

WEDS MONTH AFTER HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Henry Browning, Whose Husband Died in Sensational Manner, Takes Third Husband.

IS SUED FOR DOCTOR'S BILL

Mrs. Pearl H. Browning, aged 26, widow of the late Henry M. Browning, who died June 24 as the result of swallowing bichloride of mercury tablets, was married July 25 to Harold O. Holland, 24 years old, an actor, at Enfield, Conn.

Information of the wedding came to the probate court in Omaha from the department of vital statistics of Connecticut. Mrs. Holland left Omaha three weeks ago immediately following a settlement for $18,000 of $25,000 accident insurance claim.

The settlement of the insurance claim proceeded a coroner's inquest by a few hours, an agreement having been made as a part of the consideration that the cause of Mr. Browning's act should not be inquired into at the inquest.

Suit for Doctor's Fees. Dr. Albert F. Condon has filed suit in county court against Mrs. Browning for $200 fees for medical attendance on her late husband while he was on his death bed. Other claims against the estate are pending.

Mrs. Browning's marriage to Harold O. Holland, the actor, was her third matrimonial venture, according to information given when the license was secured. Mr. and Mrs. Browning had two daughters, aged 9 and 3 years, one each, by former marriage.

Mrs. Holland formerly was an actress and told friends that she had had experience as a nurse. She came to Omaha with Mr. Browning five years ago.

Brownings Popular Here. Mr. Browning became manager of the Scott Advertising company and was successful and popular in business circles. Both he and his wife became well known and popular in social circles and had many warm friends in Omaha. Mr. Browning was 31 years old.

Friends and acquaintances of the late Mr. Browning and the widow were surprised by the news of her marriage to Mr. Holland, but said they knew that she had previously had an acquaintance with him.

Bryan to Speak at Omaha Press Club

William J. Bryan has accepted the invitation to be the guest of the Omaha Press club at a dinner to be given some time this summer. In a letter the club has just received from him, written at San Francisco, he says that although his time is pretty well taken up for the present, he will be glad to avail himself of the first opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of the club. A date for the dinner is to be arranged later, as the invitation sent Mr. Bryan some time ago left it to the ex-secretary of state to name a time that would suit his convenience.

CADILLAC EIGHT AGAIN SHATTERS SOME RECORDS

The Cadillac eight has shattered another record—this time racing with a Union Pacific special train from Denver to Cheyenne, and arriving at the station two minutes before the train.

The regular schedule of the Union Pacific between Denver and Cheyenne is three hours; but Engineer Charles Burdick of the Denver Post special, which carried 100 of Denver's most prominent business men to Cheyenne for the Frontier day celebration, was instructed to make the run in two hours and fifteen minutes. Burdick was true to his trust, but when he pulled his train into the Cheyenne station after his record run he found that the Cadillac eight had preceded him by two minutes.

All Union Pacific records for the run, however, were broken, and the special at one time touched a speed of eighty miles an hour, which is said to be the fastest a locomotive has ever traveled in Colorado.

FRIENDLY CONTEST IS BEST, SAYS WILES

Visiting New York Business Man Advises Frequent Interchanges with One's Competitors.

HIGH AIM ALWAYS IS BEST

"The wise business man of today visits his competitor and talks over the business with him," said J. H. Wiles of New York, vice president of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company, in a talk at the business men's chalet at Carter lake last night. "Then he goes back to his own plant with new ideas and better energy for carrying them out."

"Every merchant should lay out a mental course and work to it all ways. The merchant who never aims high, never gets anywhere. But the man who aims high may never reach the goal he has set out for, but he will go a long way toward it."

Mr. Wiles referred to the movement on foot here to weld the retailers of the state into one big organization instead of having them divided into dozens of associations as a worthy movement and a step in the right direction.

"There is no more reason for the retailers of the state to be divided into dozens of specialized associations," he said, "than there is for Omaha to have fifty commercial clubs."

S. R. McKelvie, former lieutenant governor, spoke on the merchant, saying that he fills a need and that that is his excuse for existence. He emphasized the importance of advertising in the success of a merchant and declared that it is by advertising alone that new inventions are brought into use.

There was no afternoon program of the chalet, owing to the fact that two big attractions were on in Omaha besides the chalet. These were the Booster base ball game and the races.

Here is Saturday's program: Daylight to 8 A. M.—Boating, bathing, fishing. 8 A. M.—Children's egg race and potato race. 10 to 12 A. M.—Love feast and general experience meeting, Nathan Roberts presiding. 1:30 P. M.—Band concert. 4 P. M.—Water sports, men's boat battle. 7:30 P. M.—Music, Latach brothers; moving pictures. 11 P. M.—Taps.

Wright and Emery Swap a Few Stories

E. J. Wright, fireman on the battleship Virginia, passed through Omaha yesterday on his way to Yan Tsu-shi, Wyo., where he will spend his leave. He stopped in Omaha to see George Emery, motorcycle officer, formerly a shipmate of Wright's.

The two men told many a yarn at the police station, concerning their experiences, and enlarged considerably on a trip they once took from Manila to Shanghai, China, when they were caught in a typhoon, and entered port several days overdue. They were on their way to Hankow, in the interior of China, where the missionaries were having trouble, according to the narrators, with cannibal Chinamen, whose appetites worried the Christian inhabitants of the vicinity. The stories of the trip were weird and exciting, and lasted until Wright found it necessary to leave to catch his train.

Passengers became excited when they learned after reaching Columbus their train had run at least ten miles with the pilot lifeless.

Heart disease caused his death.

HAPPENINGS IN THE MAGIC CITY

James Wyness, Head Cattle Buyer for Morris, is Transferred to Oklahoma City.

SUB-TREASURY ACTION PLEASES

James Wyness, former head cattle buyer for the Morris Packing company at the stock yards, and now chief cattle buyer for the company at Oklahoma City, was visiting at the yards yesterday, bidding his many friends goodby.

Excellent prospects are in store for the Oklahoma yards, the cattlemen told friends yesterday. He even predicted that within ten years the yards at that point would be crowding Kansas City among the great markets of the world, so good were the grazing prospects in the surrounding country.

His many friends gave him a warm reception and when he wasn't looking pinned a beautiful diamond stick pin in his tie while he was standing in the lobby of the Exchange building. He said he thought he would like his new home immensely.

Each Treasurer to Be Maintained. The definite assurance given yesterday by members of the County Board of Supervisors at their meeting in the county court house, that the subtreasury now located in the South Side city hall would be retained, was received with great approval by citizens of the city. The action of the board was commented on freely by citizens and all seemed gratified to the board for this forecasted decision.

Three men, including former City Treasurer P. J. Martin, who is at present visiting in Chicago, will be kept in the local department. During the busy months of the year an extra clerk will be retained, generally not more than a period of three months. At present a clerk from the main office is assisting the books turned over by the former city treasurer at the event of consolidation. This work is rapidly nearing a finish.

"Hello!" B-r-r-r! Zip! Ding-a-ling. "Hello!"

No answer. "Hello!" Mike howled again.

"Number, number, please," came lightly over the wire in one of those soprano tones that have made many a determined business man forget part of his New Year's resolutions.

"Number, nothing. Somebody was trying to get the station and the phone rang," Mike answered back.

"I beg your pardon, but nobody called South 20," Miss Central tartly replied. A swell ear-splitting snap and Mike was wondering simultaneously whether his ears had been totally blown out or whether the telephone office was too far away to make a lone attack that same moment.

A pause. B-r-r-r! Zip! B-r-r-r! Ding-a-ling! "Now I got you," Mike muttered as he grabbed the receiver.

"Hello!" No answer. "Hello, there! Who are you?" Mike reiterated.

"Number, please," central retorted. At which Mike all but had a fit. Assembling his senses for a bit of private conversation, the desk sergeant explained the situation.

"Somebody's trying to make a fool out of somebody," the sweet central tartly answered, and with a cutting snap over the wire cut off the connection.

Maybe eardrums lost their identity at that moment, but Mike didn't say anything.

"Aw, what can you do," he said as he turned around in his chair. "Those centrals—well, you can't get around them, that's all."
