

Wife Society

By MELLIFLOIA. Thursday, July 15, 1915.

THESE are busy days at the "Barker Cottage." This is the unpretentious name given to the magnificent Harbor Point home of Miss Katherine Barker, the $30,000,000 heiress, who is to become the bride of Mr. Howard H. Spaulding, Jr., of Chicago on Saturday, July 31.

Miss Barker is well known to Omaha society, having served as bridesmaid at the recent wedding of Miss Marie Stewart of Council Bluffs and Donald McFerron.

This bride-to-be is immersed in the detail of trousseau just now like all other bride elects, and, unlike others, she has imperative demands made on her time by the interests of the huge estate to which she is heir.

Wedding presents are pouring in thick and fast at Barker Cottage these days and the bride-to-be is making accommodations for 400 guests, who will come by special trains for the event, and the hotels of Harbor Point will be weighed in the balance.

Mrs. Donald McFerron, now of Hoopston, Ill., is to be the matron of honor, and several members of the Stewart family will be present.

At Happy Hollow Club.

Miss Gladys Robertson and Miss Ruth Anderson entertained at luncheon today at the Happy Hollow club in honor of Miss Clara Patterson of New York. A large basket of pink snap dragons and Killarney roses was used as the table centerpiece and twenty guests were entertained.

Mrs. E. W. Getten entertained very informally today at luncheon at Happy Hollow club.

Mrs. C. W. Russell gave a pretty appointed luncheon today at the Happy Hollow club, complimentary to her daughters, the Misses Ann and Florence Russell. A large mound of Killarney roses decorated the table and the guests included:

- Misses—Louise White, Irene Carter, Ruth Carter, Evelyn Ladewich, Margaret Rustin, Marjorie McIntosh, Ruth Blakely, Grace Edgworth, Adelaide Funkhouser, Gertrude Albin, Alice Duval, Doris Clarke.
- Misses—Marion Brown, Edith Hamilton, Gertrude Stout, Ruth McCoy, Ruth Fitzgerald, Harriette Barnes, Harriette Livingston, Helen Pearce, Eleanor McGilton, Eleanor Austin, Irene Carter, Marion Cook.

Mrs. Inez Bloom will entertain at luncheon Friday at the Happy Hollow club.

At Seymour Lake Club.

Mrs. C. C. Shiner entertained at a bridge luncheon today at Seymour Lake Country club. Four tables of players were entertained.

Mrs. W. T. Atkins gave a luncheon of seven covers today at the Seymour Lake Country club and Miss Ida Kaley had five guests.

The Centurion club will give a dinner this evening at Seymour Lake Country club. The dinner will be served at 10 o'clock p. m. and will be preceded and followed by dancing.

OBJECTS TO MAN'S RULE; ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Harrison Says Her Husband Has Not Allowed Her Any Liberty or Rights.

ALSO ASKS FOR ALIMONY

Troubles of a pretty wife who holds the modern view of equality of women, married to a man who desires to rule her, are detailed in a divorce petition filed by Mrs. Ella Mach Harrison, in which William O. Harrison, a salesman, is defendant. The home which Mr. and Mrs. Harrison made when they were married five years ago has been wrecked as a result of their quarrels and Mr. Harrison is now living at a hotel, according to his wife's petition. Mrs. Harrison is asking custody of her 2-year-old daughter, Winifred, and permanent alimony of $30 a month. The Harrison residence is at 323 Woolworth avenue.

Truce to Humiliate Her. A stubborn and vicious disposition on the part of Mr. Harrison and repeated acts intended to humiliate her, are alleged by Mrs. Harrison in support of her charge of cruelty.

Since the first day after their marriage, Mrs. Harrison asserts, her husband "has not allowed her any liberty or rights; has never allowed the plaintiff to go visiting or have other privileges, but always has forced her to do things contrary to her will, merely out of contrariness, stubbornness, meanness, viciousness and perverseness."

Mrs. Harrison alleges that she has been a dutiful, obedient and saving wife and has been a good housewife.

Fight Leads Two Into Police Court

Irene Hoffman, color white, got so charged she wished to fight. Nora Mele, darksome hue, same condition, wished no, too. Yet the fray had hardly started when the pair was rudely parted by the famous "man in blue," Copper Curney, brave and true.

To the body each was tossed, and among the siring hosts, faced His Worship, Justice Britt, who, with mercy not a whit, plastered each with one and costs.

COMMISSIONERS LOOK OVER NEW DUMP SITE

The city commissioners yesterday visited four proposed sites for dumping grounds. The locations will not be made public until negotiations now pending have been concluded. It is stated side tracks will be necessary.

Commissioner Jardine, who has taken the lead in this matter, asked the railroad companies for bids on the expense of hauling the refuse of the city to these dumping places. Mr. Jardine has three other places in view.

Recent objections and a law suit against dumping places at Ohio street and near Thirty-first and Cumby streets, have stirred the commissioners to act on this matter.

YOUNG WOMEN LEARN TO PLAY

Examinations Are Conducted by Supervisor English for Play Supervisors.

SOME ARE TO BE NAMED TODAY

Twenty-four young women teaching games to each other afforded considerable interest for a group of boys and girls in Hanson park. Superintendent English of the public recreation department was conducting examinations of applicants for positions as play supervisors.

These demonstrations were part of the examinations. "Are you going to have these kind of games in the park?" asked a little girl, holding a large doll upside down.

The little girl went away and returned with other girls and boys. Finally there was quite a gathering of youngsters.

The Recreation board Friday afternoon will pass upon the appointment of some of these applicants, who will begin their work next Monday morning.

"These supervisors will direct the children in their play activities and will teach them new and interesting games. The youngsters will be divided into groups. If the older folks want to play, they will be cared for, too," explained Mr. English.

The examinations held by the play superintendent included written statements on the theory of play.

S. R. Rush is to Be Suggested for the Federal Judgeship

Friends of Sylvester R. Rush, special agent of the Department of Justice, are planning to present his name as a possible successor of W. H. Munger, federal judge, who is to retire October 1.

Mr. Rush has been for some time past active in government work, having represented the government in many important cases, among them being the case against the real estate firm who sold sections of the Everglades, in Florida, to gullible buyers. He is now engaged in government work in California, where he will remain for some time.

The appointment of district judge is for life, and the position pays a salary of $4,000 a year.

State Suffragists to Talk Convention

The state board of the Nebraska Suffrage association will hold an all-day session today at the Young Women's Christian association. The date and place, together with other plans for the state convention, to be held in the fall, will be the principal matter of business. This will be the last board meeting before the convention.

The constitution committee will meet with the state board this time to discuss revision of the constitution.

Mrs. H. H. Wheeler, Mrs. W. E. Barker, Mrs. T. J. Doyle and Mrs. Herbert Avery of Lincoln will come down to attend the meeting. Local members of the board and constitution committee are Mrs. Draper Smith, state president; Miss Daisy Doane, Mrs. George Copper of South Omaha and Mrs. G. W. Cowell.

Johnson is Now Entirely Identified

When City Commissioner Jardine's clerk announced, "Mr. Johnson wishes to speak with you over the wire," or "Mr. Johnson wishes to see you," those statements mean nothing. They must be amplified.

Yesterday morning the clerk entered the inner office and proclaimed that a man named Johnson was on the wire. Mr. Jardine was busy at the time on important matters.

"Which Johnson is it?" he asked. After a pause the clerk returned and informed, "He says it is the Johnson you used to play poker with."

"Put him up, I must talk to that man," was the reply.

DR. CLARK SAYS MILLER PARK LINKS WILL REMAIN

Z. D. Clark, member of the Recreation board, upon his return from Clear Lake stated that residents near Miller park need not fear lost the links will be abolished.

"I believe the boulevard intersections in this park create an unsafe situation, but I feel sure conditions may be remedied without taking out the links," said Mr. Clark.

PAPPANOPULOS TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY

George Pappanopoulos, convicted of assaulting his sister, Mrs. Ellen Arbanilla, with intent to kill her, was taken to the penitentiary at Lincoln, handcuffed to Paul Stehwinder, a guard. He was accompanied by Larry Flynn, deputy sheriff.

Pappanopoulos was convicted in spite of evidence introduced by the defense that he was suffering from paranoia, a mental disease. He evaded he had received divine inspiration to shoot his sister in a dream.

A recent escape of Basil Bixler, an insane patient, who jumped from the window of a train while being taken to Norfolk, has caused the sheriff's office to increase precautions taken with prisoners. Bixler has been recaptured.

WASHES WINDOWS ON WAY

McKenney, Globe Trotter, Stops Over in Omaha and Puts In a Few Days at Work.

Found! One globe-trotter, who is a working man instead of a moocher. L. E. McKenney has trotted the globe for twenty years, has washed 150,000 windows, has chucked a little money into each and every one of dozens of postal savings banks from coast to coast, and has money in the home bank in Boston.

McKenney is washing windows in Omaha today. He is on his way to San Francisco to see the fair.

"There," said McKenney, when he had finished washing three windows in the office of Dr. Harry A. Foster, "I have made my expenses for all day, and I still have part of the forenoon and all the afternoon ahead of me."

"You don't mean that you live on 15 cents a day?" was asked.

"No, but this is not the first office I have worked in this morning."

At work McKenney is a marvel of speed and agility. Four feet and eleven inches tall, spider-like in build, he popped the windows up, crawled out on the ledge, clung to a nail or tack, polished the windows and when he had occasion to use both hands to change position he slung his mop rag into his teeth and went about his business.

"You never use the strap and belt to secure yourself in climbing out on the ledge, do you?" he was asked.

"Not unless I got over five stories high. I don't mind falling a mere five stories. I had many a spill on the buildings in New York."

Don't Sell Post Cards. "Do I sell post cards? I should say not. I work for my living, and I am seeing the whole world. When I go in to eat I flip out the coin, and they all treat me right."

Post cards? Say, man, I sold a book on the road once and carried post card pictures of myself. I asked an old Dutchman in Pennsylvania to buy one. He said "Val de devil I want dat for" when he looked at my mug. I looked in the glass and then at the picture, and I concluded the old man had sized the situation up right. What the devil would anybody want my picture for? So I have worked a day or two in a town ever since and never carried pictures. Today I make a dollar or two over expenses and tomorrow morning I'll be on the hike toward Denver."

In winter McKenney hikes into a big city, washes windows and tends furnaces for a few days, establishes headquarters in a little room, installs a telephone and soon has two dozen furnaces to tend and a score or more of rooms to sweep and dust every morning.

"I cleaned up $1,800 that way in two years once when I stuck two years in Chicago straight," he said. "Then I went on the hike again, for I don't like to wash the same windows every day; there isn't excitement enough."

"Married? I should say not. No troubles at all. Goodbye."

MRS. CRUMPACKER IS NOW ORGANIZING THE ANTIS

Mrs. J. W. Crumpacker, who represented the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage in Nebraska during the suffrage campaign last fall, is organizing anti-suffragists at Atlantic City this summer, according to word received in Omaha friends. Mrs. Crumpacker was in charge of anti-suffrage headquarters in the Bee building and organized many societies opposed to suffrage throughout the state.

MANY OFFENDERS FACE POLICE JUDGE

Some Grow Facetious and Are Sent to Jail for Various Periods of Time.

Run or other alcoholic beverages, when taken internally in copious quantities, has a tendency, according to scientists and Dr. C. B. Foltz, to intoxicate. Judge Britt was firmly convinced of this discovery when twenty-two followers of the demon were led before him. Here are a few harrowing details brought about by the sinful not heeding B. Sunday's cautionary gospel exhortations.

H. Davis of Des Moines crept weakly to the bar of justice and awaited his turn. "Ah been awful sick lately Judge, and in powerful poor spirits," vouchsafed H. "Powerful poor spirits is right. Ten days," quoth the magistrate.

Next came Julius S. Cooper of the South Side, who was still decidedly cheerful. "Say, Julius, haven't you got anything to do, but smoot the can?" questioned the prosecutor. "Why, yes, sir. I've got some work this morning, if you'll turn me loose," replied Cooper.

"What kind of work," interrogated Judge Britt. "Why, filling the holes I shot in the can," hilariously replied Julius. After many others had passed, E. Q. Brown tripped lightly before the magistrate.

"Why, goodness gracious Judge, I never in all my life touched anything stronger than Peruna," bumbled E. Q. "I had just consumed two chocolate ice cream sodas when the big burly brute arrested me."

"Ice cream sodas," ferociously grieved Britt through his mustache, and hastily dropping a paperweight while he clutched on his hand, discharged Brownie and hastened from the room to get an ice cream soda himself.
