By MELLIFICIA. Thursday, August 26, 1915.

It is of special note and interest to follow the progress and achievements of our ambitious ones when they go to elsewhere circles, to ply their way in the career ocean.

This ocean, it may be true, has claimed but a few devotees from our midst, but it is to be remarked that when Omahans go they "make good," in the language of the street and many have climbed to the top of the ladder of success.

The most recent one to add honors to his native city is Mr. George Clarke, son of Mrs. Jessie Clarke of Omaha. Mr. Clarke is taking a leading part, that of the newspaper man, in May Irwin's new production, "Number 13 Washington Square," which opened Monday evening of this week at the Park theater in New York City.

Mr. Clarke is unusually gifted in theatrical ability and has had experience in stock work. He climbed very fast and after a few months only in the amateur field gained the heights.

Ruskin to Show

Real Nature Animal Pictures at Boyd's

Hunting wild game with a moving picture camera is the vocation of John W. Ruskin, Omaha man, who is to open the Boyd theater Sunday night, August 29, with his close-to-nature motion pictures.

Ten years seems a long time to work to get pictures, but when one takes into consideration that Ruskin and his associates were frequently compelled to wait for weeks at a time to get even one picture of an animal, as it lives in its natural haunts, it does not take ten years long to pass.

Probably the most novel "artifice" ever constructed for stalking nature is the cow that was designed for approaching wild animals in safety. This was made of paper-mache and stands fifteen feet in height. The carcass is built of substantial frame work, so as to withstand hard usage, the skin being represented by the paper-mache covering, colored and tinted according to nature. Within the cow a platform was erected and from the inside the operator secured his pictures by placing his lens in a hole especially constructed in the side of the neck. Here the operator lived, waited and watched.

Ruskin's wild life pictures were recently shown in Indianapolis under the auspices of the Indianapolis News, and from the crowds that attended the Shubert-Murat theater, it would indicate that these pictures are of unusual interest.

Omaha's First Soda Expert Pays Visit

A. C. MacMahon, Omaha policeman twenty-five years ago, is visiting his former haunts. He is one of the leading sales agents for the National Cash Register company.

Mr. MacMahon was the first soda water expert to come to Omaha. He opened the first expensive soda fountain, which was in E. W. Beady's drug store at the northeast corner of Fifteenth and Farnam streets, then known as the Boyd theater corner. Later he was a policeman under Chief Seavey.

He called on Chief Dunn, who remembered the former soda water impresario and guardian of the peace.

FIVE SECTIONS OF ONE TRAIN TO RUN SATURDAY

Saturday the Union Pacific will bring its Denver train into Omaha in five sections, all arriving between 4 and 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. On board the trains they will have some 300 persons who will spend two or more hours in the city, going east over the North-western and Milwaukee roads.

The people coming on the Union Pacific trains Saturday afternoon are those returning from the Pacific coast expositions, and are now enroute home.

So far as the travel to the expositions is concerned, the railroad passenger men feel that it is pretty well over so far as large parties are concerned. However, there are still a large number of visitors on the Pacific coast and they look for a heavy movement east for some weeks to come.

35,000 NAMES FILED IN CHURCH CENSUS

Assigned to Special Work of Importance for Billy Sunday's Coming Campaign.

MRS. DAVID COLE IS CHAIRMAN

Five Omaha women have now been assigned to special work of great importance during the coming Sunday religious campaign.

Mrs. David Cole is chairman of the entire work among women, with special supervision of the work for clerks and office women in the down-town district.

Co-operating with her and securing a co-operative committee of "key women" in every department of every street, one every floor of every building and in every section of every factory, is Mrs. May Finley, chairman of the business women's invitation committee.

Mrs. M. H. Blackwell is chairman of what is known as extension work among women and deals with all employed girls outside of the down-town district, including factory workers and domestics.

As the principal work for business women in the down-town district is carried on by means of a luncheon and Bible study hour from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. four days a week, a luncheon committee is required. Mrs. George Wickersham heads this committee.

Nursery for Small Children. Another important department of the work is the nursery, which is required because no small children, who might disturb the tabernacle meetings, are allowed in the building. A free nursery where children will be cared for and entertained by volunteer nurses will be established in the store room next door to the Union Gospel mission, at 314 Davensport street, within a block of the tabernacle. This will be in charge of a large committee representing all the churches, under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. T. Graham.

All these committee chairmen will secure a delegation of women from each church large enough to have two women to have supervision of each business house or factory where as many as twenty girls are employed.

Most of the doorkeepers, ushers and secretaries for the Billy Sunday meetings have now been appointed. About 130 doorkeepers, 400 ushers and

Two big things have been accomplished. First, a printed invitation has been left by a personal representative in nearly all the homes in Omaha, an invitation to attend the Billy Sunday meetings. Second, we have definite information on file that will be of the greatest value for religious work all over the city.

Ministers to Use Statistics.
"A pastor in any neighborhood can now come here and in a short time learn the religious status of all the families in his range of influence. He can see at a glance just where those who, perhaps, do not go to church, but who have religious preferences toward his denomination. He can see where those who don't go to church and say they have no religious preferences, and he can perhaps win them to the work of the church."

No tabulation of the census results will be made to give statistics of the numbers of each denomination and of the non-church-going population. This would involve enormous work and expense and would not add anything to the value of the facts.

NAVAL OFFICER WOUNDED IN WAR WITH GAS STOVE

Lieutenant Thomas Murray Tipton, officer in charge of the local navy recruiting station, was wounded under fire Wednesday morning. Lieutenant Tipton, who has a hobby of preparing a meal for himself occasionally, was endeavoring to prepare breakfast in his apartments, when he became interested in something on the back of the stove. Reaching over to move it, he placed his bare arm directly on a section of red-hot gas stove, whereupon the aforesaid arm was painfully injured. Hero-like, the lieutenant did not call for first aid to the injured treatment, but with Spartan fortitude he finished preparing the meal. Unfortunately, our naval hero will not secure a pension on this injury alone.

New Bank Building Sketch Received

A preliminary sketch of the new First National bank building to be erected at Sixteenth and Farnam streets has been received at the bank from the architect at Chicago. The building presents an imposing appearance, fourteen stories high, built of granite, terra-cotta and "Equitable" brick.

Up to a height of one floor the front is to be of granite, perhaps, a red granite. Above that to the level of three floors the front is to be terra-cotta to match the granite. The remainder of the finish is to be in "Equitable" brick, which is a brick with a white porcelain face flecked with black.

The granite is to be highly polished instead of the rough finish that has been common for the lower fronts of big office buildings.

The first floor is to be store apartments. The second and third are to be used for the bank. The rest of the floors are to be for offices.

The building is to be full lot size, sixty-six feet on Farnam street and 133 on Sixteenth street.
