

Bringing Up Father

Judgments

MAHA takes very kindly to the notion of booster day, and the probabilities are that Pa Rourke will entertain quite a large gathering of the folks on the afternoon finally selected to mark that event. The visit of President O'Neill and Colonel Fairweather served to put an emphasis on statements made heretofore, and to bring before some of the leading citizens the necessity for rallying to the support of the team. It is admitted that base ball can not thrive unless it has patronage, and that to some extent it is the duty, as well as the privilege, of the public to furnish this patronage. In return the public has a right to ask that the quality of base ball furnished be worthy of that patronage. The Western league managers have seriously tried to provide this sort of base ball. It is the proud boast of the managers that you find class A ball in towns as small. Keeping the league up to the high standard that is demanded by the public is expensive, and in fairness to the owners, the fans ought to come through with the support that will make it easy to have the very best quality of base ball available to class A. This is what we have had heretofore, and what we will get if the Western is to stick, but it will call for more people than are now passing through the gates if the answer is to be "yes." So, keep "booster" day in mind, but try to do what you can to make every day a booster day, and begin by going out this afternoon.

Frank Gotch says he will not be in position of forcing Stecher or any other man into a match, which is a very proper position for a champion to take. Some of Stecher's friends are suggesting to him that he let the Gotch match ride along as unfinished business until next spring; and this sounds like good advice. The young champion will find plenty of mat work out for him in the meantime, for a lot of willing athletes will risk an encounter with that awful "scissors" grip for the loser's end.

Efforts are being made in the east to revive the running track race game, with very little success. Belmont park has been holding a meeting, but it is hard to make the old-timers of Gotham believe it. An Arkansas judge gave the sport another hard blow a few days ago when he decided the law that was to legalize the sport and revive the stories of the Hot Springs track was invalid. It will be some time before the "sport of kings" reverts from the disrepute into which the sure-thing gamblers brought it.

Followers of the fight game are bemoaning the lack of good heavyweights again. Those fellows never are satisfied. A few months ago they were all in the "white hope" business, and now, just as soon as Jess Willard brings home the bacon, they are screaming because no one has shown up to lick Jess. Can you beat it?

"Ham" Patterson may not be to blame for the row he had with Green, but he will have a hard time to get away from the exhibition he gave the day before, when he conducted himself very much as a rowdy. Empire O'Brien had a tough start in Omaha, but he handled the situation very well.

Chicago is getting stronger than ever for the three-pennant thing, with two teams leading their leagues and the third in second place. It would surely be a great stunt for base ball to have the three big league championships and the championship of the world all located in the one village.

What business is it of Sioux City's if every dollar taken in at the Omaha Speedway on July 5 was stolen? The drivers were paid their winnings and all others who had anything coming got it in cash.

Pa's boys certainly need scolding for losing a game to Wichita, if it was only one-half of a double-header. That Wichita bunch ought not to win a game in a year of steady playing with Omaha.

An enthusiast down in southern Nebraska has deposited $500 in the bank to support his assertion that he can beat any man in Nebraska pitching horse shoes. Why not let it go at that?

Jimmy Gilmore gave it out in Chicago that the Feds are going into New York next summer, and right away came a tale that a peace settlement had been made. It's pretty early for these tales, though.

"Big Ed" Walsh came back for one game, and a million fans will hope he is back for good. But Ed is suffering from something he can't heal. Old Father Time doesn't spare any.

Tabor's new mark for the mile is the record of a grand performance, and will give the runners something to tug at for a while.

You've got to give it to Pa for one thing: He's let a lot of young players show if they had anything this summer.

We had hoped that Topeka would pick another team on which to sharpen its claws, but the hope was in vain.

WITH THE OMAHA AMATEURS

Armours Ask Credit for Winning Unplayed Game of Scheduled Double with A. O. U. W.'s.

DIRECTORS MEET WEDNESDAY

By FRANK QUIGLEY. Although the Armours were scheduled for a pair of wrangles on last Sunday with the Ancient Order of United Workmen team, only one game was played and in the standing the writer only gave the Armours credit for winning one game. The Armours want credit for a forfeit game along with the one they scooped. After the next meeting of the directors of the Greater Omaha league, the standings will be changed or left the same, according to their version of the affair. While most of the managers think the Armours should have the game, nevertheless, they say it is poor sportsmanship to accept donations from a team in unfortunate circumstances. The team only had one pitcher, consequently only one contest could be played. It is nearly a two to one shot that the Armours can trim the Ancient Order of United Workmen if they are ordered to play this game and it would relieve all the grumbling bound to arise in the event this game would win the pennant for the Armours. It wouldn't be a bad idea if all the teams would out the betting and frame game regardless of whether or not the contests were staged on other diamonds besides the municipal fields. Commissioner Hummel made the rule some time ago that no plunging on contests would be tolerated on the diamonds coming under his jurisdiction. If you are incited with the betting fever do your betting outside of the parks. What is the use of betting? Suppose it creates more interest in the game? Don't you play just as hard if you haven't got a cent up? One thing it does do is that it causes many a headache after a game. Many a base baller that couldn't afford to play in the event of a loss would be called a piker. This money in many cases could be better utilized to help pay for the necessities of life.

Directors to Meet. Next Wednesday night at the council chamber of the city hall, the directors will convene for their regular meeting. Several important propositions will be on the bill of fare, consequently it is imperative that all of the directors should be on the job. At the present writing the Omaha Amateur association has a balance in the bank aggregating $100.50. Only a few items have been paid out to date, including a printing bill, bases for Fort Omaha and the $25 fee to be a member of the National association.

Sandlot Gossip. For twenty-four consecutive innings Holland, the kinker for the Luxus, has not been used upon.

Oleason practically led the wrangle for the Storz against Blair when he shipped one for two bags in the tenth.

A large crowd is expected at Athletic park, Council Bluffs, today when the Joe Smiths collide with the Storz.

Now John Denton's energetic, systematic efforts are being rewarded. His gang, the Luxus, are stepping some.

Last week Harry Sage, a local prominent indicator agent, signed the $25 base ball tournament held at Malyer's.

Tom Noone has the nucleus for a good club. Get busy Tommie, tie the hardware to a few cents and tie on some new stuff.

The Andrews and Omaha youth, struck out twenty-three of the Rogers, Nebraska, team for Schuyler and allowed only two hits.

Holaki, formerly with Omaha, is holding down sack two in a faultless manner for the Armours. His timely swats help some.

Millard Durkee started the season with the Midland Glass and Paint Co. squad and for some unknown reason he is unbacked.

McQuade, the initial caver for Kobouts Gots, is smashing the pill rather hard. He shipped three on the coxco, last Sunday.

Westly Baker figured in a fourteen inning contest with Bennington against Omaha. Baker's tribe copped the bacon, score, 2 to 1.

Frankie Woodruff, formerly a star in the Blue league, is now in the hot spot in the shortstop position in a faultless manner for the Storz.

Guess Graham, cracker of the Storz, is another cracking the pill. Last Sunday he secured three safe swats out of four trips to the platter.

READY FOR STATE TENNIS

Jumbo Stehm Making Arrangements for the Tournay—One Woman to Play.

FOOT BALLISTS ARE ACTIVE

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE. LINCOLN, July 17.—(Special).—Less than a week remains for entries in the Nebraska state tennis tournament to be held in Lincoln the last week in July at the Country club courts. Coach Jumbo Stehm, who is making arrangements for the tournament, expects that over 100 tennis players will compete for the championship trophies in the singles and doubles. The last week has brought the entries in the singles up to thirty-three players, while fifteen teams are entered in the doubles. Entries will close Saturday night. The champions of last year's tournament have waived the usual rule of taking part in only the final games but will enter in the preliminaries and fight their way to the top. Louise Pound, the University of Nebraska star is the only woman entered in the tournament so far. Miss Pound has been playing the best game she has ever played and has been carrying away prizes in all tournaments she has entered. Entry List. The list of entries follows: SINGLES. Lincoln—W. J. Wohlberg, Arthur Hill, E. D. Stehm, Sam Wauflit, Harry H. Ellis, Guy Reed, Ray Craner, J. N. Tate, Charles F. Schwartz, Louis Pound, Rev. C. R. Tyler, Max Beightol, G. B. Lee, F. A. Kormeyer, G. G. Alexander, Philip Watkins, Harold Magee and Fred Humphrey. Omaha—Harry Koch, A. C. Potter and Russell Larson. Arapahoe—Charles A. Patterson, C. V. Helmann, G. C. Prom, R. F. Emmett. North Bend—Ralph Weavering, Harry C. Crete—Rev. John Calvert. Wayne—John Ahern. Beaver City—C. A. Davis. DOUBLES. Lincoln—E. D. Stehm, Sam Wauflit, Harry H. Ellis, Guy Reed, Ray Craner, J. N. Tate, Charles F. Schwartz, Louis Pound, Rev. C. R. Tyler, Max Beightol, G. B. Lee, F. A. Kormeyer, G. G. Alexander, Philip Watkins, Harold Magee and Fred Humphrey. Omaha—Harry Koch, A. C. Potter and Russell Larson. Arapahoe—Charles A. Patterson, C. V. Helmann, G. C. Prom, R. F. Emmett. North Bend—Ralph Weavering, Harry C. Crete—Rev. John Calvert. Wayne—John Ahern. Beaver City—C. A. Davis. FOOT BALL MEN ACTIVE. Coach Stehm had a letter from Captain Dick Rutherford of the 1915 Cornhusker foot ball team. Rutherford is on the coast, where he joined the life saving crew at Long Beach. The Nebraska captain says he is in perfect condition and ready to start in practice without delay. Stehm has also received a number of other letters from foot ball men indicating the entire squad is keeping in shape during the summer so that no time will be lost early in the fall in conditioning.

Women's Styles

Affect Sales in South Africa

Muddy in all quarters of the civilized globe having given up the gay and festive ostrich feather as an article of adornment, has resulted in a decrease in motor car sales in South Africa, according to H. W. Allkin, Cape Town automobile man, who has spent the last week at the Detroit plant of Dodge Brothers. "The change in women's styles relegating the ostrich feather to the background, is not a new one in our experience," says Mr. Allkin. "Nevertheless it is none the less keenly felt at the present time. When I left Cape Town, many ostrich farmers were killing their surplus supply of birds for the flesh. "When you consider that close to 50,000 people derive their living from the ostrich feather industry, you can realize that the automobile business feels the present depression as keenly as any. Ten or fifteen years back, when ostrich feathers had again been declared passe, South African farmers passed through exactly the same experience. But ostrich farmers regained their popularity within a short time, and we are confident that auto sales will again raise her vigorous head in a few months."

Auto Top Business in Omaha Growing

J. M. Naylon of the Western Auto Top company, who is one of the new generation of Omaha business men, feels very enthusiastic regarding his business outlook and has an extremely warm spot in his heart for this territory, even though he is a native of the south. Mr. Naylon says he came here with the idea of first advertising what he would do and then doing it, and believes that any business conducted along these lines will succeed. Evidently he is right in regard to his own particular business at least. Augustus Signs Pitcher. Augustus has signed Pitcher Conningham, late of Mobile of the Southern league.

WARNS MEN WHO USE LIQUOR

The Chicago Tribune, Editorially, Says: A man cannot expect to seek his constitution in alcohol, to rob his physique by liquor, and have healthy children. It is the children of intoxicated parents that supply the quota of criminals and murderers. A few days spent taking the Neal Treatment in the privacy of home, hotel, club or institute will eliminate the virulent poison from the system, create a longing for liquor or drugs and soon restore natural appetite, good and normal mental and physical conditions. For full information call or address the head Neal Institute, No. 1925 So. 10th St., Omaha, Neb.

Studebaker Will Retain Leather in Spite of Market

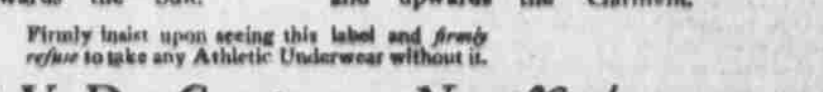

Conditions in the leather market, whether due to a scarcity of hides or manipulation did not deter Studebaker from specifying the retention of leather upholstery for the new models recently announced. The automobile industry is the natural outgrowth of carriage building, in which Studebaker is a pioneer. Sixty-three years of manufacturing experience has not been without its lessons, and one learned by this concern has been that for seat cushions there is nothing superior to, or the equal of leather for long wear upholstery and services. Abundance of production is held a cardinal principle with Studebaker.

GOOD YEAR FACTORY MEN ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

A. F. Osterlo, assistant secretary, and H. F. Ziegler, Chicago, district manager of the Goodyear Rubber company, spent Wednesday in Omaha inspecting the Omaha branch. The Omaha branch, according to Mr. Osterlo, is making an excellent showing, and the Goodyear people feel a close interest in Omaha affairs. Indications of a banner year are strong throughout the country, and J. M. Line, Omaha branch manager, is confident that Omaha will put a big mark on the Goodyear sales chart.
