WEDNESDAY, September 2, is to be "tag day" for the Visiting Nurse association.

This is the association's annual benefit and the only request for help that is made during the entire year. The coffers at this time, the beginning of a new year, are naturally somewhat depleted, and just now the work for the coming year is being organized.

The debutantes and school set will sell the tags and a special request is made that you donate your little or large sum with a smile. In other words, join the Proverbial Smile club for the day, as the girls hold a particular horror of a frown—especially when it comes from a man.

Mayor Dahlman will present the keys of the city for the day to the directors of the work at the city hall on Wednesday morning, and he has likewise ordered the Welcome Arch lighted for their success.

Among those who will sell tags Wednesday are the Misses Regina Connell and her guest, Mildred Johnston of Chicago; Miss Helen Ingwersen, the Misses Marion and Naomi Towle, Miss Ann Gifford and Miss Isabel Vinsonhaler.

Would-Be Bridegroom Strikes Girl of Choice in Face While Parents Look with Approval.

WEDDING LICENSE IS REFUSED

A story of cruelty that takes one back to the time of the cave man has come to the light through attempts of the parents of an Omaha Italian girl less than 16 years of age to force her to marry a man much older than she and whom she does not love.

The parents, the girl and the would-be bridegroom came to the desk of Marriage Clerk Steubendorf last Friday and the groom asked for a license. The girl burst out crying bitterly and all the threats of her parents could not stop her tears. The parents declared she was over 16 years old and that she must marry the man of their choice.

"I am not yet 16 and besides I do not love him," she protested.

Mr. Steubendorf then had the pleasure of refusing to issue the license. The party went away, but returned again on Saturday, and about the same time occurred. And on last Monday they came in again, the girl showing the signs of much weeping.

Mr. Steubendorf told the parents they would have to bring a birth certificate, that their word was no proof that the girl was over 16.

Call Probation Officer.

They then applied to the priest of their parish, and he turned the matter over to Probation Officer Miller. Mr. Miller went to the girl's home and there the most brutish exhibition of the whole drama of ignorance occurred. The would-be bridegroom struck the girl in the face with his fist right before the probation officer and, it is said, the parents looked on with approval.

So far, at any rate, the girl has succeeded in sticking to her own world ideals of picking her own husband and marrying at a mature age, at least to the extent of not marrying this pre-historic suitor.

Nurses are omitted at request of Probation Officer Miller, because the girl says she fears for her life. However, if the man gives her any more trouble he will find that he has busy policemen instead of girls to deal with.
