THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

FOUNDED BY EDWARD ROSEWATER.

VICTOR ROSEWATER, EDITOR.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietor. BEE BUILDING, FARNAM AND SEVENTEENTH. Entered at Omahs postoffice as second-class matter. TERMS OF SUDBURDETION

| A ALEXAND VID BUILDUITE LAUTA | ALC: 100 |
|--|------------------------------|
| By carrier | By mail |
| per month. | THE |
| per monta. | Der Sowie |
| 1 saily and Sunday | |
| Daily without Sunday | 4.00 |
| Durity without Gunday | TRAFFICE TOWN |
| Evening and Sunday |  8-9J |
| Evening without Sunday | 4.00 |
| Evening without Sunday |  3100 |
| Sunday Bee only | anniales 2.00 |
| Send notice of change of address or com | minimizer of |
| mente notice of charge of address of con | ATT MATERIA |
| irregularity in delivery to Omaha Bee, | Circulation |
| | and the second second second |
| Department. | |

REMITTANCE REMITTANCE. Rendt by draft, express or postal order. Only two-counts tramps teceived in payment of small ac-counts. Personal checks, except on Omaha and eastern axchange, not scoepted.

OFFICES. Omaha-The Bay Building: Fouth Omaha-Mis N street. Council Bluffs-14 North Main street. Lincoln-26 Little Building. Chicago-901 Hearst Building. New York-Room 106 Ess Fith avenue. St. Louis-503 New Bank of Commerce. Washington-725 Fourteenth St., N. W.

CORRESPONDENCE. address communications relating to news and odi-torial matter to Omaha Bee, Editorial Department.

JULY CIRCULATION.

53,977

State of Nebraska, County of Douglas, sa.: Dwight Williams, circulation manager of The Bee Publishing company, being duly sworn, says that the average circulation for the mouth of July, 1915, was 15,977.

DWIGHT WILLIAMS, Circulation Manager, Bubscribed in my presence and sworn to before me, this 3d day of August, 1915. BOBERT HUNTER, Notary Public.

Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

September 1

Selected by Mary B. Newton Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul As the swift seasons ro.l. Leave thy iow vaulted p st! Let each new temple nobier t an the last Shut thee from neaven with a dome more vast Till thou at length art free, Leaving thy ourgrown shel. by life's unresting -O.iver Wendell Ho.mes. sec.

Diplomacy scores victories more enduring than war.

= #?

If the war is to be over in October, it cannot last more than another sixty days.

Now is the accepted time to consider the gaunt look of the coal pile and get wise.

The short ballot is bound to come sooner or later, in Nebraska as well as in New York.

Help make Merchants' week a hummer and it will become a fixture on Omaha's calendar.

Apparently there is no such word as "cure" in the lexicon of the state pure food commisgloner.

To be real frank with ourselves, Secretary Garrison seems to be the only live one in the cabinet.

Novogeorgievsk was smashed to bits by Teu-

Those Eight Million Men in Buckram.

Some badly tangled figures purporting to show an alarming proportion of aliens in this country who refuse to assume the obligations of our citizenship are going the rounds, and are being accepted at face value as official. In the Western Laborer, a local publication here devoted to the interests of wage-workers, these ilgures, plainly quoted from another source, take this form.

That there are $,00,000 able-bodied men in the United States who owe allegiance to European nations, was disclosed in Labor department statistics. These naturalization bureau ligures showed 14,000,000 foreignborn citizens in the country who have not acquired citizenship. The war has directed attention to this staggering number of men who come to the United States and then refuse to become citizens.

Such a situation would indeed be "staggering" if true, but that there is something wrong with the numbers somewhere is quickly discovered by any one seeking to verify them.

According to the last census-and the 1910 figures, relatively speaking, hold good todaythe total number of foreign born persons-men, women and children-in the United States are 13,515,886. It is therefore preposterous to say that we have 14,000,000 foreign born persons who have not acquired citizenship.

The last census figures likewise show that the total number of foreign born males over twenty-one years of age in the United States is 6.646,817. It is therefore even more preposterour to say that there are $,000,000 able-bodied men in the United States who owe allegiance to European nations.

While statistics covering the number of foreign born who have become naturalized are not accessible to us, some light may be secured from o comparison with the election returns. Here in Nebraska the census gives us in round figures 250,000 male inhabitants of voting age, and the highest vote cast is approximately 275,000, which with the addition of the usual ten per cent for the vote not polled would bring the number of eligible to vote in this state well above 300,000. If Nebraska is typical, then, it would be not far out of the way to figure at most fifteen per cent of those of voting age to be ineligible to vote, and fifteen per cent for the whole country would be less than 1,090,000. So "the $,000,000 able-bodied men in the United States who owe allegiance to European nations" must be for the most part merely 8,000,000 men in buckram.

The Ballot and the People.

Senator Root's speech to the New York constitutional convention, in favor of the short ballot, will bring the subject prominently forward for discussion again. His arraignment of "invisible government" is strong and virile, but the strongest argument for the short ballot does not rest on that point alone. The fragmentary report of Senator Root's remarks, furnished for the news columns, gives no mention of the real reasons for removing a great many of the minor offices of government from the elective to the appointive classification. These reasons are numerous and potent, and are coming more and more to be understood and accepted by students of our political structure. The short ballot does not mean taking the power away from the people, whose rule will be more absolute when it is concentrated on the election of responsible administrative and executive officers. The Bee's plea for the short ballot met with only partial response in Nebraska, where the length of the ballot has reached such proportions as to be ridiculous as well as to effectually prevent an intelligent and discriminating exercise of the voter's choice. If New York should adopt the proposed reform, it may encourage Nebraskans to similar action.

On Folly of Extravagance

Winnifred Cooley in Mother's Magazine_

T THE outset we should realize that the term A 'extravagance' is susceptible of varying ne tions. It is a sliding scale, depending upon time and personal income. What is extravagant for one person manifestly is not extravagant for another. Again, what is extravagant in one time of our life, is not in another. The reprehensible part of modern extravagance, is that we pursue it so largely in order to impress other people. If a luxury is really the expression of some vital need with us, it may not be an extravagance. Frequently a person will make many minor sacrifices in order to secure some expensive thing which seems to him the most necessary thing in the world. For instance, students of music, who believe that they possess extraordinary talent, will nearly sta ve for years, in order to pay enormous prices for lessons. These sums would be extravagant for most of us, but are not so if the worker believes that he is fitting himself for a career which will one day bring him jame and fo tune.

But the useless extravagance is that which induces us to pay out abaud sums because "every one is We are cowards, in mortal terror of rundoing it." ning counter to conventional ty or not measuring up to certain standards set by others. One of the commonest, yet most contemptible sayings of which all of us moderns are guilty, is: "If I give a dinner, I insist on doing it right." The word "right" thus used, has no moral significance whatever-what we mean is, "If I give a dinner, I am going to do it in a certain conventional manner, to prove to my guests that I know how wealthy people entertain." Not to begin meal with oysters on the half-shell, or seed grapefruit, or bouillon, would argue that we were not accustomed to the usages of good society. People, therefore, in quite humble financial circumstances, agonize over necessary entertaining, serve multitudinous courses, reduce their guests to a state of lethargysolely to show that they known how wealthy people Once in awhile, a wise, serene housekeeper serves a simple, nutritious and delicious meal-a juicy beef steak, or an appetizing saind, with a few accessories, quite indifferent to the fact that it is not done in the best society. If her friends are discriminating they rise up and call her blessed!

One form of extravagance consists in wearing clothes that are not appropriate. It is not extravagant for a wealthy woman, who always rides in usine, to wear white suede shoes or French-heeled satin slippers, or shoes with light cloth tops. It is a manifest extravagance for the working woman, obliged to walk through muddy streets, to indulge in such impractical footgear. Yet, because those who set the fashions decree that white or champagnecolored gaiters are the latest mode, every shopgiri is miserable until she can purchase them! The result to beholders is most distressing, as the light colors are usually stained and splashed with mud. There is nothing refined about dirty finery. Some people in our modern life (in small towns as well as cities) honestly believe that they are not extravagant, because they cannot conceive of any way by which they can possibly economize. Men and women imagine many vain things which they take for gospel truth. They often say: "It always pays to purchase good things." In one sense, this is true. A good quality of material will outlast a shoddy, cheap material. The extravagance or economy of a purchase may depend, however, on other things. If you are one of the women of moderate income who cast aside a suit or a gown the moment the least change of style has taken place, then it is certainly not nomy to buy an expensive gown. One for a lower price will look as well for a short season.

People in very moderate circumstances have formed in the last few years, habits of entertaining at public restaurants and cafes, because unwilling to give a little thought and attention to meals in the home. In many cases this is a foolish extravagance. The temptation is to order recklessly and indiscriminately. and there are all manner of other necessary expenditures, including the tipping of waiters. The actual materials for excellent refreshments are comparatively cheap; it only needs that the housekeeper take the trouble to cook them. Of course there is much to be said in behalf of the case of entertaining in public. It certainly is not extravagant, when the woman giving a luncheon or dinner is a hard-worked professional or business woman, but these are not the women to whom these remarks apply.

County Road Improvements.

NORTH LOUP, Neb., Aug. 21 .- To the Editor of The Bee: There is much discussion just at this time with respect to the construction of macadamized roads. If, when we begin a job of work, we would carefully go over the subject and find where other people have failed in that same class of work, we might save much expense and many mistakes. Is the concrete and brick roadbed a proper method of building long stretches of permanent road? I will say no, and I will give my reasons for saying it. Roads of a smooth concrete surface are not good auto roads in wet, frosty weather. Any class of concrete is too apt to crack and become rough. Brick is better surfacing than concrete. One of the necessary elements in per manent roads is to get a surface that will absorb the water and remain perfectly solid and remain free from a sleek, silding surface. The materiaj most ideal for roadbeds is the Sherman Hill gravel used on the Union Pacific railroad. It would not become sleek, the water runs through it like a sleve; it is very firm for the heavier roads. The only repairs necessary is a shovel to smothen down. Autos would not skid on it. If the state were to make arrangements for it the cost should be much lower than cement and brick Public improvements cost too much from the fact that much money is spent in vain on 01-designed works. WALTER JOHNSON.

Some School Questions.

OMAHA, Aug. 31 .- To the Editor of The Bee: We taxpayers are extremely grateful to your paper for exposing the secret sessions of the Board of Education as you are, for we are vitally interested in how our representatives are using the money and power we have entrusted to them.

There are a few other itenus that the taxpayers and patrons of the Omaha public schools should be acquainted with. For instance, those of us who have known about it have been inconsed for two years at the arrangement of the teachers' pay days. It is humiliating, to say the least, for the teachers who are paying the family grocery and meat bills (and few of them are not), to ask the grocers and butchers to wait until after the middle of each month for the settlement of their accounts, because their warrants are not issued earlier in the month.

Of course, we understand that the attorney for the Board of Education has declared it illegal to make out the teachers' payroll until the four weeks' teaching has been completed. Why is it more illegal to pay the teachers at the end of four weeks' work than it is to pay the Board of Education office force, and the janitors and engineers at that time? It has just "leaked out" that the teachers' committee has said their policies in the future are to change the teachers about every year, and not let them know until the last minute before school opens in September, where they are assigned. Both policies, to our notion, are bad and unjust. If a teacher is successful in one district, with one class of children, why change her, unless she so desires, to a district or class in which she has to waste at least several months adjusting herself, her methods, the children, and everything else? Would it be good busineas for a merchant employing a clerk who was an expert in selling shoes, to change him to the china department, and then when he was beginning to do good work there, to put him behind the silk counter? Is not the human mind and its training as important as the selling of goods?

Nebraska Editors

John F. Bixby, formerly editor of the lenoa Lender, is the new associate editor t the Osceola Democrat. Colonel Cecil Mathews, editor of the Riverton Review, has been appointed deputy collector of internal revenue. Editor Schmled of the Dakota City Eagle last week printed a full page of portraits of pioneers of Dakota county. H. O. Cooley, formerly editor of the St. Paul (Neb.) Republican, has been nopointed secretary of the Commercial club of St. Paul, Minn.

The slue springs Sentinel, J. H. Casepeer, publisher, issued a ten-page booster edition last week. It is beautifully illustrated and is a fine specimen of the printer's art.

Ecidgeport News-Blade: The Alliance Herald and Alliance Times must have declared an armistice. Well, the armistice should have been declared before the fight began.

issued a fine booster edition of twentyfour pages. It is printed on book paper and nandsomely illustrated.

Brother Woods is a half century younger. Seventy-five young schoolma'ams have made Gering a blessed dream during the last week. And he was years old yesterday, too.

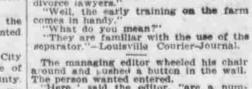

Hastings Tribune: Old King Sampson of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben has fixed Adjeu, adjeu, thou sundfly sinner. September 6 as editors' night at the Den.

Any Nebraska editor who is found at home on that night ought to be shot on the spot-yes, any old spot will do.

MIRTHFUL REMARKS.

"Safe burglars do not boast about their

"Why should they?" "Yet they are always blowing about their business."-Baltimore American. "I wouldn't marry you if you were the lat man on earth!" said the girl. "Well.' replied the young man who inwyers.

farm.

inkes everything seriously, "if I were the ast man on carin I'd se mourning so many fiends and relatives that I don't suppose I'd feel mich ille taking pirt in a wedding anynow."-Washington Star.

"It is hard to keep our boys on the farm," said the Nevada asriculturist. "They all want to go to Reno and be

The managing editor wheeled his chair around and sushes a button in the wall. The person wanted entered. "Here,' said the editor, "are a num-ber of directions from outsiders as to the best way to run a newspaper. See that they are all carried out,' and the office boy, sathering them all into a large wastebasket, did so.-Washington Life.

GOOD-BYE.

Goodbye, goodbye to Michigan. Where I've acquired a coat of tan. Nor e'er had need to wag a fan.

"The "au revelr" to cozy bog, To pitcher-picht and mossy log, Also to small green spotted frog.

A. H. Backhaus, editor and proprietor of the Pierce County Leader, last week Farewell beach log and summer moon.

Adieu adieu, thou sandy beach, Where whitecaps do their beat Where whitecaps do their best to reach T eir long long arms to cull a peach.

A long farewell, thou painted cup Whose scurlet chalice is held up To tempt the weary ones to sup.

Farewe'l, farewel', thou gentian blue, he lured me into pathways new-I shouldn't have known them but for you.

'ndebted to me for many a dinner-Yet I can't see that I've grown thinner

Also, good bye sandnirer cheery. Your areet notes rested me when w At learing you my eyes feel teary. weary

Likewise farewel! my dear friend Jim. Admo ishing me from von high limb-(Departing trains seem to bother him)

And 'riendly sea gull on your stump, Do you n the that I' e had to hump? Somehow in my throat there is a lump ton artillery. Any attempt to weld the piece deserves a like fate.

Yes 'tis goodbye to Mi hivan pretty, Bu', pray do not w ste on me any nit. For I'm going bick to my o'n home city BAYOLL NE TRELE.

As a sporting proposition any odds may be given on a majority vote sustaining the weather man's remarks on mean temperatures.

Fortunately for the people of Bellevue, ample facilities are at hand for reaching Omaha and exorcising the evil curse in an atmosphere of sanctity.

According to Bishop Bristol, "Billy" Sunday is coming to Omaha, not because it is a bad town, but because it is such a good town. Just let that sink in!

The prospect of peace between Colonel Roosevelt and Colonel Bryan are even gloomier than among Europe's warring powers. Munitions have limitations, caloric none.

Letter carriers more than any other class of public servants get closest to the people. It soes without saying that Omaha hospitality and welcome will be theirs during the national convention.

State Auditor Smith is not going to accept the attorney general's ruling that we have nothing but vacancies on our state railway commission. If Mr. Smith is not careful, the next opinion of the attorney general will create a vacancy in the office of auditor.

The question recurs, Should the Nebraska farmer refuse to sell his horses to be slaughtered in the war over in Europe, regardless of the tempting prices? It is the same question as to whether the American manufacturer should fill orders for war munitions.

Augustus Schermerhorn, division engineer of the Union Pacific for Nebraska, was united in marriage to Mary E. Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Sharp at the residence of the bride's parents, 114 Dodge street, Rev. Harsha performing the ceremony.

The water works company is rapidly laying pipin that heautiful and new residence section of the city, known as Walnut hil.

The meeting of the carpenters' union at Knights of Honor hall was addressed by Edward Rosewater. W. J. Reeves and J. II. Thompson. The eight-hour sent, the benefits of organization and other interesting topics were discussed.

The Arcade hotel on Douglas street between Twelfth and Thirteenth on Douglas has changed hands, the lense and furniture having been sold by O. C. Camp ell, a bo has conducted it for some months, to Julius Casey, a Pennsylvania gentleman.

Mrs. S. D. Bangs left for Kalamazoo, Mich., on mons to the bedside of a sick sister.

J. L. Brandeis, wholesale dealars in dry goods. boots, shoes and no one are moving into their quarters at 506 South Thirteenth street.

E. A. Benson of Davenpart is at the Paxton.

Chief Butler has gone to Long Branch to attend the convention of American fire chiefs.

Ak-Sar-Ben's Growing Greatness.

Some talk was heard last year about abanconing Ak-Sar-Ben. It had outlived its usefulness, said the objectors; the jovial ruler of Guivera had become passe and the people were tired of him and wanted something new. The answer to this is found this season in the largest membership ever enrolled under the banner of the king. The greatest crowds ever assembled at the Den are there each Monday night, and more visitors by many thousands have been entertained by the knights this summer than ever before. Ak-Sar-Ben worn out? Never in all his twenty-one years of active life has Samson's mill for making boosters been so busy an now. The spirit of Ak-Sar-Ben is growing stronger instead of waning, and the king waxes more and more puissant as his prosperity increases and his domain is extended. The institution of Ak-Sar-Ben has proved its usefulness in ways too many to be readily enumerated, and it will be a factor in the life of Nebraska and Omaha for many years to come.

Notable Feat of Naval Engineering.

Bringing into dry dock the remains of submarine F-4 is another notable achievement of the engineers of the United States navy. To do this some new records had to be established. such as the descent of a diver to the unheard-of depth of 215 feet. Deep disappointment will be felt that not one of the crew lost with the boat bas yet been found, and that the processes of rescuing the hull have necessarily destroyed much that would have been useful in determining the cause of the disaster. Enough is there, though, to give the naval experts great assistance in their efforts to solve the problems of undersea navigation, especially as to the difficulties of proper construction, and future submarine sailors will have the advantage of protection thus devised. For the public, the chief interest is that the navy has been successful in wreating from old Neptune's grip the bones of a vessel that seemed hopelessly lost.

Court interference with the last hour appropriations of the Illinois legislature seriously dislocates the science of logrolling and the efficiency of grab. Moreover, the action ties up until the high court speaks the sum of $320,000 and strips the state ple-counter of much salubrious fodder, including extra mileage the lawmakers voted to themselves.

Peru's solution of the problem of what to do with ex-presidents by shooting up two o them does not commend itself for general adoption. Its efficiency is unquestioned, but it would rob succeeding presidents and the public of priceless advice and periodic "statements," which enhance the galety of life

It has become a standing joke that people of modest means in every village, town and city in America, are mortgaging their homes, in order to have a car of some sort. Undoubtedly it is true that some families maintain motor cars, who seem not able to afford them; yet many cars are so inexpensive nowadays, that their initial cost is not great, and the seeming extravagance may be justified by the benefits of the new outdoor life, fresh air, and normal pleasures in which the entire family can participate. The maintenance of a car depends largely on the individual circumstances. People living in the country take care of it themselves, house it in a small shed on the premises, and maintain it for almost nothing. In cities. the cost of keeping a car at a garage is very high; this, many times, is the extravagance.

Many are the fallacies with which people comfort themselves, and excuse running into debt. In its last analysis, extravagance is not only a matter of bad judgment, of bad taste, but of actual immorality. Honesty is one of the foundation qualities of a sound character. Extravagance implies many times the presence of such uniovely qualities as indolence, of weak snobbery, of actual dishonesty.

Twice Told Tales

The Comeback.

T. A. Dorgan, the cartoonist, was trying to hire a chauffeur the other day and went about it in his usually breezy style. When the first applicant appeared Tad said: "Of course, I want a man who can speak French, play pinochie, curry a horse and make a Jack Rose cocktall."

"Well, I can do 'em all and still have a few tricks up my sleeve," said the chauffeur, with becoming modesty.

Tad locked him over and then said, suddenly: "I don't know. When I lamp your face and see your horn painted up that way it strikes me that you an a hard drinker and I don't want any hard drinkers driving a car for me and running me over some picturesque cliff."

"You are wrong," said the driver. "I am not bard drinker. It comes easy to me."-Cartoons Magazine

The Boom Town.

Prairing America's growth, James J. Hill said: 'America's growth almost robs the Tin Can story its hyperbole. "A tender oot, visiting the boom town of Tin Can said to the mayor:

"Why don't you get out literature about this lecality? Why don't you set out booklets, illustratewith official photo-raths? Is it possible you haven't ever had the town photographed?"

"Stranger," said the mayor, "Tin' Can progresses so gosh-almighty fast that there ain't no camera quic. enough to snap it." "-St. Paul Discatch.

People and Events

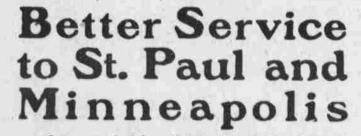

The American commercial attache at Shanghal (c orts that China offers an alluring market for trad chewing gum and playing cards. The former in needed as a substitute for the cope ripe and the latte to atimulate the talent Bret Harte dicovered a Poverty flat.

Word comes out of M'ssouri with all the strength of highbrow authority that the state university will lead a crusade for standard'sing woman's dream Students of home economics," says the university voice, are beginning to ask themselves, "Why should woman spend half her life in dressing and thinking about how she is going to dress?" Sounds like a man's voice. But liston and make sure: "Women," continues the voice, "should assert their independence in selecting clothes that are simple and becoming, and they should wear them until they are worn out." Just like a man. He's the limit.

It is unjust not to notify the teachers of their assignments as soon as possible. Nearly every teacher returns to the city several days prior to the opening of school in order to get settled that she may be able to give her entire time and attention and energy to the strenuous duties of the opening days of school. Supposed one arranged for room and board, paying a month's rent in advance. as is required, in the north part of the city, only to discover after she is settled for the year that she has been assigned to a school in the extreme southern part of the city. Can't the board realize the inconvenience and useless expense that this "policy" means to the TEACHER'S FRIEND. teacher?

Science and Religion

CRESCENT, Ia., Aug. 31 .- To the Editor of The Bee: Don't you worry about "Billy" Sunday. Science is your name, and you have caused the dwellers on earth to worship you; you have made fire come down out of the heavens. "Ben" Franklin was the first to accomplish that feat, through his scientific research. You have filled the brains of Thomas Edison with your science; you have filled the minds of our ministers, and they take the beast in their ohurch parlors, and have lots of fun with him. We are all handicapped; we can neither buy nor sell without the scientific laber on our product. Now the time is at hand when the foolish things of the earth will confound the things that are wise, and the weak things of the earth will confound the things that are mighty, and at the end of the world's greatest war, the Jews will rear up the Kingdom of David, and shall reign for a thousant years. These will be the days when everyone will worship God, and not J. MAUSPERGER. science.

Our new schedules effective August 22, 1915, still further improve Great Western service to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Our Twin City Limited the "get-there-first" train, will carry beside through sleepers, chair cars and coaches, a brand new steel-Buffet-Club car through in both directions.

NEW SCHEDULE

| ricau | DOWN | | Re | ia up |
|-------|----------|-------------|---------|-------|
| .:30 | P. M LA | . Omaha | Ar7:10 | A. M. |
| 8:50 | P. MLv. | Co. Bluffs | Ar6:50 | A. M. |
| 7:30 | A. M Ar. | St. Paul | Lv7:55 | P. M. |
| 8:05 | A. M Ar. | Minneapolis | Lv,7:25 | P. M. |

Notice the early morning arrival in Twin Cities and the improved return schedule.

Day train leaves Omaha 7:29 a. m., Council Bluffs 7:50 a. m., and arrives St. Paul 7:40 p. m., Minneapolis 8:15 p. m. Through first class coaches and cafe Cinb 8:15 p m. Car-NO CHANGE OF CARS.

Under the new schedule Chicago train leaves Omaha 3:45 p. m. and arrives Dubuquo 3:61 a. m., Chicago 7:50 a. m.

For full details of Great Western service call or phone

> P. F. BONORDEN, C. P. & T. A., 1522 Farnam St., Omaha. Phone Douglas 200.

-

Persistence is the cardinal virtue in advertising; no matter how good advertising may be in other respects, it must be run frequently and constantly to be really successful.

Baltimore American: The German spy system is admitted to be well a gh perect in its organization, but an iron ross is due the spy who succeeded in becoming a member of the British Parllament. Springfield Republican: "It's a long way to Tipperary," sang Stella Carol to the survivors in the Arabio's boats. It helped to cheer them up, but as a matter of geography Tipperary was not 100 miles away.

Editorial Siftings

Philadelphia Ledger: If Americans keep off foreign ships in the war some they won't get themselves or their country into trouble, according to Mr. Bryan. and his former associates in the democratic administration in Washington have seen to it that Americans shall not travel in American ships.

Springfield Republican: The obligation of the stranded Americans in Europe who borrowed money from the government to get home with at the outbreak of the war is aurely a debt of honor. Of the 12,000 wein neiped several hundreds have not yet paid up, and Secretary McAdoo is quite right in getting after them with a sharp stick. The money or a good excuse cught to have been forthcoming long ago. First, let the names be published.