Plum Gatherers in No Rush to Taks Jobs Now They've Got 'Em

That "great bodies move slowly" is being demonstrated in the federal building, where four of the offices are to be turned over to new job holders. Two of the four have been in to have a look at the layout. But there's no hurry, they say.

Marshal Warner is expected to return from his summer retreat in Minnesota shortly, and when he comes a date will be determined on which the office will be turned over to his successor. After that date is set the office force will start on a burst of speed making a complete detailed statement of all the activities of the department from the end of the last fiscal year to the time of the turning over of the office to Mr. Flynn.

Similar procedure will be followed in the other offices. Cadet Taylor thinks he will probably hand over his mantle to Plum Gatherer in about August 15. Still, it is pointed out, if the lucky ones have spent over two years in shaking the tree before ever a plum fell, what is a month or so to get them all into the baskets?

Omahans Seldom Join the Army at the Local Station

"By far the majority of men who enlist in the army at this station are men who do not live here," said Sergeant Hanson of the local recruiting office.

"When a man is at home, even though he is out of work and can't get a job, he has a good place to sleep and eat. It is all right to eat, and he doesn't think of enlisting."

"It is when a man is far from home and friends and out of work that he turns his attention naturally to the army, which always has employment, good food and board and steady pay for alcohol-bodied men."

The sergeant then showed the list of accepted recruits for the last two days. They are these:

Earl Snyder, New York City, a machinist, who went into the coast artillery.

John P. Auwerter, Vall, S. D., a farmer, who went into the infantry.

Norman E. Aspeck, Edna, Tex., a former cowboy, who joined the cavalry.

Otto A. Hathke, 224 Ruzgles street, Omaha, who also went into the cavalry. The latter is a minor and got his parents' consent.

Logan Couple Gets Thirty Days, With Sentence Suspended

John Morris and Nina Wolverson of Logan, Ia., were given a suspended sentence of thirty days each as a result of their little love affair of Thursday. They came to Omaha from Logan, and were followed by Louis Wolverson, husband of the woman. He found them together in the Lange hotel, and swore out a warrant for their arrest, but refused to appear against his wife when it was suggested that the government would prosecute them under the Mann act. The government then refused to prosecute the man without including the woman in the charge, so Judge Britt gave them each thirty days as vagrants and suspended the sentence, telling them to clear out for Iowa.

The foraging husband took wife under his protecting wing, and the two went back to Logan. The police kept Morris until the couple was safely out of town.

EASTERN SHRINERS ARE RETURNING FROM COAST

Four special trains filled with Shriners returning from the Shriner convention at Seattle passed through Omaha today. One special via the Union Pacific-Northwestern carried about 100 members of the Medinah temple, Order of the Mystical Shrine, on route home to Pittsburgh. One special over the Union Pacific brought members of Lulu temple, Philadelphia, and two special over the Burlington carried other members of Lulu temple, there being 41 members on the trip.

BUY LEMONS AT LOW PRICE

Cool Weather Brings Joy to Those Who Like to Drink Lemonade.

ALL FRUIT AT REASONABLE COST

Those who like their lemonade have been happy for the last few weeks. Why? Because the weather was so cool, that those who are just moderately fond of lemonade did not buy lemons. The result was that the supply more than met the demand and lemons were exceptionally cheap.

No less than a wagon load of nice lemons on display in a showcase on the sixteenth street side of Hayden Brothers a few days ago were selling for 10 cents a dozen. They can still be had at a time a dozen.

Lemons that cost $3 a box at this time last year are now selling for $2 to $3.30. By the dozen, lemons, according to grade, are selling all the way from 10 cents a dozen to 25 cents.

Arkansas peaches have been going nicely and are becoming more scarce. The Arkansas Elbertas have been selling at $1.50 a crate. The California, Oregon and Idaho peaches are yet to come, but will soon be on the market. Following these the northern peaches are yet to come.

Diamond blue plums of especially choice grade are selling at 40 cents a basket. The Burbanks are still at a quarter a basket.

Cantaloupes are still abundant at from 5 cents to 7 1/2 cents apiece. Blackberries can be had at 7 1/2 cents a pint or 10 cents a quart.

Butter Cheaper. Butter is 2 cents off. The best creamery can be had at 20 cents in bulk or 25 cents in cartons. Sugar is steady and flour is somewhat stronger. Flour has gone up 15 cents a sack.

Potatoes are 20, 25 and 30 cents a peck. They jumped from 25 cents a bushel to 50 cents, which jump is attributed largely to the extreme wet weather, which makes digging of potatoes almost impossible. A few days of drying weather, however, are expected to bring potatoes down, as dealers say the crop is abundant.

Cabbage is 1 cent a pound, which is about as cheap as it ever gets. Denver peas and cauliflower are on the market. The peas are 7 1/2 cents a quart, and the cauliflower 10 cents a pound.

Celery is here from Kalamazoo, Mich., and green peppers are here from the south.

Beef Roasts Down.

Beef roasts are now a dime a pound. This is attributed to the lack of demand for them at this time of year, when steaks are in greater demand. Rib boiling beef is 8 1/2 cents a pound. Lamb is $2 a hundred cheaper than a week ago. Pork is $1 a hundred higher. Hams are reasonable, but something of a shortage is looked for. Spring chickens are 25 cents a pound, whereas a week ago they brought 25 cents.
