MALVERN RACES DRAW WELL

Redwood, Fast Ravenna Gelding, Takes 2:17 Pace from a Very Fast Field.

TRACK RECORD IS BROKEN

MALVERN, Ia., July 12.—(Special Telegram)—The annual three day meet of the Malvern County Agricultural society opened at Malvern today auspiciously this afternoon in spite of the rainy season of the last few weeks with a little the fastest lot of horses that ever stepped on this track. The bad roads and the high waters kept a great part of the crowd away, but those who came saw as pretty an exhibition of fast stopping as was ever seen on a half-mile track. The fast half mile track here is in the pink of condition and every race is well filled.

There were three harness races and two running races this afternoon. In the 2-year-old trot the track record at this place for 2-year-olds was lowered to 2:16 3/4 by Alie Watts of Jonesboro, Ia., who took both heats with Forest Blenheim, a Standardbred horse, in a very close second.

The 2:17 pace of the 2:17 trot was both well filled and fast time was made. In the former John B. of Magnolia, Ark., took the first heat in 2:14 1/4 and was distanced in the third heat, the race being won by Redwood, a sorrel gelding of Ravenna, Neb., who took the second, third and fourth heats in the latter the impress, a bay mare from Pleasanton, Cal., won in three straight heats, making 2:15 1/2.

Mr. Bryan Explains Unnecessary Risks

HERMOSA BEACH, Cal., July 12.—William Jennings Bryan, former secretary of state, who is spending a brief vacation here with his son, issued a statement last night in explanation of what he meant by "unnecessary risks," contained in his statement last Sunday in connection with the last German note. He pointed out that it was a patriotic duty for an American to avoid risks which might involve the country in war. Mr. Bryan has accepted an invitation to speak in Los Angeles Thursday on "The Causeless War." He also promised to speak at Long Beach today. He expects to go to San Diego on Friday.

Mr. Bryan was asked what he meant by "unnecessary risks," as used in his statement in connection with the last German note. He said: "Any traveler takes an unnecessary risk when he goes into the war zone on a battleship ship, knowing that it is subject to attack by submarines. A traveler takes unnecessary risks when he rides on a neutral ship carrying munition. It patriotism requires a man to risk his life for his country when his country is in a war, it would seem to be patriotic for a citizen to avoid risks that might involve his country in war."

BASE BALL IN BAD WAY, SAYS O'NEILL

President of Western League Tells Commercial Club Situation is Most Critical in History.

URGES MORE CO-OPERATION

"Never in the history of base ball has the situation been as critical as it is today. Not only in the Western league, but in every league in the country, including the majors, is this true, and if there is not a marked improvement soon we will find league after league suspending and the Western league will be one of those to throw up the sponge."

This was the substance of a talk by Norris L. O'Neill, president of the Western league, who addressed the Commercial club at noon yesterday.

"Last year was a bad year for base ball, a very bad year," said O'Neill. "Changes of management were necessary in two Western league towns. On the average, attendance this year on the big games have been about 1,000 less than last year. Two of the strongest towns in the league have suffered slumps between 50 and 75 per cent. Wichita and Des Moines are the only two towns which are not almost as bad. Wichita is enjoying all the success of last year, but even that isn't saying much, as last year's business was nothing to brag about. Des Moines is leading the league, but Des Moines is leading the league, and it is only natural that it should draw fairly well. Denver, Omaha, St. Joseph, Lincoln and Sioux City are well along far behind last year, and in every one of these cities last year was one of the poorest in history."

Booster Day Planned.
Mr. O'Neill then spoke of the booster day plan advanced at the league meeting in St. Joseph, Mo., last week. St. Joseph and Sioux City booster day will occur on either August 6 or 7. In Omaha the date will be August 6 and Denver will be the attraction. At St. Joseph O'Neill urged the Commercial club and all other commercial bodies to try and make this one big day, bring out an attendance of 5,000 or 6,000 persons, and thus make it the biggest day of the year in the point of attendance. One day like that would help a great deal in paying players' salaries and expenses.

Can't Stand Strains.
"We must have better attendance," said O'Neill, "or we can't pay salaries. The trouble with us in Class A, we have always thought we were big enough to stand the strain of bad business. In times of less than Class A it has been the policy to admit subscriptions totaling $300 or $500, and this amount has enabled them to tide themselves through the bad spells. Such a move was beneath a Western manager, but this year, with its bad weather and war and other conditions tending to make business bad, has proved that a Class A league is not big enough to stand by itself. That is why we ask you to put a shoulder to the wheel as a matter of civic pride and desirable advertising it gives your city and makes booster day one real booster day all day."

Tom Fairweather, secretary of the Des Moines club, also spoke to the club, explaining how a club only broke even when there were 500 paid admissions.

Business Men Present.
Among the men who were present were Charles Black, who presided; Ike Minor, T. L. Combs, Raymond Young, Randall Brown, Harry Tukey, John L. Kennedy, Edward Baldrige, Charles O. Loback, Bob Manley, Thomas Fairweather of Des Moines, William Hauke and Norris L. O'Neill president of the Western league.

Mr. Fairweather in a talk in which he demonstrated the value of organized baseball to Omaha as an advertising and entertainment asset, declared the Western league had been facing a deficit due to unforeseen and uncontrollable conditions, which threatened bankruptcy unless remedied.

Want One Big Day.
"We are not questioning the loyalty of the fans in Omaha," he said, "because the trouble are not due to any lack of loyalty on their part, and we are not coming here to beg from the business men. We want just this booster day, and I feel and know that when August 6 comes the members of the Commercial club of Omaha will be present when the game is held."

"The occasion is not an Omaha event alone, but it is to be observed in all the eight towns of the Western league. I know that Omaha is not going to allow itself to be overshadowed in loyalty to the home team by the smaller cities of the league."

CORN DIET IS NOT THE BEST FOR HOGS

Dr. A. E. Peters Tells Veterinarians Corn Does Not Give requisite Bone Strength.

VETS FAVOR A "BLUE CROSS" Diet necessary of selecting a diet for farm animals that will supply all the chemical elements necessary to build up a strong, efficient combination of bone and muscle was pointed out by Dr. A. E. Peters before the delegates of the Missouri Valley Veterinary convention at the Hotel Rome Tuesday morning. Interesting figures to show the bone strength of hogs fed on various diets were given. Dr. Peters gathered the figures from experiments made at the state experiment station.

The figures tended to show clearly that a straight corn diet for hogs does not give the requisite bone strength. A partial diet of oil cake, boned meal, or blood meal, will greatly strengthen the bones.

Give Breaking Strength.
The average breaking strength of the bones of hogs fed exclusively on corn the figures showed to be 28 pounds. The average breaking strength of the bones of hogs fed on corn and some oil meal was 31 pounds; of those fed on oil meal and boned meal, it was 43 pounds, and the hogs fed on blood meal it was 47 pounds.

The doctor gave the results also of bone measurements in the animals fed on the various diets. "The thickness of the bone wall was 10 per cent greater," he said, "in those hogs fed on boned meal than in those fed exclusively on corn." He urged that the feeder take care always to feed plenty of phosphorus. "Boned meal and tankage," he said, "may be fed profitably to build up strong bones and a healthy system."

The veterinarians are in favor of the establishment of a "Blue Cross Society" corresponding in the treatment of animals to the Red Cross society in the treatment of humans. This came out in the form of a resolution adopted during the morning session. The resolution says the association is in favor of "the adoption of the 'Blue Cross' or some other emblem significant of the veterinary profession."

The association is also in favor of keeping politics out of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States. "Influences have been brought to bear," said the resolution, "to take this bureau out of the hands of scientifically trained men in the veterinary line, and place it in the hands of politicians. Resolved, that we endorse the vigorous measures being taken to prevent this bureau from falling under the domination of politicians."

Wednesday morning the veterinarians are to have a clinic in the stock yards adjacent to South Omaha where many interesting cases are to be observed and treated.

BROWNING'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

So Decides Coroner's Jury After Doctor and Mrs. Browning Told Their Stories.

HE GOT THE TABLETS MIXED

We, the jury, find that Henry M. Browning came to his death in the city of Omaha by swallowing bichloride of mercury tablets by mistake. We further find that these tablets were taken with no suicidal attempt by the deceased. We further find that they were taken the evening of June 23, and Henry M. Browning died, as the result of their taking, the morning of June 25 at the Nicholas Stern hospital.

After short deliberation on the testimony offered at an inquest, to determine the circumstances surrounding the death of Henry M. Browning, local manager of the R. C. Scott Advertising company, a coroner's jury returned the above verdict.

Dr. A. H. Detweiler was first called to the stand and told how he was summoned to the Browning apartments in the New Hamilton.

"When I got there, the first thing Mr. Browning said to me, was: 'I have made an awful mistake; can't you save me a doctor?'"

"I treated him and later learned that he had been out on the lawn and was passing some breath lozenges back and forth in his hand, when by mistake he mixed them with some bichloride tablets which he had taken from the pocket of his coat opposite the one which had contained the breath drops. He then tossed a number into his mouth and had swallowed several before he realized his error. When I got there he was attempting to rid himself of some that had stuck in his throat. The bichloride and the breath tablets being both of a violet color and of about the same size, the accident was not unusual, considering also that it occurred about 9 o'clock in the evening."

Dr. S. McClenaghan, coroner's physician, and Edna Spodgrass, the Browning maid, were called on briefly.

Wife Testifies.
Mrs. Pearl Dixon Browning, wife of the deceased, then told of what took place the night of the accident. She said: "Miss Cullen and I went to take supper with my husband at the Henshaw and then went to the Brandeis theater. He came home about 8 o'clock with some sandwiches that I had told him to bring and as we wanted to do some shopping he told us to go on, and he would put the baby to bed and meet us later at supper, after he had finished writing some letters at the office."

"We had our supper and when he did not come, we went to the office and not finding him there, phoned to the house. Henry answered and said that the baby had not got out of bed and came to another apartment and after he had found her we would meet us at the theater. When we got to the Brandeis we remembered that Henry had the tickets, so we bought two more next to the ones he had purchased and went in. After a half hour he had not arrived, so we left the theater and went home. As we got off the car we saw him coming toward us across the lawn."

"What have you been drinking?" he said to me. "Here, take some breath mints."

Would Not Take Mints.
"I told him that I had had a cocktail at supper, also that I had some gum and didn't want any mints. He then tossed several pellets into his mouth, but in a moment discovered his mistake. We all three rushed upstairs and Miss Cullen phoned Dr. Detweiler. In the meanwhile I did for him what I could. The bichloride tablets he had bought for me several days before. Later in the evening he thought he would be all right, but I stayed up with him all night, and when he grew worse the next day Mrs. Booth took charge of the case.

"He was conscious pretty near all of the time afterward, and told me that pretty soon he would be better and we would be walking down the street the same as ever. At one time he seemed to give up, but soon rallied and said: 'I almost lost my grip that time—I'll not do it again.' He was determined to get well."

"He always carried breath mints in his pocket and the bichloride tablets were dropped into the other pocket when the bottle in which he bought them became uncocked."

Miss Ruth Adele Cullen, 215 North Thirty-first avenue, Mrs. Browning's friend, confirmed her story, adding nothing new.

The inquest closed with Joseph M. Bangham, secretary of the R. C. Scott Ad company, with headquarters at Trenton, N. J., taking the stand and saying that Mr. Browning had been employed by his firm four or five years. The case was then given to the jury.

Howard Baldrige, representing Mrs. Browning was present, as were representatives of the insurance companies in which Browning had policies. Mr. Browning was insured for $25,000. According to Coroner Crosby the insurance was settled before the inquest started.

Thomas Jefferson "Father of the Declaration of Independence"

THIS noble founder of the Democratic Party immortalized himself by writing our Declaration of Independence—the document which laid the foundations of Free Government, not only for our own beloved land, but for all the world. His countrymen twice elected him President and will always measure his memory. Jefferson was the most ardent advocate of Universal Freedom of his time and it was his wisdom and foresight which brought about the Louisiana Purchase. Every drop of his Virginia blood loved Liberty, and because he wanted Americans to be assured of it for all time he championed with all his might and main the signing of the Constitution of the United States. None of the fathers of the Republic were more far-seeing than he and none knew better than he that a mild brew of barley-malt and hops is truly a temperance drink. Hence, in 1816, he wrote President Madison: "A Captain Miller is about to settle in this country and establish a brewery. I wish to see this beverage become common. Jefferson lived past his 83rd year and all his life he was a moderate user of light wines and barley brews. It is unimaginable that were he alive to-day he would vote otherwise than NO to proposed tyrannous prohibition laws. For 58 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley and hop brews which Jefferson hoped in his day to see the National beverage of Americans. Exactly such a beer is BUDWEISER, its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor have won its way to the top. To-day 7500 people are daily required to meet the public demand. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles."
