corner of Thirty-fourth and Farnam streets, will still be far from completion January 1, it is thought. Yet one of the finest church organs in this part of the country is contracted for and ordered delivered by that time.

The organ will be the gift of Senator J. H. Millard and Miss Jessie Millard as a memorial to the late Mrs. Miliard. To choose it. Organist Walker of the church was sent to the organ factories by Senater Millard, and the latter has since placed the order for January 1 delivery. Architect George Prinz is pushing the final work on the plans and specifications for the new edifice, and expects to place them with contractors for bids within a few days. After that, as little time as saible will be allowed to pass before construction work begins, and it will be pushed to the limit by Chairman Robert Dempster and his committee on building and plans. # Larmon Family

A picule party that celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the coming to America of P. J. Larmon of Omaha, was held recently on his old farm near Red Oak, Ia., and is interestingly described in the last issue of the Red Oak Sun. Mr. and Mrs. Larmon, who reside at 3020 Davenport street, went over to Red Oak just for the celebration.

With them at the pionio were their Sigurd, now connected with a big business firm at La Salle, Ill., and their daughter, Mrs. George F. Brown, of Chicago, with her husband and baby. F. W. Floodman and Nels J. Anderson of Omaha also attended, and many people of Red Oak and Stanton, Ia., former homes of the family, were also there. Mr. Larmon was born in Sweden and came to America in June, 1866, while still a youth. Although he has made Omaha his home for fifteen years, he still has extensive farming interests in
