GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Active Demand for New Wheat Puts Price Up One to Two and a Half Cents.

OLD WHEAT TEN CENTS HIGHER

OMAHA, July 26, 1915.

There was an active demand for new wheat today and the market sold le to 2½c higher. Old wheat remained unchanged, but sold about lie higher per bushel than that of the new crop.

There was a good supply of corn on the floor and although there was a pretty fair demand the market declined ½G ½c.
Oats were a triffe weak and sold ½g ½c.
Ower. Reccipts of this cereal were light and there was only a fair demand.

Hains were reported in the Nebraska wheat belt and it will probably cause some delay in hauling the grain to the country elevators. weather unfavorable for harvesting has been reported by the importing countries and it is thought that they will have to look to North America for their pates. Tearances: Wheat and floor equal to 300 bu, corn, 148,000 bu, and oats, 782.000 bu. corn. 148.000 bu., and oats. 474.000 bu.

Liverprol closed with wheat %672d higher and corn unchanged to 54d up. Frimary wheat receipts were 1.87.000 bu. and abipments of 573.000 bc., against receipts of 3.87.000 bu. and shipments of 1.712.000 bu. hist year.

Primary corn receipts were 585.000 bu. and shipments of 605.000 bu. against receipts of 735.000 bu. and shipments of 605.000 bu. against receipts of 735.000 bu. and shipments of 605.000 bu. arainst receipts of 850.000 bu. and shipments of 681.000 bu. last year.

Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO. July &—Wheat prices turned decidely weak today, owing to big receipts here and because of the sinking of the Leelanaw. Quotations closed, unsettled at 2½ to 2½c net decline. Other leading stanles, too, all showed losses—corn, 2½c to 2½c, oats, ½07½c to 2½c, and provisions, 25c to 75c.

Breaks in the value of wheat did not begin until after the market had scored a moderate advance, the result of rainy weather, light world shipments and the kannouncement that the Italian government had determined to buy large quantities of wheat abroad. It was expected by many traders that the rainy weather, especially in Illinois, would make deliveries on July contracts more difficult. A different prospect, however, suddenly developed when estimates were posted indicating that the day's arrivals of new wheat would prove for more worked. Prices on Board of Trade.

developed when estimates were posted indicating that the day's arrivals of new wheat would prove far more liberal than had been looked for. The actual total inspected was 643 carloads, as against 315 cars on Saturday.

News that the Leclanaw had been torpedoed gave the wheat market fresh impetus down grade, but the effect did not exceed the limits frequently reached in consequence of inclement weather and crop developments. Nevertheless, no important rathy ensued, despite word from the seaboard that 60,000 bushels had been disposed of there for export.

Declines in the corn market came about chiefly through sympathy with wheat. Country offerings, though, were fair and eastern demand less active.

In the oats crowd the call from shorts was soon satisfied. Something of a collapse in prices then took piace, owing to the heaviness of other cereals.

Stop loss selling carried down pork to the lowest level since 1908. Lard and ribs were also under pressure, but not to such a notable degree. The setbacks were ascribed largely to the weaknesses of grain and hogs and to the sinking of the Leclanaw.

Shipping hogs sold freely at above steady prices this morning. Range of shipper prices landed at $8,5007.50, the latter price being the day's top and as high as anything has sold for several days. Considering the size of the supply shipper purchases could be considered as fairly liberal.

Packer thade opened out slow and lower prices were practically a certainty from the outset. Sollers hung on for a while in an effort to bolster values up a little, but when the bulk of the offerings finally started to move, it was at figures that were all of 5620c lower, and some sellers thought fully a dime off. Trade was very dull throughout and the close was, it anything, a little easier, most of the late sales locking a flat dime lower. There were still a few loads left in first hands at a lase hour.

Most of the packer hose moved at $5.50 (16.90, with a few of the most desirable bunches over this figure, and a scattering of packing sows down to $8.40. Shippers were badly scattered, a bunch or two solling as high as $1.50, the days top. Prices paid for roll loads showed a spread of $1.10 today, ranging from $6.40. From the farmhouse the trail led to a building in the course of construction.

There the dog rushed to a pile of pipe, and from one pisce they found a length had been cut. That was where the murderer had got his bludgeon. Again murderer had got his bludgeon. Again the dos took up the trail, and finally came upon a deserted shack. Here he led the searchers upstair, where they found an old mattress with bloodstains pon it. Evidently they were on the right track.

The dog again struck out across country, and toward evening the party came upon a group of men talking by the roadside. The dog suddenly leaped upon one of them and pinned him to the earth. This fellow was arrested, put in jail, and ultimately confessed that he and a colored man had committed the murder New York World.

Canine Detectives Make No Mintakes and Fear Neither Man Nor Devil.

Out in Montclair, N. J., Louis de Winter trains German shepherd dogs for the police. He imports the animals from Germany when they are pupples, and carefully accustoms them to their work. When he is through with them he has made a sleuth more unerring than Sherlock Holines or Dupin, and afraid of neither man nor devil.

The scent of these dogs is marvelous. A bloodhound is a clumsy amateur compared to them. The writer, wishing to test one of De Winter's dogs, took a handkerchief from his pocket, walked a distance of about four blocks across the fields, and hid the handkerchief under a sout of sight. Meanwhile, De Wniter held one of the doks, a sleek, black fellow, Reis von Boron by name, behind a hurdle where he could not see what direction had been traversed. Then, at a nod from De Winter the dog was off
