

GERMANY'S SEA POLICY IS SUCCESS

Germany's Naval Expert Reviews Achievements of Kaiser's Submarines First Year of War.

FABIAN TACTICS NECESSARY

BERLIN, July 31.—Although the main German and British fleets have not been matched in battle, the ending of the first year of the war finds that Germany has distinguished herself at sea, says Captain I. Persius in a naval review prepared for the Associated Press. Captain Persius, formerly an officer of the German navy, is a recognized authority on German naval affairs and is naval expert of the Berliner Tageblatt. He states that Germany's policy has been to attempt to weaken her chief opponent at sea by using submarines and mines, to a point where there will be some prospect of success of an attack on the main British fleet. His review follows:

"The German fleet may boast that the offensive spirit it has displayed has constituted the most prominent and decisive feature of all the naval war theaters. War was declared against Russia on August 1, and on August 2 the cruiser Augsburg bombarded the Russian port of Libau. The declaration of war against France was issued August 3, and on the following day the cruisers Goeben and Breslau shelled the troop embarkation points of Phillippeville and Bona, on the North African coast. Finally England declared war on August 4 and on the 5th the minelayer Koening laid mines at the mouth of the Thames, one of which destroyed the cruiser Amphion.

"A year ago a coalition with a powerful numerical superiority declared war on Austria-Hungary and Germany. The hostile countries have a far larger population than have the two central powers, and their combined armies originally outnumbered those of the latter. The central states, however, have known how to improve this difficult situation by alternately taking the offensive and defensive on the western and eastern fronts.

"In the west the German armies in a rapid, triumphant advance carried their standards within fifty miles of Paris and have kept them flying there since mid-September. Even though the right and left wings of our wide-flung battle front in France and Belgium have been bent back since then (because there was no other method for the time being of counteracting the numerical superiority of the British, French and Belgians) still we hold the positions fortified during the nine months firmly in our hands, so that almost all of Belgium and the north-eastern departments of France have been occupied by the troops of Germany.

"In the east the Austro-German armies first held up the Russian millions on the Galician frontiers and then were forced to retire before a manifold numerical superiority, to entrench themselves on the crest of the Carpathians and to beat back until May 1 the Russian assaults with heavy losses. Meanwhile Field Marshal von Hindenburg in East Prussia was able to destroy several large Russian armies and free East Prussia; Poland almost to the Vistula river and in the northeast to carry the war into the Russian provinces.

"While the positions in the war in the west continue to surge to and fro and three great attempts made to break through our lines in the winter, spring and summer, were repulsed with awful losses to our enemies, the German and Austro-Hungarian armies on May 1 launched an offensive against the Russian main armies in Galicia.

"In a series of battles and under constant pursuit the Russians were hunted out of 4,600 square miles of Galicia, their principal force was severed at several places and they were driven eastward and northward.

"The west bank of the Vistula in Poland has been cleared of Russian armies. The siege of Warsaw is about to begin and Field Marshal von Hindenburg in the northward has pressed forward against Riga and now has reached the vicinity of the city after numerous victories. The successes of the Germans have cost the Russian army many millions in dead, wounded and prisoners. The Russian empire possesses only fragments of its mighty armies and no longer can supply these adequately with arms and munitions. Their fate will be decided very shortly. The Russian forces will be destroyed or forced to flee deep into the interior to the eastward.

"The battles in the west have cut so deeply into the French strength that now 15-year-old boys must bear arms. Great Britain's original army has been destroyed and only enough substitutes can be raised to hold a forty-four-mile front in Belgium. The British losses, particularly those of officers, have been very heavy. The army of 3,900,000 men which Lord Kitchener promised six months ago has not yet appeared and our opponents in the west never again will be able to raise superior forces to expel the Germans from the country.

"The action in the Dardanelles which has been in progress for months against the Turks shows results for the British and French only in great losses of men, ships and war supplies of all kinds. The Turkish army steadily is improving in numbers and quality. The Turkish fortifications are quite as strong as they were at the outset. The prospects of the attackers reaching Constantinople, therefore, have vanished and since none of the Balkan states are willing to enter the Anglo-French service and since the Russian army which should have penetrated from Odessa has been destroyed in Galicia, it is difficult to see any chances for France and Great Britain.

"Should Italy send an army to the Dardanelles it will find a superior Turkish army ready to receive it. Italy, after conducting mobilization secretly for nine months, entered the field against Austria-Hungary at the end of May. An Italian army, 1,000,000 men strong, has been attempting for two months to sweep over the fortified Austrian passes and to cross the Isonzo river, behind which the Austro-Hungarian defensive army occupies strong positions. All the attempts of the Italians up to the present have been unsuccessful. The cost of the attacks has been hundreds of thousands in dead and wounded. Austria-Hungary grows stronger day by day, although its valiant struggle is a difficult one against Italian superiority in numbers. It will be able to bar the way to the coastland and to Trieste and Tyrol.

"Meanwhile Italy has lost its entire colony at Tripoli to the Arabs and ap-

Chile, because the Monmouth and Good Hope depended for the most part on six-inch guns, while the German cruisers Gneisenau and Scharnhorst carried many 8.8-inch guns. The victory at the Falkland Islands was easy for the British battle cruisers Invincible and Inflexible and their escorts because they mounted twelve-inch guns and also were much faster than the German ships.

"Weights and Armament Count. "In warship duels also, weight and armament were decisive. The Sydney, armed with six-inch guns, was thus able to destroy the Emden, with only 4.1-inch cannon.

"The lessons which may be drawn from past events may be summed up briefly as follows:

"Superiority of technical material plays, as in earlier naval battles, an important role, perhaps to a greater extent now than before. Given crews practically equal in skill, the side which is inferior in artillery and speed is at so heavy a disadvantage that victory is possible only under exceptionally favorable circumstances.

"The submarine has proved itself a thoroughly dangerous weapon, to which unsuspected possibilities must be conceded. All methods of defense hitherto employed have failed to fulfill their purpose in requisite manner.

"Dirigibles and aeroplanes have not only demonstrated their value in scouting, but also, have been engaged effectively upon the offensive.

"The lessons learned since, thus far will have a marked influence upon the construction of fleets, and I can understand, in the United States, efforts are being made to take advantage of them."

"The German fleet may boast that the offensive spirit it has displayed has constituted the most prominent and decisive feature of all the naval war theaters. War was declared against Russia on August 1, and on August 2 the cruiser Augsburg bombarded the Russian port of Libau. The declaration of war against France was issued August 3, and on the following day the cruisers Goeben and Breslau shelled the troop embarkation points of Phillippeville and Bona, on the North African coast. What the Omaha Theaters Offer This Week

"The Aviator," a farce comedy which enjoyed a successful season throughout the east last year will be the Edward Lynch Players' production at the Brandeis theater for the week beginning to-night and the seventh week of their all-summer season at that playhouse.

"The Aviator" offers the largest, loudest and longest laughs of your life. The story is briefly as follows: Robert Street, a well known author, has written a "best seller," "The Aviator." He decides to take a vacation, goes to a summer resort, is recognized and permits his admirers to persist in their belief that he is a successful aviator. A French aviator appears at the resort and much against his will Street, in order to carry out the deception which he has been a party to, is compelled to arrange for a flight. He does so, finally lands safely and the curtain descends as he promises his sweetheart never to fly again.

Mr. Lynch will appear as Robert Street, the erstwhile aviator, and Miss McGrane will have the part of Grace Douglas, his sweetheart. Arrangements have been made for the use of a full-sized aeroplane which will be used on the stage at every performance.

"The Girl From Out Yonder," a play that is new to Omaha is in preparation for next week.

Ione McGrane—Leading Woman—At the Brandeis

Kathryn Jamison—At the Empress

"The Three Lyses head the bill at the Empress for Sunday and the first half of the week, with a musical oddity entitled, "Tinkling Tunes for the Tired Theater Goer." Lloyd Sebina and company have a comedy dramatic sketch, "The Third Floor Front," was well received here last summer, and no doubt will prove popular again. Murphy and Malone, two funsters, who are billed as "Talkologists," have a brilliant line of comedy chatter. The Jamison Duo, otherwise known as "The Queens of Harmony," offer a line of new songs. "The Girl of the Gypsy Camp," is the feature photograph, dealing with a band of gypsies who abduct a child and later force her to steal from her own father. An asserted program including an animated cartoon comedy, "Dreamy Dad Goes Bear Hunting," a Kalem comedy "When Willie Sleeps," and the Heart-Relief News completes the bill.

For today only, Alec Francis will be featured at the Hipp theater, in William A. Brady's former success, "After Dark." Monday and Tuesday William Faversham, who is considered by many critics to be America's greatest actor, will be seen in the film version of Sir Gilbert Parker's great work, "The Right of Way." Dainty Marguerite Clark will be the attraction Wednesday and Thursday, in Daniel Frohman's famous play, "Seven Sisters." This five parts that make up the production fill an evening with laughter. The play is clean and merry, and acted as well if not better than any and farce yet seen on the screen.

Ina Claire, supported by Carlyle Blackwell, will be seen Friday and Saturday, in Harold MacGrath's romance, "The Puppet Crown." This is Miss Claire's second appearance on the screen and her success has been instantaneous.

A series of particularly good features has been booked for the Aldrome for the first half of this week, commencing to-night. This is in accordance with the new policy of showing the big feature photo plays at the Aldrome instead of a general program as has been the custom, and is the result of many requests by patrons of the popular West Farnam street amusement place.

Sunday night's program will be a

MOSQUITOES ARE UNUSUALLY ACTIVE
Health Commissioner Connell announces Omaha mosquitoes are unusually militant just now.

One of the reports brought to the health office by the mosquito brigade was from Buck Taylor, superintendent of city gas lighting. Mr. Taylor lives in a cottage on the Riverside drive, Carter lake. Friday evening he observed a mosquito with one leg on a table and the other leg on the top of a lemonade (i-e-m-o-n-a-d-e) glass, drinking the refreshment with avidity.

A posse is in pursuit of the mosquitoes along the Riverside drive.

This feature consists of 1,000 feet of film, depicting familiar scenes and faces of local prominent Elks in their parade and exercises.
